SOCIETY CLUBBING

OMAHA is preparing to take its place as a patron of the noble art of song. The music-loving citizens of this part of the earth's geography will no longer need to journey to Chicago or New York from time to time to feed their hungry souls upon emotions divine, if this grand opera season proves a success. Mrs. Florence Whiteside of the Chicago Grand Opera organization promises that the evenings of opera will be of quality par excellence so far as the artists are concerned. Local modest avar that the beauty of the patrons' gowns will match the brilliance of the princess herself in the triumphal entry scene of "Aida." Jewels are coming out from their hiding places to add to the splendor of the occasion. Out-of-town reservations are coming in rapidly. All the way from Bonesteel, S. D., came one letter. From Iowa, Missouri and from all over Nebraska have come requests for reservations. The names indicate an audience of accomplished musicians. Lincoln will send a splendid representation to Omaha for the occasion. Mme. De Vilmar, a former grand opera star herself, now one of the leading instructors of voice in the capital city, and wife of Jean L. Schaefer, a violinist of repute, was one of the first to take advantage of the opportunity to come. John M. Roseborough, instructor in piano at the University School of Music, and his wife, formerly Miss Annie Jones, a pleasing pianist herself, have made arrangements to attend. Miss Alma Wagner, a promising young singer, former pupil of Louise LeBaron, grand opera star, is noted among the Lincoln patrons; also Malcolm G. Wyer, librarian, University of Nebraska; Mrs. Paul Alcorn, Geraldine J. Brown and Charles W. Wiedman.

ARE Omaha women awake to their responsibilities as citizens? This question will be largely answered in the next two weeks, some of the local leaders say, by the number of women who register for the election of November 4. The latest registration date is October 24. Harley G. Morehead, election commissioner, says that those who desire to register may enter the court house without passes between 2 and 6 p. m. daily. South Omaha women may register at their city hall the second Saturday before election, October 18, but except for this provision, the main floor of the court house is the only place for registration.

GRACE GRANT

Miss Grace Grant, chairman of the committee, Business Woman's club, which presents Wallace Nutting at the Fontenelle hotel Saturday night.

following Omaha appointees left Friday morning: Dr. Palmer Findley, Judge Howard Kennedy, Welcome Bradley, Mrs. Draper Smith, Miss Charlotte Townsend and Miss Lillian Stiff. Each one of these members, as well as each of the other nine members of the commission, has some special qualification for the important work assigned by the legislature of 1919. Under the law, this commission is charged "to make special study of the subject of child welfare, with special reference to the problems presented in Nebraska, and investigate social and other conditions affecting child welfare in Nebraska; shall make a study of comparative legislation relating thereto, and recommend new legislation, and shall embody said recommendations and the results of said investigation in a written report to the governor on December 1, 1920, which report the governor shall transmit to the legislature next convening.

Heart Beats

Where do the cynics come from? Dear me— From everywhere. In cynics there is a fairness— Justice to the great And small— They see the good And bad in each— They know both Judie And the governor's lady— And the souls From under the skin. They see the half-good Condemned— Outcast— Adrift on the stormy Billows of Life— They see the half-bad Leading church choir— Or preaching in A Sunday class. They see the honest Shabby and cold— In rags In want and woe— They see the thieves Proclaimed In leaves— Of literature As patriots And leaders. They weigh the deeds Of rich and poor— Their motives are assembled And placed on scales Of righteousness That see— Saw Up and down— And finds there is No balance. They see the farce— Observe the "play"— With cold and critical eye— Contemptuous and clever. They think too much— They look too deep Into the cause Of ill effects. From out of the world Of everyday things— Injustice— Unfairness— And sham— Come our cynics From everywhere. SELAHI

Side Lights On Opera— Foreign Music Lovers and Patronesses.

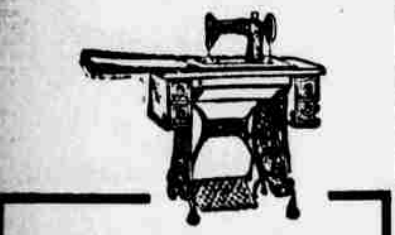

Opera is now holding first place in the heart of Omaha and, from every corner and every class, reservations are being made for opera seats. This proves that not only the wealthy class who can afford expensive seats love music and appreciate opera, but also those whose slim exchequers permit of only the simplest pleasures. Mrs. Florence E. Whiteside, who is in Omaha conducting the pre-opera affairs, says that it is surprising how the foreigners in our midst are rushing to reserve seats for one or both performances. "They are coming in groups," she declared, "with smiling faces. One senses the fact that these operas will be a real treat to their souls. "As soon as the information began to sift through private avenues

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Vail announce the engagement of their niece, Miss May Tobin, to Ray N. McWhiney of Hastings, Neb., formerly of Omaha. The wedding will take place October 25 at St. Bridget's church. Miss Tobin has been doing active work with the knitting department of the Red Cross for two years and has been acting head of the Omaha branch since the resignation of Mrs. A. W. Jeffries, who went to Washington last winter.

Betrothal Announcement.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sterba announce the engagement of their daughter, Vlasta Louise, to Mr. Frank Mizera of David City, Neb. The wedding will take place the latter part of October.
