INDUSTRY PARALYZED ALL OVER EUROPE.

New York, Oct. 18.—"There is a paralysis of industry all over Europe. One exception is Belgium, but that is the only one." Frank A. Vanderbit told the American Manufacturers' Export association today. France and England, he said, were rapidly increasing their paper currency. Banking credits, he said, were inadequate to relieve the situation. "There should be the creation of some security," he added, "that will go to the investors of the country that will provide the funds to get Europe back to work and unless that is done, the tragedy that Europe faces will be one that we will be in danger of having extended to us. Whatever it costs the civilization of Europe must be saved."

ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL GLAND OPERATION.

San Francisco, Oct. 18.—(By Universal Service.)—The 10th successful operation in gland transplantation to be performed at San Quentin prison within a year took place following the execution of Thomas Bellon. The interstitial gland, removed from the body of Bellon immediately after he had been pronounced dead, was transplanted to the body of a prisoner afflicted with premature age and a depleted physical condition. The operation was completed within an hour after Bellon had been pronounced dead.

As described by Dr. Kelker, the patient on whom the operation was performed was a man of 35 years of age but appearing much older and appeared to be undernourished, having the appearance of a man compelled to perform hard labor with insufficient food. For some time past his eyesight had been failing and his movements indicated extreme weakness, while his mental condition was that of a man who had lost all interest in life.

This condition generally describes of all the prisoners who have been operated on at the prison, according to Dr. Kelker. In every previous operation, he said, an immediate improvement had been noticeable, sometimes becoming evident within 24 hours after the performance of the operation. This improvement has been manifested by a restoration of failing senses such as sight, hearing and appetite, and also a revival of interest in life and surroundings, indicating a pronounced improvement in the mental condition of the patient.

St. Louis Increases Its Tax of Profiteer Landlords and Collects Share of Spoils

Assessor Says Just Proportion of Increases Is Due City—Over Five Millions Added to Values Already and More Than $182,000 Collected—Rent Raises Justified Only by Added Improvements to Property.

St. Louis, Oct. 18.—(Special.)—The assessment of residence property, on which landlords have increased rents during the period of complaints of profiteering, has been increased $5,650,000 to date and increases will be levied on other property of this class as it is reached during the assessment period which ends in December.

Thus the landlords so far assessed will contribute $132,775 of the increased rents they will collect before December, 1920, to the city in the form of increased taxes. These are figures of a statement by Assessor Wollbrink in response to an inquiry as to what progress the city had made in its effort to check rent profiteering.

Increases Made.

The districts so far assessed and the increases made on the assessment of dwelling, flats and apartments rented within them follow:

Delmar boulevard to Easton avenue, from Taylor avenue west to the city limits, $2,300,000.

South side of Delmar boulevard to Manchester avenue, west of Taylor avenue, $1,000,000.

Manchester avenue to Magnolia avenue, from Grand avenue west, $1,000,000.

Easton avenue, north to Natural Bridge road, west of Taylor avenue, $500,000.

South of Tower Grove Park (Arsenal street) to Gravois avenue, from the Mississippi river to the city limits, $850,000.

Value Belongs to City.

In explaining the method employed, Assessor Wollbrink made the following statement:

VEILED WOMAN AND MALE COMPANION ROB PEDESTRIAN

Leave Victim Unconscious After Taking Coat and Purse.

Mrs. Fern French, 29 years old, 1138 North Seventeenth street, was attacked at 6 last night at Forty-sixth and California streets by a heavily veiled woman and a man, knocked unconscious and robbed of $7.20. For half an hour she lay unconscious in a field nearby unnoticed.

Dazed, the injured woman found her way home after borrowing care from a woman pedestrian, John French, her husband, called the police.

Mrs. French told the police she was securing names and addresses for the Omaha City Directory company when attacked.

Woman Heavily Veiled.

"I sat on the curbstone at Forty-sixth and California streets to rest," Mrs. French said. "A woman, heavily veiled, with a fur wrapped about her throat and mouth, approached me.

"The veiled woman said, 'Here she is,' and a man's voice answered, 'All right.'

"The man seized me from behind and put his hand over my mouth. I remember the woman took my pocketbook and the two of them started to carry me away. I think he must have struck me on the head. I don't remember any more, and when I awoke, I think a half hour later, I had several big bumps on my head and a bad headache.

"I was lying flat on my back in an open field. My plush coat had been taken off and was nowhere around. I stumbled along till I came to a street, and asked a woman there to give me some care. She put me in a street car. After that I must have gone into unconsciousness again, because when I awoke I was standing at Twentieth and Cuming streets. From there I was able to find my way home."

Police surgeons who attended Mrs. French said she had deep scratches on her back and breast and several bumps behind her right ear. Mrs. French's pocketbook was gone when she awoke, and papers from it were scattered about where she lay.

Here Is First Telegraphed Picture, Which Will Be Exclusive Bee Feature

"Mike" Gilhooly, champion stowaway, guest at a New York hotel.

Test of Invention Here Proves Pictures by Wire Is No Longer Idle Dream

Photograph of Lad Taken in New York Hotel is Reproduced in Omaha Only Few Hours Later—Watch Bee for Other Pictures.

The first of the telegraphic pictures to be published by The Bee, as shown above, while exhibiting a lack of finish to be found in photos taken direct from the camera plate, is still an excellent photograph and shows the wonderful possibilities for the future. In addition, and pending the improvements which the experience of the past, with all inventions indicates, is certain to follow, the fact of the timeliness of the graphic representation makes up for any faults that might be pointed out.

This picture was taken Saturday afternoon in New York and immediately forwarded to The Bee by the wonderful telegraphic process.

Master Mike Gilhooly gained fame through his insistence upon being admitted to the United States. He was a Belgian war orphan adopted by an American regiment during the progress of the fighting and at the end of hostilities stowed away on a ship bound for the land of his adopted parents, the members of the regiment. On landing at Ellis island he was immediately re-shipped to the old country, but came back again. This was repeated five times, until national attention was attracted to his exploits, and then offers of adoption began to pour in upon the emigration officials.

A woman in Milwaukee made a bid for him, but was a little late, as Mrs. Marian Gilhooly Curry, a wealthy woman of New York, has already made a claim, and possession of the boy had been delivered to her pending formal arrangements.

Mrs. Curry had been attracted to the boy, not only because of his persistence, courage and daring, but because his was her maiden name, Gilhooly. She installed him in her apartments at the Vanderbilt hotel in New York City, and the young stowaway began to live the life of a modern Aladdin.

The above picture will be followed by others, to be published in The Bee whenever events of importance transpire that are worth photographic reproduction, and where the enterprise of the newspaper dictates that the picture should be placed before its readers immediately without waiting for the slow transmission of the mails.

Collective Bargaining Agreement Reached by Industrial Conference

Washington, Oct. 18.—A tentative agreement on collective bargaining was reached by the general committee of the national industrial conference after an all-day session. Committee members will consult with their respective groups Sunday and final action on framing a report to the conference will be taken by the general committee tomorrow night.

The committee agreement was reached by taking the declaration of the public and labor groups as a basis and adding to the sentence recognizing the right of wage earners to organize "in trade and labor unions" the words "shop and other industrial associations."

The proposed compromise also substitutes for the sentence of the original declaration recognizing the right of organized labor to be represented "by representatives of their own choosing" the words "by representatives chosen by a majority of their own members."

BOLSHEVIKI CAN'T HOLD FORT LONG

One Dispatch Announces Yudenitch's Cavalry Already Is in Capital, But This Report Lacks Confirmation.

DENIKINE IN SOUTH PURSUES SUCCESSES

Bolshevik Minister of War Says "Pack of Bourgeois Curs Is Worrying Body of Soviet Russia on All Sides."

London, Oct. 18.—(By The Associated Press.)—Petrograd tonight was so closely invested by the anti-bolshevik forces, according to the latest official advice, that military experts expressed the belief that little short of a miracle could save the hard-pressed bolshevik. Indeed, one newspaper dispatch reported General Yudenitch's cavalry in the capital. But there is no confirmation of this.

Neither had British official confirmation been received of the reported surrender of Kronstadt, although the war office states that the Estonians on Friday, operating in conjunction with Yudenitch, got within four miles of the Krasnia Gorka, facing Kronstadt. Thus Kronstadt would be in a dangerous position as, with the capture of Petrograd, the Swedish cut-off, coincident with these reports comes an announcement by Leon Trotsky, the bolshevik war minister, referring to the anti-bolshevik forces as "a pack of bourgeois curs worrying the body of soviet Russia" and declaring that Petrograd will not fall.

Further reports from Scandinavian sources that Petrograd had been entered by forces of the Russian north-western army were received this afternoon. The Skanska Dagbladet of Stockholm, according to a message from the Swedish consul, reported that the cavalry of that army had reached Petrograd.

A bolshevik wireless communique claims the capture of Fastov, a railway junction 40 miles southwest of Kiev, on the road to Odessa.

An earlier bolshevik announcement reported that Kiev itself was captured Wednesday by an impetuous surprise attack. General Denikine has not reported the loss of this town, one of the most important in southern Russia.

Curs Worrying Russia.

The following description of the situation in the Baltic is attributed to Leon Trotsky, the bolshevik minister of war, by a wireless message from Moscow:

"A pack of bourgeois curs are worrying the body of soviet Russia on all sides. Polish knights are gnashing their teeth. The German consul, von der Goltz, under instructions by the stock exchange and the offshoots of all lands, is seizing the Baltic country with the (Continued on Page Four, Column Five.)

Omaha Girl Seeks Heavy Damages for Ejection From Hotel

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 18.—(Special Telegram.)—How many good round dollars should a girl be given for injury to her reputation in being ejected from a hotel when the management believed her presence was undesirable?

Pretty Miss Irene Anna Stecher of Omaha says not a cent less than $10,000, and she has filed suit against the Hotel Clark for that sum, but Miss Stecher says her injuries amount to more than a mere character damage. Her sufferings, as outlined in the complaint filed by Attorney Lester W. Roth in the United States district court, are:

"Injury to nervous system.

"Humiliation and disgrace.

"Shock and sickness.

"Great pain and chagrin.

"Mortification and anguish of body and mind."

Miss Stecher claims that she left Omaha, where she resides with her mother, July 12 for a trip through the Canadian Rockies and down the coast. An old friend of the family was visiting in Los Angeles and they met. He was the only friend she had in the city. Miss Stecher claims, and occasionally visited her at the hotel. He was present on the evening of September 22 about 6 o'clock. Miss Stecher alleges, when she was ejected from the hotel, that she was being accused of being a disreputable person and of conduct imputing guilt of impropriety and immorality.
