

WOMAN'S SECTION OF THE BEE

And, Oh, when passion rules, how rare The hours that fall to virtue's share! —Scott

Speech is but broken light upon the depth Of the unspoken; even your loved words Float in the larger meaning of your voice As something dimmer.—Eliot.

DISPENSING chocolate and cheer in a dim, old monastery in Luxembourg was the experience of Miss Olive Johnson of Council Bluffs, who returned Thursday after six months overseas. Miss Johnson, who was a Y. M. C. A. worker, was assigned to this canteen at the time the Fifth division of the army of occupation was stationed there.

The cloistered corners of the monastery, where dowered monks had once chanted their prayers, resounded to the songs and laughter of 800 southern boys, who were keeping the Stars and Stripes waving on conquered territory. For four long years the Germans had occupied the town, driven away by the victorious Yankees, and the large canteen was established as soon as the Americans took possession.

Miss Johnson was stationed in Paris for several months when she was auditor of the "entertainers" office. It was her task to keep the accounts of salaries which were paid the actors who entertained the thousands of soldiers at the various camps.

So successful was Miss Johnson that she has been offered a position with the Y. M. C. A. in New York. She has not definitely decided concerning her future plans, but will leave for the east September 1, to spend the winter.

Very pretty mid-summer wedding was solemnized early Monday morning at St. Peter's church when Miss Viola Harbert, daughter of Mrs. Laura A. Harbert, became the bride of Mr. Emmet Gentleman. The Rev. J. O'Flynn performed the ceremony.

Miss Marguerite Savage who was bridesmaid, wore a dark blue tulle gown with a small hat to match and carried pink roses. The bride wore her going-away suit of dark brown tulle and a small hat of the same shade. A corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses and sweetpeas completed her costume.

Mr. Harold Linihan was best man. Immediately after the ceremony the wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother to the members of the bridal party.

Mr. and Mrs. Gentleman will motor to Denver and other points in Colorado. They will be at home after September 1, in Indianapolis, Ind.

Reservations for Sunday evening dinner at Carter Lake were: H. A. Jacobberger, eight; L. L. Carey, five; George Rhein, four; Mrs. George Tray, four; F. F. Goldstrom, five; E. O. Ames, four; Dr. Fay, four; and W. Brewett, four.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Donovan have closed their apartment at the Morris for a month. They are motoring to Denver.

Mr. A. R. Groh left Saturday evening for Kansas City. He will stop at Colorado Springs and Estes Park before returning.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kuhn have sold their home at 1120 South Twenty-eighth street, and will take an apartment for the winter.

Miss Agnes Britton leaves August 17 to spend the remainder of the summer in Denver, Colorado Springs and Scottsbluff, Neb., where she will visit Miss Guendolin Le Pinski.

Monmouth College Quartet. A concert was given by the Etiole male quartet Monmouth college Friday evening at the Central United Presbyterian church. Earle E. Faber, who is first tenor and director, spent five months in France as song leader with the A. E. F. He has not only a pleasing voice but is very talented in the presentation of character sketches. The other members of the quartet include Rudy W. Cooper, Neil A. McKnight and Glenn C. Shaver.

Swimming Party. Miss Beas Greenfield entertained at a swimming party at Nathan's lake, Sunday afternoon. It was followed by supper and covers were laid for 100 guests.

Mr. Oliver Bonney has returned from Mississippi where he was called to the death of his father.

Recent Bride

Mrs. Chas. D. Gould OSATO PHOTO

A mid-summer bride is Mrs. Charles D. Gould, who was Miss Loretta Meany, before her marriage, August 6. The ceremony was performed at St. Bridget's church, followed by a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Meany. The young couple will make their home in Omaha.

English Debutantes 4,000 Strong Will Be Presented In Morning Gowns. There are more than 4,000 debutantes awaiting their opportunity to be presented to their British majesties during the present season. This, of course, is the result of there having been no drawing rooms during the years of the war. Since it would be impossible for so many presentations to be carried out in the old formal style, the order has gone forth that there will be a series of afternoon parties, and that the presentations will be made in morning and not court dress.

Heartbeats

Backward! Turn backward O time in your flight! And give us a chance To put things aright. (Apologies) We struggled for culture And for etiquette— We mentally Took notice Of each one we met Whether highbrow Or lowbrow— King Soldier Or cad— Grand dandy Or debutant. Aristocrat Or Plebe. We dug for the fine points In books by the score— We studied the table Likewise the floor And how to walk on it. Our letters were samples Of most correct style Each margin denoted Both rank and file Of recipients. Small margins For home folks Wide ones for friends Much wider for bishops And still wider for Popes. We practiced The "entrance" The "exit" we learned Polite little phrases— Meaningless words— We squawked out. Like parrots. One day we were finished ("Finished") is right— In horror we noted That while we had manners— Dame Etiquette's diploma— Somewhere in the shuffle We'd misplaced good sense. Our friends all seemed Vulgar. Our family were coarse They bowed incorrectly— Did things indiscreetly— Now we fush in silence On our foolishness bent Our associates are beastly They annoy us hatefully Yet— We know we're plain silly And miss all the fun Of folks who are natural And honest and kind. Oh! it's nice To have manners And etiquette's polish But we are lonesome Because we have Lost all our friends So we'll sacrifice gladly All the glaze we've acquired In exchange for Brain action. SELAH!

It is perfectly proper to state in the invitations that the party is a birthday anniversary celebration. Your friends will not say you are giving the party for the presents—

Blue Tricotine Afternoon Gown

The blue tricotine may become the medium of developing an extremely dressy afternoon gown is shown in this frock of that material, which is elaborately embroidered in black silk floss and dull gold thread. The U-shaped jumper shows the embroidery in a very effective design. The lines of the gown are simple, to afford the best background for the beauty of the embroidery. A long tunic gives a silhouette which will be extremely popular this fall. This tunic affords an opportunity for the deep border of embroidery that follows the line of the bodice. The girle is made of a bias slip of the material, though black satin or tanned cloth of gold may be substituted. The picturesque hat which accompanies this dress is black velvet trimmed with jet.

Advice to the Lovelorn

Love Comes Unbidden and, "To Love or Not We Are No More Free Than the Ripple to Rise and Leave the Sea."

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I am going to ask you to help me on a question that has bothered me for some time. I will be 18 soon and I am going to give a fairly large birthday party in the evening. It will be on the lawn and in the house both, as I intend to string Jap lanterns around. Here is what I want to know: Should I put in the invitations that it is a birthday party or just a party? Some of my friends tell me not to, as some will say I'm giving it for the presents and might not come. But I do not want my friends to give me presents and that is not the reason I'm giving it. Again others tell me to say it is a birthday party. I go with very nice people and I don't want anything said or thought. I have given lots of parties, but this one puzzles me. Thanking you kindly, I am, MICKKEY.

Boys and Clothes.

Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: Giving others such good advice I thought I would write to see if you would be willing to help me. I hope Mr. Wastepaper Basket is out shopping by now. I wish my name were not published. If you can help me and the lonely bachelor (J. A. S. S.) I will be happy. CLARA S.

Sorry, but I have lost this bachelor's address. If he will furnish it again he may find a true helpmate.

Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I read the letter in Tuesday's Bee by J. A. S. S. and am writing to him. I am nearly 40 years of age. I have lived a life of single-blessedness and this life has grown tiresome and I feel it to be my duty to get married. I can sing, dance, ride horseback, skate, swim or preach a sermon. I am also a swell housekeeper.

Every color will be worn this winter, but the latest hints say that prohibition colors will lead, such as lemonade, Bryan cocktail, orange, root beer, etc. Skirts are still quite long, but a bit wider. I cannot give you a stock phrase for declining an invitation, but if you are polite, a well bred boy will not take offense. You will have to be firm with boys who seem inclined to take liberties with you. It is not so much a question of their being angry as it is of their keeping their places. Yes, a girl with a crooked nose can be attractive. Frances White is making a tremendous hit on the London stage, after becoming known all over the United States, and she has a little turned-up nose. Cook books may be purchased at any book store.

scribe yourself, but I picture you as being short, fat, with sandy hair and brown eyes and a pleasant smile. Waiting for you, I am LONESOME.

P. S.—To give you an idea of my appearance: I am tall but well built, with dreamy brown eyes, heavy masses of red hair, rosy cheeks and a winsome smile, that cheers every one I meet. My only defect is large ears, but I comb my hair over them in a most becoming style.

O, Venus, who art thou? MOURNING WIDOWS. Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: We are two young and pretty widows, and although we have had our "dark days," we still have not lost our sense of humor and enjoy a good time. But some of our friends and neighbors seem to think that we ought to forget good times, as our husbands have not been dead long, and that we ought to be thinking of them and mourning them at all times. We have decided to abide by your good advice, and would appreciate an answer in the "Lovelorn" column as soon as possible. Do you think it wrong for us to go to parties and dances occasionally or to entertain friends at home? We have lots of friends among the younger crowd, both among the men and women.

TWO ANXIOUS WIDOWS. Protracted mourning is a ridiculous sham. What one feels is what counts. Why should you hide yourselves like some oriental widow? It may be, however, that your careless conduct brings criticism upon you. In that event, I can only advise you to be ladylike, keep a certain amount of dignity close at hand and interest yourselves in whatever pleases you most.

Amber Beads. Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I wonder if you could tell me a way of cleaning and polishing amber beads. They have become very dull, either from perspiration or from being worn by a friend who had the beginning of a goitre. They feel rough to the touch and a jeweler informed me that it would cost $15 to have them cleaned and polished. I don't feel able to pay that much, but they are an exceptionally fine strand, descending to me from my grandmother.

A Homekeeper. Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I hope you can help me in securing a position as housekeeper on a farm somewhere near Omaha or Council Bluffs. Must be good, respectable man with no small children. I have two children, 2 and 3 years of age, who I would like to have with me. "IN HARTE." There must be a great many bachelors and widowers who would be glad to secure your services. I have no names at present, however.

Must be good, respectable man with no small children. I have two children, 2 and 3 years of age, who I would like to have with me. "IN HARTE." There must be a great many bachelors and widowers who would be glad to secure your services. I have no names at present, however.

Amber Beads. Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I wonder if you could tell me a way of cleaning and polishing amber beads. They have become very dull, either from perspiration or from being worn by a friend who had the beginning of a goitre. They feel rough to the touch and a jeweler informed me that it would cost $15 to have them cleaned and polished. I don't feel able to pay that much, but they are an exceptionally fine strand, descending to me from my grandmother.
