

CELLAR STOCKS DISCUSSED BY INSURANCE MEN

Liquor in Storage Proves Interesting Topic for Convention in Session Here.

Owners of private supplies of liquor may have difficulty in getting life insurance if the advice of Thomas B. Gay, general counsel for the Atlantic Life Insurance company, has any effect on insurance companies' policies.

Mr. Gay spoke on "Some Observations Upon the Probable Effect Upon Life Insurance Risks of Constitutional and Legislative Prohibition Against Intoxicating Liquors" at the afternoon meeting of the legal section of the American Life convention at the Hotel Fontenelle yesterday.

He called attention to the probability of a man with a private supply of liquor overindulging and advised insurance companies to investigate their clients' cellar before writing his policy.

Never Offered Drink. James C. Jones of St. Louis took an opposite view, declaring that the man with the private stock was inclined to hoard it.

Dr. E. Klavensen joined the discussion by declaring that he thought most of the alleged harmful effect of alcohol was bunk.

Maj. C. A. Atkinson of Chicago insisted that if insurance companies required a statement regarding the clients' liquor supply, the names and addresses of those with large supplies should be furnished to general counsels.

The evening meeting of the legal section was devoted to a discussion of after the war problems and experiences of companies in litigations affected by the war.

Discusses War Clause.

F. V. Keesling of San Francisco opened the evening discussion by reading a carefully prepared paper in which he discussed the "war clause" added by many insurance companies. Some companies had provisions which bound them to pay only the premiums on policies when the death of the policy holder occurred while he was in military service.

A general discussion followed touching on the present condition of the country. C. A. Atkinson of Chicago declared that American institutions were in greater danger now than during the war and urged that every American institution combat un-American influences.

Dan W. Sims, Lafayette, Ind., asserted that too much partisanship since the close of the war was injuring the country.

AT THE THEATERS

TO SEE "Lombardi, Ltd.," is to feel young; if one is young now, to feel younger; anyway, at any age, to breathe the spirit of youth, with its thrills and its disappointments, and full and happy hearts at the end of it all.

Leo Carrillo, remembered by theatergoers as a vaudeville headliner and for his clever Italian characterizations, brings to this city for a three days' engagement at the Brandeis, with a matinee Wednesday, a worthwhile play, the memory of which will linger long with those who see it.

Mr. Carrillo's handling of the role of Tito Lombardi, a fashionable New York dresser, is refreshing. He made a debut on Broadway with Lombardi, Ltd., and in taking the play on the road selected a strong cast.

Others who share honors with Mr. Carrillo are Riccardo Tosello, the "Venetian King" (Louis Calhern), Mollie McNeal, Lombardi's forewoman (Lillian Brumard), Eloise, a model (Lillian Franklin), Mrs. Warrington Brown, a customer (Ina Rorke), Lida Moore, a show girl (Ethel Wilson), Robert Farrent, a man about town (Charles Wheeler), Phyllis Manning, Lombardi's sweetheart (Irene Goulay), James Hodgkins, Lombardi's bookkeeper and manager (Hallam Bosworth), and Yvette (Mary Brittain) and Muriel (Peggy Roberts), maids.

The towns worn in Lombardi, Ltd., are gorgeous and the stage setting elaborate.

For the society night performance last evening at the Orpheum there were no vacant seats. The sparkling comedy, "The Reckless Eye," brought out more theater parties than usual. It is announced that for Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock the physical culture expert, Mlle. Nadje, will give a lecture exclusively for women.

Inquiries at the box office of the Boyd are warranted for a play that Richard Carle will be greeted by an oldtime audience when he comes on Friday night to open the season at that theater.

During the week all postponed meetings of the insurance men's convention will naturally be resumed at the Gayety theater, where the Victory Belles are presenting the only musical show in town.

Fiske O'Hara will appear at the Brandeis during the Ak-Sar-Ben week as the man from "Down Limerick Way," the new romantic comedy by Anna Nichols.

Tom Powell, producer of advelty acts, has presented a singing and dancing sketch with real southern characters in "On the Mississippi," which toplines the bill at the Empress this first half.

GENERAL OUTLINES AMERICA'S FUTURE MILITARY POLICY. A. E. F. Chief of Staff Calls for Peace on the Pacific "On Our Own Terms."

Washington, Sept. 22.—America's future military policy as advocated today before the house military committee by Maj. Gen. J. W. McAndrew, chief of staff of the A. E. F., throughout the war, should call for "peace on the Pacific on our own terms." This, he said, can be assured by control of the Panama canal and the Hawaiian islands.

Although General McAndrew told the committee he was loath to disagree with the general staff, he took issue with its reorganization plan on the basis of an army of 509,000 men, proposing instead a force of 300,000 "at the utmost."

Wants 1,250,000 Army. General McAndrew recommended that the skeleton of 21 divisions, a field army of 1,250,000 men, as proposed by the general staff be approved, but he suggested that these divisions, with the exception of four, be skeletonized to 6,000 or 7,000 men, instead of a larger number as proposed by the war department.

Division on Border. The peace time army of 300,000 men, he said, should be distributed with one complete division at the Panama canal, another at Hawaii, another with additional troops, if necessary, along the Mexican border; small forces in the Philippine and Alaska and the remainder at home for coast defense and training.

By all means," he asserted, "we must safeguard Hawaii. Its loss in time of war would put Japan or any combination of powers on the flank of our communications to Asia and the Philippines. It is likely that in any war in the Pacific we might not at first have the preponderance of naval strength, and the army must maintain the islands until reinforcements are brought from the Atlantic fleet by way of the canal.

For two weeks the P. C. & R. road has been tied up by a strike and the east has been scoured for trainmen. Late one afternoon a husky, hard-faced man strolled into the employment manager and said: "I can brake. Gimme a job!" The manager looked him over carefully. His appearances were against him.

Today's Beauty Hint

It is not necessary to shampoo your hair so frequently if it is entirely and properly cleansed each time by the use of a really good shampoo. The easiest to use and quickest drying shampoo that we can recommend to our readers is one that brings out all the natural beauty of the hair and may be enjoyed at very little expense, by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthox which can be obtained from any druggist, in a cup of hot water.

Coconut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful.
