A number of complaints have come to my desk regarding the sport page and I will take this opportunity to answer and explain, if I can. Regarding the lack of box scores of the major league ball games; lack of space is the reason we cannot run them every day. For a time we ran all box scores, but there has been so much sport news of interest that we are unable to

When the results of the games reach us in time, the standings are printed in the first edition, which goes to press at 9 o'clock each evening. Some times it is impossible to get the standings figured in time for the first edition, but when time for the first edition, but when can we-do so; you will find them there. They can always be found in the next edition. As for other papers giving the box scores, I am sure that you will find that they do not all give the box scores, other than the leagues in which their own the leagues in the leagues can we-do so; you will find them than the leagues in which their own city is a member and they do not give the readers so great a variety of interesting sporting news. The Bee endeavors to cover each branch of sport as comprehensively as possible and by giving the essential points of a major league ball game this paper is giving all that can be expected. The box scores of each Western league game are always printed, the scores by innings of the National and American leagues and American association and the runs, hits and errors are included, and the results of the Southern association, as a rule. Omaha is a member of the Western league and naturally we give the Western league more prominence than any others.

The dailies in the cities of the major leagues print only the box scores of the leagues in which their team is entered and often, not even the results of other league games. I am glad to get these complaints, and will keep them in mind.
