SOCIETY Home From the East

THE secret is out! An Omaha man has been found with four wives. One would naturally think that with the high cost of living that a man should be satisfied with one wife and even then hesitate.

Not so with the Maharajah of Hunga, as played by Roland Sherman in "Katcha Koo," the Oriental American musical fantastique to be given under the auspices of the First Central Congregational church, October 24 and 25, at the Brandeis theater.

Evidently this man enjoys variety for there are French, Brazilian, Chinese and Irish wives in the group. These roles are taken by the following attractive young women: Brazilitata, Hazel Peterson; Chin Chin Foo, Ann McConnell; La Belle Elysee, Phyllis Waterman; Patsy Kildare, Helen Walker.

There is much said about a woman's keeping the devotion of a man. In this case it requires all of the ingenuity of the clever and powerful Maharajah to even win a glance from his pretty and lovely wives.

Brown and Joseph Black of Kearney.

Mrs. Henry Cox will entertain at a bridge party for them Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey will spend the week-end with friends in Lincoln and will attend the big event of the foot ball season, the game between Nebraska university and Notre Dame.

House Warming.
Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Reynolds, who have recently come to Omaha from St. Joe, were honor guests at a surprise house warming party given at their home Saturday evening. Those who planned the affair included Messrs. and Mesdames M. W. Yeager, J. C. Wallace, A. L. Rainalter, A. J. Mayer, Ernest Trimble, Guy Willis and Mrs. Kitzmiller.

Luncheon Party.
Mrs. A. S. Rainalter entertained at a luncheon at her home Friday. Decorations were in pink and white. Covers were placed for Mesdames M. W. Yeager, J. C. Wallace, C. Kaufman, D. B. Meyers, A. H. Boyesen, J. W. Reynolds, Ernest Trimble and F. G. Kimberly.

Theater Parties.
W. P. Knapp entertained ten guests at the Orpheum Monday C. L. Farnsworth, nine; H. Howland, eight; G. D. Beaumont, seven; V. Currey, six; Mrs. Glenn Wharton, six; W. T. Noyes, six; R. McKenzie, six; R. Zachary, five; J. F. Sullivan, five; Wm. Scoville, five, and H. Nygaard five. Foursomes were given by Fred Webster, Charles Ver Merhan, George Sugarman, W. Schnorr, Mrs. Ray Shields, O. C. Bedick, P. W. Mickell, A. B. McConnell, C. C. Lohrman, E. W. Hart, A. Harris, C. F. Greunig, Dr. W. T. Dailley, F. B. Gusselman, George B. Drake, William Chambers, L. M. Cohan, A. L. Coad, J. M. Baldrige, Hal Brady and K. Branch.

Cleaning Wallpaper.
The wallpaper may go through another season if it gets a thorough cleaning. Wrap a soft cloth around a broom and with this dust the paper well, but not so vigorously as not to scratch or mar it. When all this is removed cut a loaf of stale bread (two days old) into quarters and rub the wall paper with this. Use downward strokes and let them be light but steady.

Harriett Smith
Smith Sisters Will Join Activities of Younger Set.

Helen Smith

Among the beautiful girls who will take part in the activities of the younger set during the coming season are the Misses Harriett and Helen Smith. With their mother, Mrs. Arthur Crittenden Smith they spent the summer months at Cohasset and Boston, Mass., returning home Monday morning. Their plans for the winter are yet indefinite but they intend to remain in Omaha. Miss Helen will make her debut here in a short time although having made her formal bow to society at Boston while she was there. Her debutante party was one of the very unusual and received much comment from prominent Boston matrons. Miss Helen Smith finished Miss Spence's school in June.

Informal Dinner.
Miss Helen Rinehart entertained informally at dinner Sunday evening at Rinehart apartment in the El Beudor. Covers were laid for six.

If there is a leak in the gas or water pipe you can temporarily check it by making a paste of powdered whiting and yellow soap filling the hole with this. You can then await the delayed attention of the plumber.

Heart Beats

By A. K.

The idler sits
In his easy chair
And dreams
Of the lucky ones
Who fare
More bountifully than he.
The architect
Of great renown—
The artist's weird
Uncanny brush—
The writer's queer dexterity—
Musician's art—
The builder's skill—
And technic of
A Zimbalist
Are themes
For dreams
The while he sits—
So comfy
In his easy chair.
He sighs—
The why's
For all these things
Are never understood
At all.
He does not know
That poor men build
Homes—castles—and
Proud lofty towers—
"Alas! these structures rise—
By the wand
Of working hours—"
Nor does the idler
Ever dream
The architect
Toils day and night—
The artist works
And thinks and paints—
(The brush is not uncanny)
Builders strive
Through many years—
Their skill is mostly
"Want-to".
Technic is grim
Hard Labor's gift—
Reward for grinding,
Grueling struggle—
It's not good luck
Or gift alone
That make "stars" shine
In achievement's sky.
But the reward
For honest toil
Who is not kind
To easy chairs.
