Each More a thousand Roses brings, you say; Yes, but where leaves the Rose of Yesterday? And this first Summer month that brings the Rose Shall take January and Kalobah away.—Rubaiyat.

Come, fill the Cup, and in the fire of Spring Your winter-garments of Repentance fling; The Bird of Time has but a little way To flutter—and the Bird is on the Wing.—Rubaiyat.

Society

UNDER the light of the harvest moon and twinkling Japanese lanterns, pretty maids and stalwart officers will dance to the dreamy sound of a rhythmic waltz. Such an affair is planned by the officers at Fort Omaha. It will take place Tuesday evening, September 16, at the post.

An unusual feature of the event lies in the fact that it will be an outdoor affair. The tennis courts at the post will be covered with canvas and the ground will be lighted with colored lanterns. The officers in charge are making elaborate plans for the party as it will no doubt be one of the last dances of the season.

Against "Innocent." Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: Since "Innocent" has brought forth my opinion of the affair. If he is a man, or calls himself one, he will marry the girl. There are too many men dodging this sort of thing, and I say let him do his duty.

An Opinion of "Innocent." Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: Will now write what is my opinion of Mr. "Innocent." If he did not want to get into trouble why didn't he stay out of trouble's way?

"Innocent" and Kissing. Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I just read your advice on the kissing problem the other day and it was really the first time I ever thought of it in just that way.

Speaking of "Innocent," I think your answer was very good and did appeal to me. I have made a practice of it, although I have spent about three evenings probably during my 18 years in that silly way.

I know lots of girls that think the same as I about this, but if they thought it was really wrong I am sure they would not do it.

I am still firm in my conviction that promiscuous kissing is entirely wrong. At times it is a temptation.

Beauty in Complexions. Beauty is but skin deep, says the old adage. And this may be true, but certainly it is not the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

It is true that beauty is skin deep, but it is true that many of us who have not may acquire them. There is nothing that so ruins a good skin as too much attention in the way of cold cream and massage.

It is not true that we all have beautiful complexions, but it is true that many of us who have not may acquire them. There is nothing that so ruins a good skin as too much attention in the way of cold cream and massage.

Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: Having been reading your good advice to others, so I thought I would also like to ask a few questions.

When going up steps which are not wide enough to allow them to go side by side, who should go first, the man or woman, and also who should go first coming down?

Thanking you for your advice, I remain, A COUNTRY GIRL. No. 1—The woman. No. 2—The left.

is able to patronize the very best beauty expert does not need this advice, for it is true that being beautiful has become one of the modern arts. But after all nothing so makes for beauty as perfect health.

Baths are almost an essential to health. The cold bath is a fine bracer, but the hot bath is a great cleanser. It opens the pores and gives the body a chance to breathe.

This if adopted as a daily schedule will attend to make mildly healthier and consequently happier. Rise at a reasonable hour—which should be when you have eight or nine hours sleep—Take a hot bath followed by a cold shower.

Have a light breakfast of fruit, in season, coffee and toast or cereal. Take some light exercise, if your occupation confines you too much indoors. Let your midday meal be light, and cultivate the habit of eating your hearty meal at night.

Take good care of your complexion, drink occasionally a strong lemonade before breakfast, and plenty of water during the day. When feeling indisposed, drink plenty of hot water, to flush the system.
