Governor to Call Special Session of Legislature as Result of Sunday Disorder

Solons to Be Called Upon to Pass Law Enabling Douglas County to Raise Money for Repair of Court House, Damaged to Extent of $1,000,000, by Fire Started by Rioting Mob.

"I shall call a special session of the legislature at once to pass an act to enable Douglas county to raise money for rebuilding the court house, provided the attorney general decides that this money cannot be raised in any other way," said Governor McKelvie yesterday at the Hotel Fontenelle, after a conference with the board of county commissioners.

He arrived here at 3:40 a. m. yesterday from North Platte. He declared that the work of the mob last Sunday night was shocking and horrifying beyond his imagination.

State of Governor. The events incident to the riot in Omaha are the most shocking and deplorable I have ever known in a community like this.

It is not necessary now to moralize upon what might have been. It is far more important that the people of this community should view the situation without prejudice and determine upon processes of action that will prevent such a thing ever recurring again.

ple of this community should view the situation without prejudice and determine upon processes of action that will prevent such a thing ever recurring again.

In this connection, the thing of first importance is a respect for the law. No amount of police protection will prevent such occurrences unless the people themselves are determined that those who are placed in positions of authority shall be respected and given the support that comes from an intelligent and unprejudiced public sentiment.

Scores City Administration. One who is acquainted with conditions in Omaha during the past few months could not be very much surprised at what has happened.

I deem it of utmost importance that the good people of Omaha should at once organize their minds to discourage the activities of those who are constantly attempting to bring reproach upon public officials and join in a common support of those who have been duly elected to responsible public positions.

which young boys were engaged in the destruction of property and the violence that characterized the riot. We can have little hope for the future if such acts reflect a condition which is common in any community.

Urges Respect for Law. The correction of these misguided youths must begin in the home and should be carried on through our entire educational system.

I shall not attempt to fix the blame for all that has happened. I think it would perhaps be fair to criticize the one who applauded the acts of the rioters as to criticize those who actually did the work, but there can be no doubt that this should stand as an everlasting lesson to the people of the state that it is their duty to co-operate with the public officials in the enforcement of the laws.

Oil Company Start Drilling. Riverton, Neb., Sept. 30.—(Special.)—The Bethlehem Oil company closed a deal with the Riverton Oil and Gas company of this city taking over 15,000 acres in oil leases.

Should Have Constabulary. The state has no national guard at the present time, though several companies are being organized.

made appropriation for the support of a guard, this being made contingent upon the customary support being provided by the federal government. The national guard act was not passed by congress until recently and since that time Adjutant-General Paul has been very active in trying to get militia companies organized.

However, with a state militia, I am not convinced that this is the better method of handling such situations. In my message to the legislature, I recommend a state constabulary, and I fully believe that 75 or 100 men from such an organization, had they been called at almost any time during the progress of the riot, could have brought order without delay.

It shall not be the purpose of the state to inject itself into the situation more than to co-operate with this stricken community in developing an improved condition here. I have confidence in the people of Omaha and Douglas county, and I believe that they will, as a result of this sad experience, see to it that proper steps are taken to prevent a recurrence of such a disgraceful thing, and, incidentally, I would leave the thought that it is better for Omaha to do its washing in its own back yard than to give to the world the impression that Nebraska is still in the primitive stages of civilization.

State Treasurer Opens New Banking Guaranty Account

Lincoln, Sept. 30.—(Special.)—The following is given out by Secretary J. E. Hart of the department of trade and commerce: A new account now appears on the books of the state treasurer known as "Special Reserve of the Depositors Guaranty Fund" being the first contribution of a bank in voluntary liquidation under the recent statute which requires liquidators of banks not consolidating with other state banks to pay to the state treasurer the amount accumulated in its depositors guaranty fund. The state treasurer is required to report annually to the department of trade and commerce the amounts so received and how invested. These funds cannot be drawn against for any purpose except the payment of deposits in failed banks and is not available for that purpose until the regular depositors guaranty fund shall become depleted. The first bank to liquidate and pay in its accumulated funds under this section was the Harrisburg State bank of Harrisburg and the amount paid in was $24,776. Harrisburg is a small inland town in Banner county.

At Neighborhood Houses

COMFORT, 54th and Vinton—RESERVED IN "THE WISHING RING MAN," also DREW COMEDY. APOLLO, 29th and Leavenworth—CLARENCE KRIEGER IN "THE BETTER WIFE."

Sun—"The Pagan God," with H. B. Warner, a story of the East, and the black spots of Mongolia. To his sweetheart, Beryl Addison, and a beautiful American consul, Bruce Whitrop, seemed to be an idler and a traitor to his country when he went to Shantung, joining the revolutionary "Tong of Freedom," and made love to Tai Hing, the Oriental enchantress. In time he saved so many American lives that would have been lost had he not come of these seemingly dirty tricks, but it was done out of loyalty, and then he became quite the hero of the hour.

Muse—"Toys of Fate" is the second picture of Nazimova's at this theater. It will be played for two days. She plays a Gypsy princess. The cup of love is placed at Zah's lips, only to be snatched roughly away, and life seems to play at cross-purposes with this true-hearted daughter of the Romyany race.

Empress—Peggy Hyland's ability to draw audiences is never better demonstrated than this week at the Empress theater, where her new picture of circus life, "The Merry-Ground," has filled the house at every showing. Tomorrow, and for the last three days of the week, Theda Bara will be seen in "The Barling of Paris," founded upon Victor Hugo's famous tragic romance, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."

AT THE THEATERS

READERS of Helen R. Martin's quaint story of the Pennsylvania Dutch, "Tillie, a Menonite Maid," cannot fail to remember the delightfully sympathetic "Auntie Em" whose loyalty to "Tillie" saved her much abuse from her stern father, and who pleads with her not to let the little curls show beneath her white cap, so that she will not be "set back" in the Menonite faith, nor Tillie herself, the girl heroine, whose struggle to attain her ambition—an education—whose uncomplaining suffering and heroic performance made her a particularly interesting character. It is the role of "Tillie" that dainty Patricia Collinge is playing this season, and the play, a comedy in four acts entitled "Tillie," will be presented at the Brandeis for three days, starting next Monday.

Miss Rachte, who walks in her sleep at the Boyd this afternoon and evening, gives not only a lifelike picture of a real somnambulist, but shows how well a beautiful girl can look in a simple frock, although her night robes may arouse wonder and maybe envy among those who know most about such things. "She Walked in Her Sleep" is one of the brightest, cleanest farces ever written, and is very well played by the company having it in hand. The engagement ends tonight.

Fiske O'Hara is playing at the Brandeis theater in his new romantic comedy, "Down Limerick Way," in which he has the part of an Irish nobleman whose family are trying to get him married. He is left in the will of a departed friend, the legacy of a beautiful girl, and the amusing complications arising from this situation causes mirthful interludes. Mr. O'Hara sings a number of new song selections, fresh with the fragrance of the Erin Isle.

Harry Watson, jr., the stellar attraction this week at the Orpheum, does not have to depend on humorous lines to create hearty laughter. Some of his best comedy is the result of facial play and pantomime. The most novel feature of the current bill is a band of 10 instrumentalists, all of whom are Chinese performers. Their repertory includes descriptive selections, marches and jazz music.

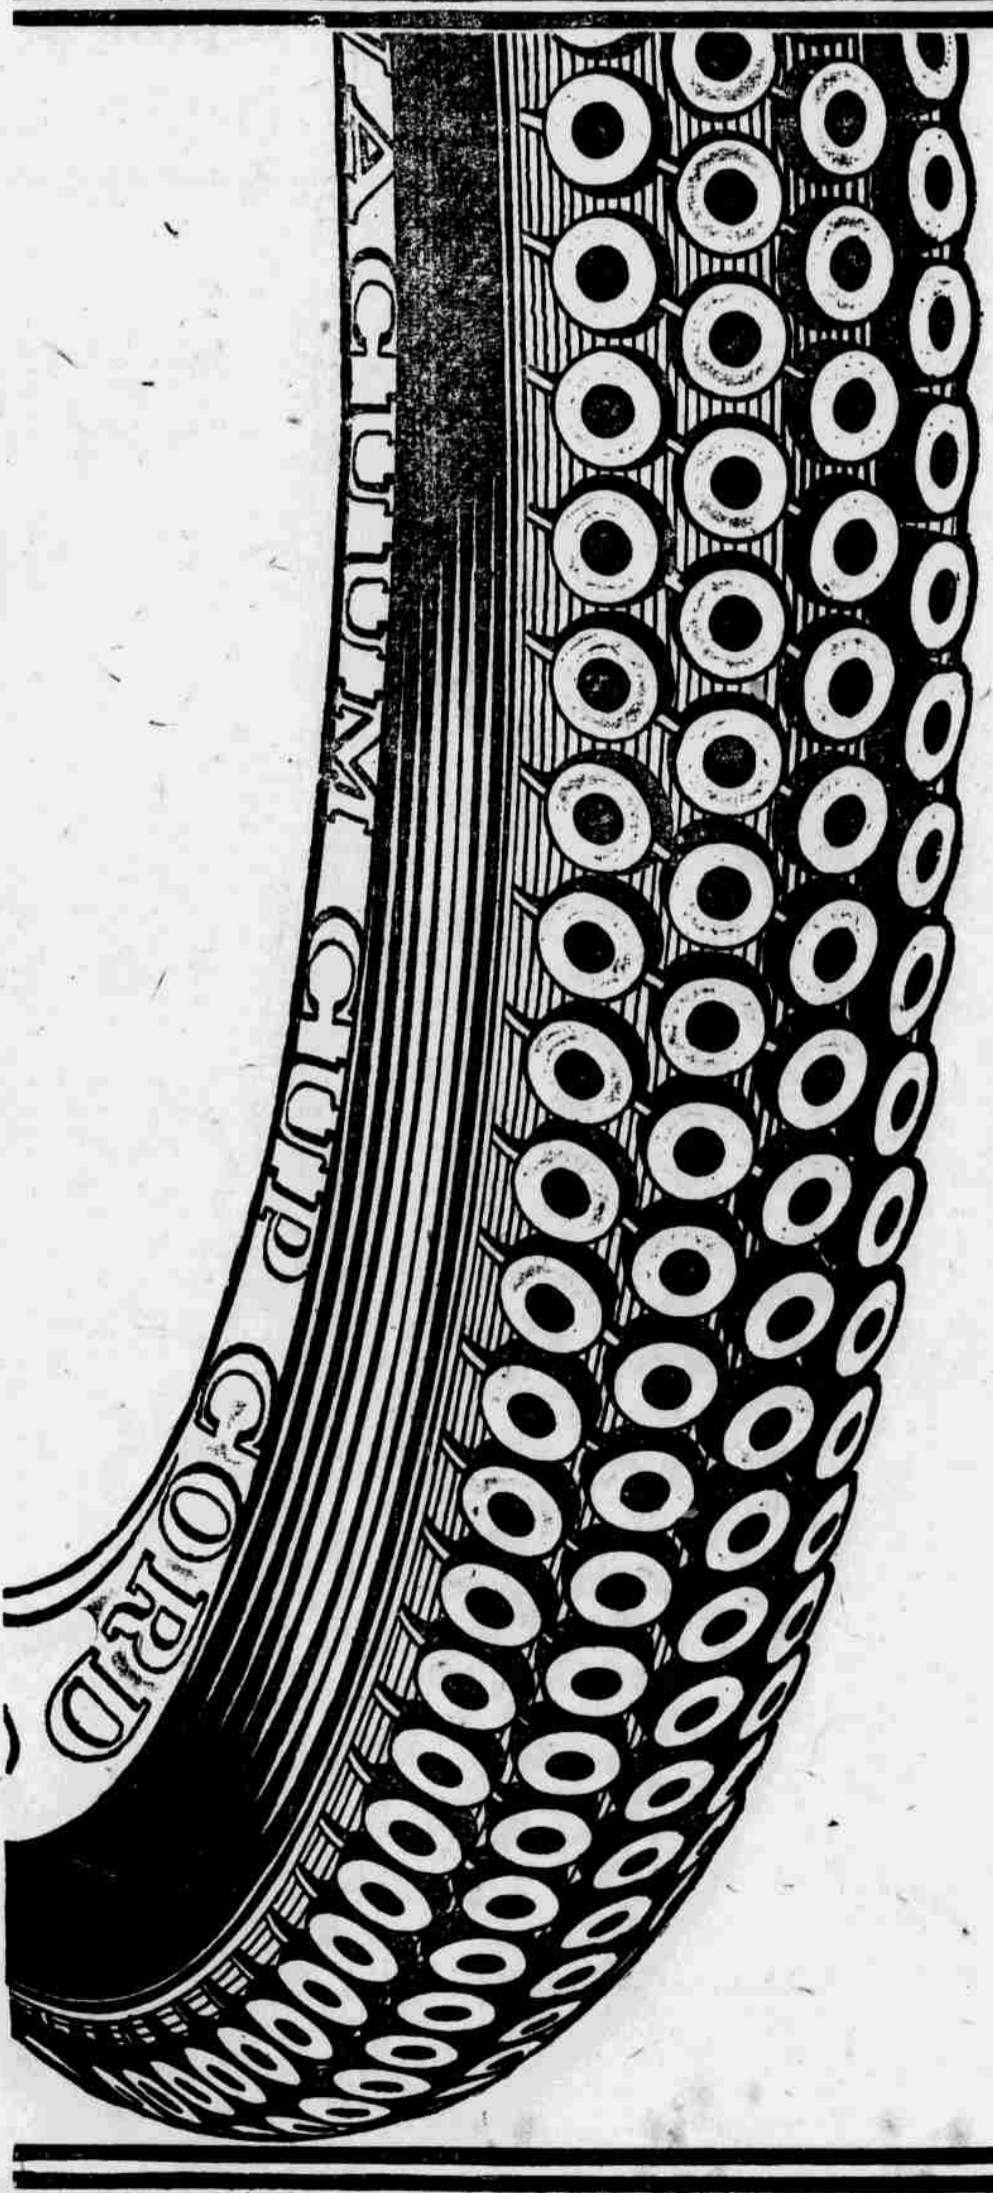

The Roseland Girls, now playing at the Gayety theater, is one of the newest kind of burlesque entertainments, and not only includes good comedians, but lots of real live comedy that tickles. The musical part of the show is absolutely enjoyable, and so are the pretty show girls, who form a handsome chorus and assist in the attractive ensemble work.

Manager Ledoux of the Empress theater announces two special feature acts in addition to his regular program of four acts of vaudeville as special Ak-Sar-Ben attractions. One of these is a novelty singing and talking act, featuring Janis and Gaddney, entertainers who have met with success throughout the circuit. The other is an aerial act in which Howard and Howard perform daring and sensational feats. An act of merit is the pretentious singing and instrumental novelty, "A Night in Venice," presented by a quartet of talented musical artists. A delightful little skit is "What is It All About?" which affords Howard Mack and Henrietta opportunities to introduce a number of splendid specialties in song, dance and story. The comedy playlet offered by Arthur De Voe and his company of players is worth while.
