

CHINAMAN AND WHITE GIRL ARE HELD BY POLICE

Chadron, Neb., Restaurant Man and Former Waitress Arrested in Council Bluffs Hotel.

Geo Bing Yoo, Chinese restaurant man at Chadron, Neb., and Cleo Waltman, 16-year-old wife of Frank Waltman, also of Chadron, were held yesterday by Council Bluffs police while inquires were being made concerning them. The woman admitted that she was "just a run-away girl" who had left her husband and firmly intended to become the wife of the Chinaman. They will be turned over to federal officers Thursday.

The Chinaman brought the young girl from Omaha late Tuesday night in a taxicab, police say, and secured a room for her at the Kiel hotel. He left immediately and did not return until Wednesday. People about the hotel became suspicious and asked police to investigate.

Questioned together, both admitted that their only purpose in coming to Council Bluffs was to get married. Neither knew anything about divorce procedure. Geo Bing said he became acquainted with the girl in Chadron and that she worked in his restaurant. He said he sold the place and came to Omaha and had completed arrangements for a restaurant business there.

RAILROAD MAN STATES HE HAS WON HIS FIGHT

Almost Ready to Give Up His Run—Tanlac Kept Him On the Job.

"I put up a game fight to keep my run on the railroad, because bad health was just about to make me give it up, but with the help of Tanlac I am still on the job, feeling like a new man and with more endurance than I ever had," said F. C. Stewart, of the Rock Island Railroad, who lives at 810 North Glendale, Peoria, Ill.

"When a man has been on the railroad for eighteen years like I have, working long hours and eating irregular meals and just snatching sleep like I had to, it's bound to tear down his constitution, and that is what happened to me. My stomach got in such a shape that the food in the restaurants along my run made me sick to look at, and what little I could force myself to eat didn't taste right and would lay like a rock in my stomach. This sort of thing began to break down my health ten years ago, and nothing but pure grit kept me going. My strength wore away and I fell off in weight until it just seemed like I couldn't take out many more trains. Then I began to hear some of the boys talking about this Tanlac, and I knew it couldn't make me any worse than I was, so I started taking it.

"Right there is where I side-tracked my troubles and hit the main line to good health again. The first few doses made me want to eat a while I had been taking swing off of my train and snatch a lunch in a hurry, and it didn't matter much how it was cooked or what it was, it went right to the spot and did me good. I can eat just anything I want, the only trouble now is getting enough to satisfy me. My sleep is restful—I can go to bed at night and, unless the call happens to come for me during the night, I never wake until morning. But when the call boy comes it takes several good loud raps on the door to get me up. Then when I start out on the run I feel strong and full of energy as I ever did in my life, and can do more work than I ever could. I have told several of the boys how this Tanlac helped me, for I know how hard it is for a railroad man to keep going, and I want them to know how to keep fit."

Tanlac is sold in Omaha at all Sherman & McConnell Drug Company's stores, Harvard Pharmacy and West End Pharmacy. Also Forrest and Meany Drug Company in South Omaha and the leading druggist in each city and town throughout the state of Nebraska.—Adv.

Aspirations and Ideals Depicted by True Lovers

Mother and Sweetheart Tell Qualities Desired to Fill Their Ideal of "The Perfect Lover."

The loves, aspirations and ideals of the world are depicted in the numerous communications being received by the Movie Contest Editor of The Bee on the subject of "The Perfect Lover."

Because of the great interest being manifested by Nebraskans in determining the supreme lover, The Omaha Bee has consented to appropriate $20 among three persons who best put their ideals of the perfect lover in words. To the fourth best portrayal an autographed photograph of Eugene O'Brien, the perfect lover of filmdom, will be given.

Mother's Ideal Lover.

One of the many representative letters on the subject reads: "First of all, he should be a gentleman in all things; clean cut and moral in every respect. Ever thoughtful and careful, not only of the girl he wishes to marry, but of all. He should help and assist the aged, giving them every attention and care. Polished, and refined in his manners, gentle and courteous to the working girl, treating her with as much respect and deference as the wealthy or fashionable one. "He should be good and reverent to his mother, show her all respect and consideration, ready to serve her at any time, saving her worries and any time, saving her unnecessary steps. He should love her above all else in the world and guard her as he would his life.

"Be true to your principles and hold your honor above all things, and whether you are handsome or plain, if you are a true gentleman you can't help but be a perfect lover."

Passionate Ardor of Youth

The above, signed by Mrs. —, Harley hotel, evidently a mother's ideal. The following has probably been penned by a young woman who has just felt the passionate ardor of youthful love:

"Headlong, impetuous, he gives me thrills that come once in a lifetime. My heart beats double quick just thinking of him—truly he must be a perfect lover. There's nothing in the world that doesn't in some way include him, suggesting him in a hundred ways; every sunrise, brilliant glowing sunset, exquisite picture, wistful bit of verse, clever story, nothing I don't long to share with him. The minute he's called out of town the world is a poor place to live in—though his train is but a few miles out of town, I feel that he's at least in darkest Africa. Music means longing for his return, a dim lighted room, but a heartache, for he's a perfect lover."

Eugene O'Brien's Lovemaking.

"Delicate, dainty in everything he does he is indeed a perfect lover." Passionately in love as he often becomes, speaking in a movie way, ardent as his lovemaking may be, he is for all that, a great-hearted, wholesome boy, clean and fine in all that he does.

"My sweetheart is fine and pure as a flame. French, he has all the fineness and culture of a nation famed over the world for refinement of warfare where, as in love, "all is fair." His keen mind, sensitive kindness, love of all that's beautiful, and thinking that I above all women am the most adoredly exquisite, makes him to me at least, a "perfect lover."

Address all letters to the movie contest editor of the Bee.

"Sweet by saline breezes and washed by the waves of the ocean." "Any other street cleaning facilities?" inquired the old grouch.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

To Discard Freckles, Tan, Pimples, Blisters

The use of creams containing animal grease sometimes causes hair to grow. You run no risk of acquiring superficial wax. There is nothing better for a discolored skin, as the wax actually absorbs the offensive cuticle—gradually, gently, so there is no detention indoors and no inconvenience. The discarded complexion naturally is replaced by a clear, smooth, healthy one—full of life and expression. It's the sensible way to get rid of a freckled, tanned, overcast complexion. Just procure an ounce of mercurized wax at any druggist's and apply nightly like cold cream, changing in the morning with soap and water. It takes a week or so to complete the transformation.—Adv.
