

SHERIFF CLARK FIRM ON STAND ON HOG NUISANCE

As Chairman of New County Health Board He Says He Will Protect Citizens.

Sheriff Clark, as chairman of the new county board of health, will support citizens of the northwest part of Omaha and beyond the city limits in their protests against the location of a garbage dumping ground by the city at DeBolt station.

Aroused by reports that a garbage and hog yard will be located at DeBolt, and that a nuisance would be created, 100 residents held a meeting of protest Friday night at the DeBolt club, where formal action was taken toward filing protests with the city council and the new county board of health.

Sheriff Promises Protection. Sheriff Clark yesterday reiterated his statement of Friday, that he will protect the citizens of the county against the proposed establishment of a hog and garbage yard at DeBolt. He insists that if such an establishment is not good enough for the city of Omaha, it is not good enough for the county.

"Of course," said Acting Mayor Ure, "if the hog yard at DeBolt should be a hazard to the health of the county, then the county board of health would be justified in causing its abatement, but I don't understand why it should be a nuisance. I hope there will be no smell. It seems to me that a farmer has the right to use his farm as a hog-feeding yard as long as he does not offend others."

"I am not going to get agitated about it," replied City Commissioner Zimman. "If the city can't go to DeBolt with the garbage, then we will have to go somewhere else. I think that the name of 'hog ranch' sounds more objectionable than the actual nuisance would be. A hog ranch may be maintained in a sanitary manner. Why yell before a nuisance has been created? If we can't dispose of the garbage by the hog yard method, then we may have to build a reduction plant."

Would Endanger Water. The protesters at the meeting Friday night emphasized the fact that the Pollack location at DeBolt is on high ground and that much of the waste garbage would be drained into Mill Creek and another contention is that the city water intake above Florence would be in danger of contamination.

It was suggested that the city should establish a garbage disposal ground in the restricted district where fertilizers and rendering plants are located. A committee representing the protesters will appear before the city council committee of the whole next Monday morning.

The city council last week voted to award to Henry Pollack a five-year garbage contract, Pollack indicating that he had arranged for the use of a 110-acre farm at DeBolt. The contract with Pollack has not been presented for signature.

His bride was Clara Larkins and he requests that she be restored to her maiden name. Widdoes was with the army in the Philippines. He had known Miss Larkins two years before he enlisted. Two days after they were married she went to Kansas City, he says. He asserts that he sent her money to come back to Omaha, but that she refused to come.

Lee, 13 years old, was charged with stealing a bathing suit at Riverview park bath house. He has a juvenile court record. Mrs. Matherly asked to have him sent to Father Flanagan's home, but the court ruled that Lee and two other boys, on the same charge, should go to Riverview home. Mrs. Matherly rose to leave the court with her 2-year-old child and immediately dropped to the floor.

Oscar Cook says that his wife, Della Cook, began abusing him about 1898, and has kept it up since then. He filed suit in district court for a divorce. He says he dismissed one previous suit filed May 22, 1919. On June 30, he says, he agreed to forgive her and take her back if she would cease her alleged abuse. On July 7, he says, she again began being cruel to him, refused to cook his meals and struck him and attempted to do him bodily harm. On July 16, he says, he left her.

Adelaide Short alleges in a petition for a divorce from Thomas Short, filed in district court, that he tore up their marriage certificate in a fit of temper. She says he has struck her, used foul language and on one occasion took all her clothing away from her and kept it hidden. Recently, she says, he took their child away into another state. She asks that a restraining order be issued to keep him from taking the child away again.

Henry Reiners and Estelle Reiners were married in 1909. In a petition for divorce filed in district court, Henry says that Estelle informed him on January 29, 1919, that she had no love for him and wouldn't live with him. She left and went to Colorado, he says, and refuses to return and live with him.

Ruth Goodman alleges that Austin Goodman has deserted her and she has applied to the district court for a divorce and the custody of their three children.

John Fowler charges his wife, Hazel, with cruelty in a petition for a divorce filed in district court. He asks for the custody of their three children.

Elizabeth Angus says in a petition for divorce filed in district court that Harry Angus humiliated her by neglecting to pay attention to her and that he said he didn't care for her and she should go home to her mother. She took this alleged advice on October 12, 1917. She asks to be restored to her maiden name, Shelaney.

Decrees of divorce were awarded by Judge Day in divorce court to May Pickett from Emmett Pickett on the ground of non-support with restoration of her maiden name, Tucker; to William Baker from Emma Baker on the allegation of cruelty; to Claud McBride from Mary McBride for cruelty; and to Cora Shaben from Harry Shaben on the ground of cruelty with restoration of her maiden name, Smith.

UNSTABLE LABOR CONDITIONS MAY DELAY BUILDING

Number of Construction Programs May Be Held Up Until General Situation Here Clears.

Because of unstable labor conditions and wage scales, a number of building programs for this summer and fall in Omaha may be delayed.

The Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co., which planned to erect a large wholesale house, has definitely cancelled its plans. H. G. Hoerner, of the Iren Biscuit Co., announced yesterday that if labor unrest continued a proposed $500,000 factory which was to have been erected this summer would not be built.

Trimble Bros., fruit jobbers, announced yesterday that a large wholesale house which they contemplated erecting would be given up unless labor conditions became more settled.

The proposed erection of a giant office building at Nineteenth and Farnam streets, by the American State Bank may be delayed unless labor conditions improve before contracts are let. M. F. Shafer, president, said yesterday: "We are going ahead with our plans, however," said Mr. Shafer.

C. G. Carlberg, realtor, who planned to build a large number of residences during the fall and summer, has announced that he will do little building until conditions become more stable. Common laborers have struck on many jobs in Omaha for 60 and 70 cents an hour. They have been receiving 50 and 55 cents. Plasterers have demanded $1 an hour, and carpenters 90 cents an hour, the raise to take effect by August 1. Other building crafts are also contemplating making demands for higher wages, it is said. Builders say that bids which they receive from contractors average from 15 to 25 per cent higher than their original estimates. Contractors say that they have no idea what a job is to cost them when they bid on it with the present labor unrest, and must bid high or lose money. They attribute some of their difficulty to the high cost of material, but contend that it is directly due to the high cost of labor where the material is produced.

Asks County Attorney to Help Locate Missing Wife

Christ Dohberthien, 3302 Leavenworth street, is seeking his wife, Harriett, who, he says, left him and their four children May 9. He has asked the county attorney's office to help him to find her.

Mr. Dohberthien is a railroad engineer and he says tango teas have lured her away from home while he was out on the road.

"She is somewhere in Omaha," he said. "She telephones to the children once in a while. I want her back, and the children need her."
