

EXTRA SESSION MAY RESULT IN HURT TO CAUSE

Idea That Meeting May Be Concluded in One Day
May Lead to Trouble.

By P. A. BARROWS.
Lincoln, July 27.—There is grave danger that the special session of the legislature called for next Tuesday, July 29, may result in more damage to the cause than would have resulted had the women of Nebraska been forced to wait until another regular session.

The danger comes in that certain parties are endeavoring to create a sentiment that the business of the session can be done in one day. They point to two or three other states which have already done the same thing in one day and appear to believe that it is the right thing for Nebraska to do likewise.

However they fail to show if these other states have a constitution specifically setting forth how a concurrent resolution shall be passed. And even if those states had the same constitutional provision as Nebraska, the matter has not been tested in those states.

Their contention that the national constitution provides no way for states to ratify a constitutional amendment may be true, but to a layman it would seem that in the event that the national constitution provides no manner for a state to ratify an amendment, the constitution of the state which provides how resolutions of a concurrent nature shall pass, would be the logical and only way to handle the matter.

In the past in the ratification of amendments to the national constitution the state legislature has followed the constitutional provision which calls for the reading on the different days in each house. This manner of passage and ratification has never been questioned and has stood through all the years.

A special session of the legislature has been called to ratify an amendment to the national constitution relative to woman suffrage. No other proposition with the exception of the passage of a bill to pay the expenses of the session is mentioned in the call and no other can be taken. If the ratification of the amendment to the constitution is of sufficient consequence to call a special session of the legislature, it is of sufficient consequence that its passage shall in every way be without question.

It is said as an argument in favor of the one-day plan that lawyers have said that it would be constitutional. It is a well known fact that lawyers disagree sometimes. There could not be a law suit if the lawyers did not disagree, and so the argument that some lawyers think that one day would be all that is needed to pass the ratification resolution, does not indicate anything.

Says It Will Stand.
In all probability when the special session meets the lawyers will not more agree than they did in the last session. In the senate Peterson and Cordeau were generally found on one side and Hoagland and possibly Chappel or Neal or Weavering or some other lawyer on the other. Senator Peterson is now contending for the one day session as all that is needed to pass the ratification resolution and says it will stand as such. If the same conditions exist in the special session as in the regular, Senator Hoagland and perhaps Senator Chappel, who is something of a constitutional lawyer himself, may be against the Lancaster county senator. During the last session, just as an example to show that even lawyers are not infallible, Senators Peterson and Cordeau contended that the code bill was constitutional, while Hoagland and Chappel were just as firmly of the belief that it was not. Yet, notwithstanding the contention of the former, the code bill is in the courts.

The call for the special session first calls for the passage of the resolution. The second paragraph provides for the payment of the members, officers and employees and the incidental expenses of said extraordinary session.

Traveling Salesman

Lewis Rubenstein

Youth is far from a handicap to Lewis G. Rubenstein, traveling salesman for the M. F. Shafer Co. Rubenstein is still well under 30 years old—27, to be exact, but despite the fact that he is not so hard on the iron trail as some of the "old war hoes" he takes in orders for a surprising number of advertising novelties.

Although the role of a traveling salesman is still rather new to Rubenstein, yet he is fairly familiar with its opposite. Before signing up to sell goods he had the job of buying for a department store.

Southwestern Iowa is the territory whose business is being given a boost by Rubenstein's cleverly printed devices for bringing in the trade. He carries a long line of goods so that if the hot weather makes a sale a little difficult he can overwhelm his customer by mere numbers. Verily, Rubenstein is said to have "the gift of gab". In fact, other Shafer salesmen concede that the initial "G" between Rubenstein's hind and fore name stands for "gab".

On Friday afternoons Iowa's temporary population is decreased by one and a certain coterie apartment in the Drake Court is the scene of the characteristic ending of movie love sessions. It is said as an argument in favor of the one-day plan that lawyers have said that it would be constitutional.

Members of the legislature living in Lincoln do not need to worry. They will have no expenses other than what they naturally have. But how about the member or the employee who has to come in 100, 200, or even 400 miles? Those farthest away cannot possibly get here without an expense of $25 for railroad fare alone.

Jack Dempsey, World Champ, Passes Through On His Way to Chicago.
Jack Dempsey, world's champion heavy weight, passed through Omaha last night on the Overland Limited bound for Chicago.

Jack refused last week to accept an offer from a Los Angeles movie concern of $1,000,000 for four pictures, according to the champion. "I'd take too long to put on four pictures," commented Jack last night.

"We have 15 offers to consider on Monday and Tuesday," said Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager. "By Tuesday night we hope to know what we intend to do. Lots of things are possible. We may make a coast-to-coast exhibition trip. We may accept a vaudeville offer. Might even accept a movie offer as several good ones have been made. Can't tell until Tuesday anyway what we'll do."

Dempsey and Kearns are alone on the trip. "I left my cheering section back in Salt Lake City," said Jack. "She didn't think she'd like to leave home at least until we find out what we are going to do."

SAYS DAYLIGHT SAVINGS WAS WAR MEASURE

Rev. Alonzo De Larme Thinks
Wilson's Veto of Repeal
Was Disappointment;
Defends Ringer.

Repeal of the daylight saving law and "an attempt to overthrow the city government" were chosen as topics by the Rev. Alonzo Alvin DeLarme at the First Baptist church yesterday morning.

Rev. Mr. DeLarme declared that the daylight saving law was a war measure, that it worked a hardship with a majority of the people, that reason for its continuance had long since passed, and that President Wilson's veto on its repeal had been a great disappointment to a large portion of the people.

"The great city of Cleveland is not observing the law," said Mr. DeLarme. "It's going by the old sun time as near as possible. The law is not only a hardship against farmers, but against laborers in the cities as well. But the chief hardship is on the children and the mothers who care for them. It is impossible to improve on nature."

Many in the congregation signed petitions for the repeal of the law at the close of the services. Rev. Mr. DeLarme also asked his congregation to sign cards, signifying their intention of joining the committee of 500.

"We will probably be facing an election in the next 60 days to determine whether four members of the city council are to be left in office," he said. "The petition for their recall will undoubtedly force the council to call a special election, hence it is important that you all join the committee."

"I do not say that the council is faultless. They have blundered. They were inexperienced when they took office, and have had great difficulty in mastering their duties. We are also aware that there has been a lack of harmony in the council, but that is to be expected.

"Mayor Smith stated the situation when he said the radical bolshevik element favored the recall. Combined with this element are the liquor interests, and a faction from which control of the police department has been taken.

"I believe the whole quarrel started last fall when DeLarme and Mayor Smith took their political life in their hands and stopped gambling at the Ak-Sar-Ben carnival."

session is only for one day no provision can be made for his payment of the members and employees as provided in the call. If the provision of the call is carried out there will be five days in which to pass the ratification resolution and there will be no question as to its legality. Members of the legislature living in Lincoln do not need to worry. They will have no expenses other than what they naturally have. But how about the member or the employee who has to come in 100, 200, or even 400 miles? Those farthest away cannot possibly get here without an expense of $25 for railroad fare alone.

FLASHES from FILMLAND PHOTO-PLAY OFFERINGS FOR TODAY

"STOLEN ORDERS." William Brady's sensational big picture success at the Rialto theater is featured by the appearance of six famous stars in the one picture, Kitty Gordon, Carlyle Blackwell, Montagu Love, June Elvidge, George MacQuarrie and Madge Evans. It is a big picture in every sense of the word and in the last reel a fight is staged in the car of a dirigible balloon and one of the combatants is tumbled into the ocean below. It is one of the most thrilling scenes ever shown on the screen. The rescue of a girl by a hydro-airplane is another of the thrillers in "Stolen Orders."

Jack Pickford, starring in "Bill Apperson's Boy" at the Strand theater, plays the role of Buddy Apperson, a youth of 18. The story shows a keen insight into the ways of the Blue Ridge mountaineer. Brevity, devotion to the memory of his mother, stubbornness, independence and bashful love are depicted in a rapid series of humorous and serious events that delve deeply into the heart of the mountain lad. Something new and different is shown in "Ghost of Slumber Mountain," showing most of the prehistoric animals of the past, breathing, living, and acting as if they were real. A Harold Lloyd comedy and the Pathe News are also shown.

SUN.—Take a dazzling Parisian dancer, a tyrannical aunt, a picturesque Italian violinist, a distinguished American theatrical producer, a good-looking bachelor playwright, a disreputable lounge lizard and a tigerish woman aflame with jealousy. Mix well with Paris and Broadway atmosphere. Flavor with the spice of real life in a big city. Sweeten with Mary Miles Minter—decorate with an all-star cast—and you have a combination of comedy and drama made with customary "Flying A" care for detail. "Yvonne from Paris," now at the Sun, is a thorough charm of the screen play, with a real plot to hold the interest, and enough airiness of treatment and lightness of touch to make it a breezy, enjoyable entertainment on the hottest day in the year.

MUSE.—One of the most interesting studies in make-up ever seen on the screen is afforded by Norma Talmadge, photoplay star, in her picture, "The Social Secretary," now being shown at the Muse. Persecuted by the unwelcome attentions of the other sex because of her beauty, the heroine of the play renders herself as ugly as possible before applying for a position in the

South Side Attempts to Induce Wife to Leave Hubby, But Winds Up in Jail

Desire of man for woman caused South Side police a busy afternoon yesterday and landed two persons in jail. Plenty of action was furnished before police were summoned.

While Mrs. Peter Pbur, 5424 South Thirty-second street, was waiting for her husband to return from work, an old acquaintance, Alek Pabolovich, 3127 F street, stepped in and proposed that the two fly to parts unknown and leave Peter an empty home. Mrs. Pbur, however, according to Pabolovich's story, had other ideas on the subject and drew a gun on the intruder. A scuffle ensued which resulted in the loss of the gun to Pabolovich. Forcing her to leave the house at the point of her own weapon, Pabolovich is thought to have hidden her somewhere, since he present whereabouts are unknown.

Jess Willard Paid Government $31,570 On Fight Winnings

New York, July 27.—Taxes levied by the government on the $100,000 which Jess Willard received when he lost his heavyweight boxing title to Jack Dempsey decreased the amount to $68,590, according to figures announced here by E. J. Lynch, an internal revenue agent. Dempsey actually received $23,970 of the $27,500 called for in his contract, he added.

"NAKED" WORLD BEING PLANNED BY KOSMANITES

Sect That Does Not Believe in Clothes Hopes to Impress
Belief on Everyone.
Balham, Conn., July 27.—"Away with clothes" cry the Kosmanites, a religious sect that plans a naked world ere long. Members of the faith do not believe in clothes. A correspondent of Universal Service investigated the situation and paid a visit to headquarters.

The correspondent found a barnlike structure resembling an army hut hidden away in a small wood near the suburb of Balham, overgrown with weeds and bushes, with plenty of vegetables all around. The Kosmanites believe in going to "church" naked. Balhamites hardly know of the existence of the strange creed in their midst. They thought the sect deserted and were surprised to learn the "congregation" numbered more than 200.

Plymouth Brethren Scored.

The London Kosmanites are bitter against their Plymouth brethren calling them "accessionists" who have no connection with the "mother church."
Brother H. T. Mercer, leader of the faithful, who is a prison warden, said indignantly:
"Plymouth acted prematurely. The world is not ready for nakedness. But our idea is right and our cause is good. The whole world will adopt it as soon as it embraces the teaching of the Kosman church."
"We believe in living next to nature. We are vegetarians and prohibitionists, though I believe some members of my congregation are not teetotalers."
"To display the naked beauty of the human body is all right. It gives the soul a chance to work beneficially on the body, too. Adoption of our creed by the world will come sure as fate, and shame will disappear."
The authorities did not prosecute the Plymouth cult for the youths' nakedness but imposed a fine on the offenders because the children were not registered.

Bill at the Empress.

A "big time" vaudeville bill, headed by Marlette's Menikins, is showing at the Empress theater this week. Mr. Marlette in his comedy production makes a specialty of featuring animated figures of the famous newspaper cartoon characters. Dances more fantastic than Gertrude Hoffman ever dreamed of are staged in a cute way with juggling, acrobatic and other specialties. Tribble and Thomas, two colored performers, bring out every phase of the darkey's peculiarities. Louis London has a real vaudeville number. The sensational stunts, that would otherwise startle one, are effaced in the act of Mareena, Nevaro, and Mareena by their comedy bits. "In His Brother's Place," starring Hale Hamilton, is the photoplay attraction. A Fatty Arbuckle comedy, "Outing Chester," and Pathe Weekly complete the bill.

MRS. KIRKLAND SAYS THE CHANGE IS WONDERFUL

Was So Run-Down That at Times She Couldn't Walk—Gained Twenty Pounds By Taking Tanlac.

Mrs. Mattie Kirkland, a highly esteemed resident of 2547 Benton Boulevard, Kansas City, Missouri, called at the Owl Drug store, recently, and made the remarkable statement that she had not only gained 20 pounds in weight by the use of seven bottles of Tanlac, but that the medicine had also relieved her of a case of nervous indigestion that had made life miserable for her for three years.

When asked if she would be willing for her statement to be published, Mrs. Kirkland said: "Yes, indeed, for if it had not been for others allowing the news of their recovery published, I would not have known about Tanlac and would still be a sick woman. So I feel that I ought to make a statement myself and try to benefit someone else. During those three years everything I ate disagreed with me. My appetite was so poor that I seldom felt like eating and I would suffer for hours after every meal from the gas on my stomach. My head ached all the time and I often got so nervous and dizzy that I would have to lay down. I lost weight until I got down to only 110 pounds, and my housework was a burden to me. I was so run-down and weak that I could not walk at times, and while I used most everything I heard of, nothing did me any good."

"I read so many testimonials for Tanlac given by our own Kansas City people, and their statements sounded so sincere, that I made up my mind to try the medicine myself. So I bought a bottle and when I finished taking it there was such a wonderful change in my condition that I got another, then another, and so on, until now I have used seven bottles and the results have been nothing less than wonderful. I can eat just anything without the least trouble afterwards and my appetite was never better. My nerves are perfectly calm and I sleep every night just like a child. In fact, I am feeling as strong and well as I did before my troubles started three years ago, and I have actually gained 20 pounds in weight. I now know for myself that Tanlac is wonderful and I can't praise it too highly for what it has done for me."

Tanlac is sold in Omaha at all Sherman & McConnell Drug Company's stores, Harvard Pharmacy and West End Pharmacy. Also Forest and Meany Drug Company in South Omaha and the leading drug-street in each city and town throughout the state of Nebraska.—Adv.
