I hate ingratitude more in man Than lying, vainness, babbling, drunkenness, Or any taint of vice, whose strong corruption Inhabits our frail blood. —Shakespeare.

Silk Stockings Made From Wood, Etc.

Syracuse, Aug. 25.—"Silk" stockings made from wood fiber, sawdust, sausage casings and wood flour phonograph records will be among the exhibits of forest products that will be made by the New York State College of Forestry at the state fair to be held in this city.

The forestry display is part of a campaign to educate the people to the necessity of preventing waste of the forest-areas of the state.

The so-called "silk" hose have the appearance of real silk and are of the same texture. Officials say they are much cheaper than the genuine article.

The biggest revolution in the use of wood, perhaps, is to be found in the substitution of sawdust for sausage casings instead of the old type produced as a by-product of the slaughter house. The wood is converted by a chemical process into viscose, making a good substitute, it is said.

Other articles made from wood are tanbark shingles manufactured from tanbark after it has been used in a tannery, and paper milk bottles also made from wood. Paper bottles, it is said, will greatly decrease the need for glass bottles.

These unusual commercial articles are made from what was once waste of the sawmill, and their display is part of the campaign of the New York College of Forestry to show how close utilization of wood will help to cheaper articles of commerce, and at the same time end the enormous waste that has accompanied lumbering operations.

Heartbeats

By A. K.

Allah Has deprived me Of many a gift— The gifts we most desire— Beauty and grace— One goal of the race— Were forgotten As I came through The skies. No silver spoon— No ivy covered Or humble cot— There never were clouds Upon my brow To fringe two eyes Of midnight blue. There was never A lyrical note In my throat— No Willoy "lines" To sway with the grace Of a reed. No heart that craved For the mighty rich— Nor for the praise Of the crowd. My hands And my sight Go wrong on art— The dainty birch leaf From under my pen Resembles a waving palm And yet My Creator Remembered one thing In His task Of assembling me— One thing more precious Than all the rest— That which has kept me Alive for the fight— He gave me One priceless talent— A keen hunger For ever A larger life— To enjoy with people— To suffer with people— To reach their Heights and depths In a special gift From God.

Mrs. J. M. Franklyn, 28 years old, a graduate of Bellevue Hospital Training School for Nurses, photographed upon her arrival in New York after hiking across the continent from her home in Seattle, Wash. As she walked the whole distance the trip cost only $23. The major part of that amount was spent between Chicago and New York. Mrs. Franklyn made the trip after a discussion among her neighbors, and a prize of $2,000 was posted as a reward if the trip was successfully accomplished. The conditions of her coast-to-coast trip were that she was not to ride on a railroad or to ask for rides on any vehicle. She was not to accept proffered rides unless asked a second time. She was to refuse food unless she paid for it or worked for it. She found everybody very kind on the way, so in all she had only to walk 432 miles. Many autoists, mule drivers and others gave her a lift. She was less than a month on the way.

Suppers were given at the Country club Sunday evening by Mrs. W. H. Wheeler, who entertained five guests; Henry Wyman, six; John Caldwell, eight; D. A. Baum, three, and F. S. Carlisle, three.

Even the dangerous calling of the bull fighter has his female follower. Johanna Maestrick was the name of the young woman who won renown as a matador. At an early age she was taken to see a bull fight in Portugal. Her feminine susceptibilities, far from revolting at the spectacle, were aroused to a keen desire and determination to emulate the prowess of the bull fighter. After a course of training she made her first appearance in the arena at Oporto. The trial proved that her ability and skill were equal to her courage, for she quickly laid out two ferocious bulls and rode off in triumph amid thunders of applause.

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

Is He Innocent?

Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I am a young man of good character, but a few months ago I went to a dance with a young girl of questionable character. Now she is in trouble and she says it is my fault. I am innocent. Yes, Miss Fairfax, I am innocent. Can you give me advice, do not want to marry her, as she is not the kind of a girl for me, and what would I do with another man's baby? Is there no way out without humiliating either of us? Please answer as soon as possible.

A worried admirer.

INNOCENT.

"As ye sow ye must reap," and if you are really a good character why did you take this girl of questionable character to a dance? I haven't much sympathy for you, or any other young man who lives loosely and then "squawks" at the consequences. Unless the girl is a town character, an acknowledged prostitute, I see no way out of this tangle. Take your medicine like a man and remember that you are paid, not for your sins, but by them. It is very like men to shift the burden entirely upon the girl. This is the mark of a coward.

Wants to Adopt Child.

Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: Will you please give me information concerning French orphans, also address of orphan's homes. We are very anxious to adopt a little girl, as we have one little adopted girl and we feel the need of two children in our home. We have our application in at the Child's Saving Institute, Omaha, Neb.; also in Lincoln, Neb., but have been unable to find a child near age desired. Could you give me "ad" of homes in other states? I thank you.

MRS. FRANK RUTHERFORD, 839 North Hastings Avenue.

I know of no homes in the state aside from the one at Lincoln. If you would enter your application at St. James Orphanage at Sixtieth and Spencer streets, they might be able to help you. There is a society in Omaha called the Fatherless Children of France, and if you will write Mrs. Barton Millard, 123 North Thirty-ninth street, you may obtain all information concerning the adoption of a French orphan.

Boarding School.

Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee. As so many get help and advice from you I thought I would try also.

Could you recommend a girls' boarding school in Omaha or close here?

How is my writing? I am 13 years old and in the eighth grade. Thanking you in advance, I am yours truly, M. T. G.

Brownell Hall is the best boarding school in Omaha. Your writing is very legible.

A Daily Reader—Write the note immediately after the gift is received and express your thanks in a straightforward way, stating that the sympathy of one's friends lessened the sorrow, etc. A bathing suit, cap and hose are all that is necessary while bathing. A good depilatory is not harmful to the skin.

Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: Would you aid me in finding a poem which is named, I believe, "The Old Virginia Reel." I remember only one quotation from it.

"Miss Betty, with your laughter, and your lace, and your beauty, And the hearts that you have broken, you're as dead as yonder rose."

A READER.

Perhaps some reader can help locate the poem.
