"The Tale of a Shirt," a real human interest playlet, by Edwin and Jane Connelly, touches the wellsprings of emotion. In the role of a little laundry worker, yearning for her Prince Charming, Miss Connelly offers a characterization that appeals to vaudeville patrons. The Sterlings offer a neat roller skating act. Clifford Walker identifies himself as "The First Entertainer to go into the Front Line Trenches." He is quite pleasing. Espe and Dutton combine comedy, acrobatics and music in an act of unusual versatility. Victories for the Woodmen of the World team and the Holmes Juniors yesterday morning won the 1919 championship of Divisions 1 and 2. respectively, of the Omaha Bee Junior Base Ball association.

The Woodmen of the World aggregation, by winning a fast and exciting eleven-inning game from the Shamrocks, formerly the West Dodge Dairy, by the score of 5 to 4. made a brilliant showing for a team of youngsters.

Since the race in Division 1 ended in a three-cornered tie between these two teams and the Suburbas. the Lodgemen had to defeat both of their opponents in order to win the league championship.

Ralph Moore, on the mound for the Lodgemen, and Dick Brown, in the box for the Shamrocks, staged a great pitchers' battle, with honors slightly in favor of Moore. Moore allowed but five hits, and whiffed 16 men, while Brown was touched for eight hits and struck out 14.

Win in Eleventh.

The lodgemen were the first to score, sending one man across in the opening frame, but the Shamrocks evened up in the fifth. Three more runs were made by the Wood-men of the World aggregation in the seventh, but by a batting rally, the Shamrocks knotted the score in the eighth. Two hits, coupled by an error, gave the lodgemen their victory in the eleventh.

Despite the fact that the Dorcas Street Stars scored three runs in little hurler tightened and failed to let more of his opponents cross the

In the second and third frame the Holmes scored one run, re-spectively and by scoring two more in the fourth frame took the lead. The final score for the Holmes was made in the seventh. Big Crowd Sees Game. A good sized crowd attended both of the games, which were no doubt the best staged thus far by the teams in these divisions.

Now that the race is settled in all three divisions, the opening game of the city championship will be staged next Sunday. A meeting time the three managers will draw to see who plays the opening fray. The scores of yesterday's games: Score: W. O.
