

AGED YEGGMAN FACES ANOTHER REST IN PRISON

Ex-Convict With Many Aliases and Long Jail Record Suspected of Safe Blowing Job at Melbourne, Ia.

Pete A. Hawkins alias Frank Harris alias Peter Hughes alias Thomas Jones, 60 years old, ex-convict and said to be the oldest of professional yeggmen in the middle west, was arrested Sunday night by Detectives Dolan and Hagerman for investigation in connection with a robbery and safe-blowing "job" in Melbourne, Ia., on the night of August 2, 1919.

Hawkins was arrested upon description sent out by Iowa authorities. The loot, taken from the safe the night of the robbery, consisted solely of liberty bonds, valued at $7,000. Detectives say that Hawkins had $1,200 worth of bonds on him when arrested in a lower Douglas street lodging house.

Refuses to Talk.

In line with the general characteristic of the professional crook, Hawkins denies the robbery and refuses to talk concerning his whereabouts since his parole from the Nebraska state penitentiary a few months ago.

Chief of Detectives Dunn made efforts to get in touch with authorities at Melbourne, Ia., concerning the robbery last August.

Hawkins served six terms in different penitentiaries throughout the west since 1888. His criminal record shows penal offenses consisted of highway robberies and burglaries.

When he was 30 years old he was sentenced to the Iowa state penitentiary for one year for burglary. Six years later he served six months in the same penitentiary for a similar crime. In 1896 he was sentenced to 10 years in the Kansas state prison for highway robbery and was paroled in 1903.

Changed Name Often.

Four years later Hawkins, under the name of Thomas Jones, was sentenced to five years in the Nebraska penitentiary for safe-blowing. He was sent up from Monroe, Neb., at that time.

In 1914, under the name of Frank Harris, Hawkins began a five-year term in the Oregon state prison for burglary. He was paroled from that place on April 17, 1916, records show.

His last penitentiary sentence was given him on November 12, 1917, at Wahoo, Neb., for breaking and entering. He was given from one to five years and was paroled five months ago.

BOND ISSUE MAY BE APPROVED AT MEETING TODAY

County Commissioners May Wait, However, Until Definite Estimate Made of Damage to Records.

The board of county commissioners will meet today to pass a resolution to issue bonds for the repair of the court house and the restoration of the destroyed records. This meeting will be unique in county history. Heretofore, all bond issues have been made only after a vote of the people. Under the law passed last week by the special session of the legislature the five county commissioners, by a simple resolution can make legal the expenditure of a vast sum of money.

The estimate for the repair of the court house is $542,000. To this must be added that for the restoration of the records which will cost, it is said, from $250,000 to $500,000. The commissioners went over the law yesterday with John P. Breen, author and sponsor of the bill. They are uncertain whether to actually pass the resolution tomorrow or wait for definite estimates on the cost of restoring the records. The total expense to the county of the court house fire will be near $1,000,000, it is said.

Policeman Answered When Joe Was Called and Broke Up Game

Elias Gehno, proprietor of a pool hall at 2202 South Twentieth street, was fined $35 and costs, and nine young men were dismissed of the charge of gambling, yesterday in police court. The young men were crowded around a table in the pool hall Sunday night playing dice, when a squad of police raided the place, upon an invitation of someone who yelled: "Come on, Joe."

Joe, whose other name is Patach a police officer, responded and led the raid. Those arrested and dis- charged in police court yesterday gave their names as: Ernest Perry, 2434 South Nineteenth street; Alfred Johnson, 1914 South Eighteenth street; M. Newhart, 1943 South Twenty-first street; Ed Nightengale, 1516 Martha street; Charles Moores, 1951 South Twen- ty-first street; Joe Weist, 1910 Dor- cas street; G. Couldn't Stand Abuse, Negress Slays Man at Breakfast Table

Bud Branche, negro, was fatally shot through the neck and back early yesterday at the home of Jennie Warner, negress, 1015 Capitol avenue. Branche died an hour later in Lord Lister hospital.

Both bullets tore ugly holes in the victim's neck and back, one bullet lodging in his heart. The Warner woman was first booked at Central police station for shooting with intent to kill. Later she was booked for grand murder and will be held for the grand jury.

She said Branche had been abus- ing her during the past few days. "Sunday, right in front of the preacher, he started a gun play," she told police. "The morning, when he sat down to breakfast, I started calling me names again. I couldn't stand it, an' I put a .44 to him."

Branche was a plasterer and had been rooming at the Warner home.

Rosa Raisa

of Chicago Grand Opera Company, praises:

The CHENEY PHONOGRAPH

The Cheney is an artistic triumph.

Never before have I heard an instrument which so perfectly reproduces the artist's voice—and the very timbre of the orchestra.

I regard the Cheney as a great musical educator, for its true interpretation of the world's masterpieces will bring into the home a more intimate knowledge of music and the personalities of great artists.

Sincerely yours,

Rosa Raisa
