VIOLENCE NOT PLAN OF LABOR, PLUMB STATES

Says Railroad Men Do Not Purpose Untoward Action.

Washington, Aug. 9.—(By The Associated Press.)—Organized labor will not attempt to impose the Plumb plan for railroad control on other industries unless employees and the public desire it and its fight for public ownership of utilities will not stop until it has reached that point where "grant and privilege" cease. This was the message delivered by Glenn E. Plumb, speaking as labor's representative, to the house interstate commerce committee, which for three days has been holding hearings on tripartite control of the transportation systems. It was spoken calmly, after the witness had denied that the plan was socialist.

Again today Plumb pounded the table and denied in terms calculated, he said, to brook no repetition of the charge that the railroad brotherhoods had attempted by threats of violence or strikes to force congress to adopt his plan for control of the railroads by the public, operating officials and employees. The denial was made first in a statement from Plumb's office and signed by the heads of the fifteen brotherhoods and while Plumb was answering a hot fire of questions from Representative Dewalt, democrat, of Pennsylvania, who wanted to know where the new idea would stop.

No Violence Intended. "We unite in a definite assertion that we have no desire and have had none," said the statement and also Plumb, who paraphrased it, "to impress upon the public, by violence, or by threat, our proposal that the railroads be nationalized under 'tripartite' control."

Labor would be blind to its own interests, Plumb added, with emphasis, if it attempted such methods. Later Plumb announced information would be put before the committee in support of his charge that there had been systematic plundering of the great railway system of the country.

Plumb stood his ground while Representatives Dewalt, Montague, democrat, Virginia; Merritt, republican, Connecticut; and others, asked questions which they intimated were intended to point out defects in the Plumb plan. Representative Montague particularly wanted to know if in buying the railroads the government would pay for tracks and lines built out of profits. Plumb said it would not. Representative Dewalt inquired if the Plumb plan was leading to socialism. Plumb answered in the negative. Representative Merritt wanted to know if the plan would be extended to gas plants, trolley lines and the like and Plumb said it would.

Raps Postoffice. Plumb cited the case of the Post-office department "the only great industry politically managed," and said its efficiency would be greatly increased if the employees had a voice in its management "or, if it were operated under the democratic principles of this bill." It would be absurd, he declared, to suggest farmers might come forward with a demand for tripartite control, but if they wanted it and the public said so, they should have it.

Citing the case of railway executives who had advanced from the ranks, Representative Montague asked Plumb if he had found evidence of undue repression which would halt the upward march of the underman. He quite agreed that a majority of the highest paid railway men today went up from the bottom, but insisted that they were not advanced through vote or voice of employees, but by railroad autocrats who felt they were extortioners of human effort. He wanted employees to pass on a man's right to go higher.

Carrying out the same line of thought, Plumb said in the army there were many able officers, but there would have been a larger number of good ones, had the privates been given a voice in their selection. Wymore Will Call Special Election to Sell Arbor Park. Beatrice, Neb. Sugar in Chicago was 13 1/2 cents before the drop but 11 cents a pound now generally prevails wholesale.

made by parcel post and made by freight, express, truck or local deliveries. Details of the sale have been placed in the hands of Captain A. J. Hofmann by Colonel Bingham. The colonel will appoint a civilian committee of three to assist, principally as an auditing committee. The only connection the postoffice will have with the sale will be to distribute the goods ordered by parcel post.

Postmaster Sole Sovereign. In specific reference to parcel post orders, the instructions state that postmasters will be sole sovereigns in receiving and distributing goods. Damaged articles received only will be replaced when a sworn affidavit as to the extent of the damage is forwarded to the War office.

The instructions read: Shipments through parcel post are to be consigned to the postmaster if order is placed by him and will be paid for by him in advance by cash or money order. "Stamps are to be affixed to cases and deliveries to the nearest post-office or branch with the least practicable delay. Shipments consigned by freight, express, etc., are to be made f. o. b., except sales to municipalities, states, counties or committees of citizens approved by state or municipal officials.

The postmasters will be notified that as far as parcel post shipments are concerned, exchange or replacement of damaged articles will only be made upon receipt of sworn affidavit as to the damage and unserviceable condition of the article, which affidavit will be signed, approved and forwarded by the postmaster."

Colonel Bingham reported that Saturday he had received 50 letters from out-of-town people requesting information concerning the War Department's program. Mayor J. E. Miller of Lincoln held an hour's conversation over the long distance telephone with the colonel in the interests of that city.

Distributed by Zone. The goods will be distributed according to the zone system. During the last two weeks the Omaha depot has been shipping to other posts such supplies as it has stored here in excess. Stores from other zone centers were received here. "This is to equalize goods on hand," Colonel Bingham explained. "Circulars will be ready for distribution soon, in which complete detailed information concerning the quantities of food stuffs on hand, where they may be obtained, will be contained. A price list also will be included, with parcels post rates marked."

The Omaha Zone. The Omaha zone includes Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and Nebraska. The public can either come to the city and buy direct or can send their orders to the nearest postmaster who will buy for them, as agent for the parcel post system.

Employees at the army depot here will not be allowed to purchase any goods except for their personal and family use, Colonel Bingham stated. "I don't want any scandal in this thing," he said. New Hampshire will appropriate $10,000 for a building at the Weira for use of the world war veterans. The national executive committee of the American Legion of World War Veterans has voted to recommend dropping all commissioned officers' titles.

Carrying out the same line of thought, Plumb said in the army there were many able officers, but there would have been a larger number of good ones, had the privates been given a voice in their selection.
