Rath Stays on Second.

In the first round Rath reached first on free transportation and was sacrificed to second, but neither Groh nor Roush could deliver and he got no further. In their half the Sox did a little better. Liebold, the first man up, waited for four wide ones and took second on an infield out and reached third on Weaver's single, which was checked, but not captured, by Eller. Th partisan local crowd called long and loud for a run, but Jackson, despite a new set of "lucky" hairpins, went out on a pop fly to Groh and Felsch flew to left.

In the second and third the crowd was treated to the remarkable exhibition in which Gandil, Risberg, Schalk, Williams, Liebold and Ed Collins struck out. Roush, who had but one hit to his credit to date in the series, de clared himself in on the onslaught at this juncture and recorded his second hit in left center, a triple, and Rath and Groh counted. ## ELLER'S WORK ON Reds Lead White Sox MOUND SHOWN IN GAME ANALYSIS

Hod's Hurling Was Best in the Five World's Series Contests Played Up to Date.

Chicago, Oct 6.-Hod Eller's in today's game of the world's series stood out plainly in the pitching analysis. After his two-base hit had paved the way for his team's four runs in the sixth inning, he took chances with the Chicago basemen, 0 but in the first five sessions he was 0 using his best brand of shoots, hops and benders on every occasion.

Of the 46 strikes which Eller pitched, 36 came in the first five innings, and half of that number were recorded in the second and third. when he struck out six successive Two-base hit: Eller, Three-base batsmen. In the third inning Liebold was the only Sox player to touch the ball, and his best was a high foul into the upper tier of the

In the sixth Eller threw only five times. One of those efforts was a ball, another was fouled, and a fly and two easy grounders disposed of the three batters. The big Red twirler missed the plate 18 times in the first three innings, but in the last six had only seven bad ones called. This was largely due to the fact that he was putting practically every ball across the plate, and the Chicago men quit trying to wait him out.

While Eller's work was unusually fine, Williams pitched a fine brand of ball also, and made a creditable record in all departments. He had 43 strikes in eight innings and only 28 balls, a performance which was far ahead of his exhibition at Cincinnati in the second game of the series. Williams was working the inside corner constantly, and it was a pitch of this species below his knees that Eller lofted between Jackson and Felsch after waying weakly at two similar offerings Williams yielded four hits to Eller's three, struck out three to Eller's nine and gave two bases on balls as compared with Eller's one.

Mayer, who pitched the ninth for Chicago, exhibited a lack of control giving one pass and missing the 12 times out of 21 attempts. All told, the Chicago pitchers threw 126 times. Eller got through with
