GENEVA SCHOOL CONDITION GOOD, SAYS M'CAULEY

New Superintendent in Report Pays Tribute to Woman Released by State Board.

Lincoln, Oct. 22.—(Special.)—A very interesting echo of the investigation of the management of the girls' industrial school at Geneva, in which the then board of control asked for the resignation of Miss Lydia McMahon, because of alleged mismanagement and unfitness for the position, comes in the report made by Superintendent Paul S. McCauley, successor to Miss McMahon, just published by the board, and which should effectually settle the controversy as to the condition of the school under the management of Miss McMahon.

Benkelman Anxious For State to Take Over Fish Hatchery

Lincoln, Oct. 22.—Secretary Leo Stuhr of the department of agriculture will go to Benkelman tomorrow to investigate the matter of establishment of a branch fish hatchery at that place.

The last legislature voted an appropriation of $15,000 for the purchase of a private hatchery at Benkelman, and the citizens of the town are anxious to have the state make a move in the direction of taking over the plant. However, one-half of the amount voted must go toward maintenance and the amount left is not sufficiently large to go very far toward taking over the plant. It is this hitch in the matter which Mr. Stuhr will look over.

Stocking Up Country To Meet Coal Strike

Lincoln, Oct. 22.—(Special.)—Secretary George Johnson of the state department of agriculture Wednesday received the following message from Congressman C. F. Reavis relative to meeting conditions which may be brought about by the coal strike if it comes:

"Washington, D. C.—George E. Johnson, State Engineer, Lincoln, Neb.—Hines and the railroad administration say that everything else must be subordinated to effort to stock up the country to meet the pending coal strike and refuse to make any general modifications of present order. However, they promise to interfere as little as possible with other industries and to give Nebraska special consideration in that regard. Will return all call the first of month and may be able to make up past shortage."

POLICEMAN WHO INSULTED GIRL IS EXONERATED

Chief Eberstein Insists Officer Had Honorable Motive in Accosting Miss Barrett.

The drunken policeman who accosted and insulted Miss Virdi Barrett early Sunday morning while the girl was on her way to mass at St. Cecilia's cathedral was yesterday exonerated by Chief Eberstein.

Despite the fact that Miss Barrett declared the officer, whose breath was reeking with the fumes of whisky when he thrust his attentions upon her on the deserted streets, the chief of police has declared the man was actuated by an honorable motive.

For six blocks the officer is said to have walked with the protesting girl.

"He tried to hold my hand and make an engagement with me," Miss Barrett declared. "I am positive he was intoxicated."

Doing His Duty, Says Chief.

In an attempt to justify the policeman's conduct, Chief Eberstein declared he had given instructions to the effect that officers should assist women when they were found on the streets alone.

Despite the fact that Miss Barrett told the two detectives who questioned her that the policeman who insulted her was intoxicated, the chief of police declared the officer was doing his duty when he thrust himself upon the unprotected girl.

His statement follows:

"I have had the case investigated and I find the officer merely observing the young woman out alone during the darkness of early morning. The policeman offered his protection."

Miss Barrett declared she was positive she could identify the man who insulted her if she were given an opportunity to do so.

Commissioner Ringer when asked by a reporter what he knew of the affair, declared it had not been brought to his attention.

Announce Plans for Entertainment of Eamonn De Valera While In Omaha

Addresses, Formal Receptions, Automobile Drive, and Banquets Included In Program.

Before a large audience of Omaha sympathizers of the Irish republic, Liam Mellows, member of the Irish republic, a commander of the Irish republic army and special envoy of Eamonn De Valera, president of the Irish republic, delivered an able address, interspersed with enthusiastic applause, Wednesday night in Irish Determination hall in the Labor temple. John Rush presided.

The subject of the address was "The Case of Ireland as it Exists Today." Mr. Mellows said the truth would make those listening to it feel the blood freeze in their veins.

Among other things the speaker accused England of attempting to destroy all Irish ideals and make the country English and destroy all efforts to maintain all vestiges of Ireland's nationality.

Reign of Terror.

"England has never been moved by justice in its dealings with Ireland," said the speaker. "The Orangemen have been tools of the British government and the people of the south and the north of Ireland have been pitted against each other for England's gain."

"England established a reign of terror in Ireland by military rule at the start of the war with Germany and that reign of terror exists today. Sixteen of the leaders of the Irish republic were executed, hundreds were given long terms in prisons and thousands were taken to England and held in internment camps."

"The Irishman has been invited to fight for democracy, wearing the uniform of a British or American soldier, but is considered a criminal when he joins the army of the Irish republic to fight for Ireland."

Says English Foreigners.

Among other things the speaker said the Irish people did not object to the rule of the English as being English, but protested that the English were foreigners, and it was unjust to the Irish to be under the rule of a foreign nation.

Mr. Mellows vividly related his treatment by the English when he was ordered to leave Ireland in 1915 under the alien restriction law and of his imprisonment, upon his refusal to obey the order. He told of his escape from an English prison camp and subsequent arrival in the United States.

Announcement was made by Chairman Rush that Eamonn de Valera, president of the Irish republic, would arrive in Omaha next Monday and during his visit here would give the address of eulogy and unveil the memorial statue of Gen. John O'Neill at Holy Sepulcher cemetery. General O'Neill died in Omaha in 1878 and was a veteran of the civil war.

Complete Reception Plans.

Preliminary arrangements were made last night for the reception of President De Valera and the unveiling ceremonies for the unveiling of the statue of General O'Neill.

The distinguished Irishman will be met at the Union station by a committee of citizens who will escort him to the Hotel Fontenelle.

The first formal event on the program will be a meeting Monday evening at 8, in the gymnasium of Creighton university, where Judge George Holcomb will be temporary chairman, and John P. Sutton will preside as permanent chairman. The speakers will be Mr. De Valera, Frank P. Walsh and Harry J. Boland.

Mr. De Valera will be taken Tuesday morning for an automobile drive around the points of interest, including the stock yards, where he will deliver a labor address at 12 o'clock noon. Luncheon at the Live Stock Exchange will follow the address.

Tuesday afternoon the guest of honor will attend the unveiling of a statue of Gen. John O'Neill in Holy Sepulcher cemetery, following which ceremony wreaths will be placed on the graves of General O'Neill, Gen. Edmund Butler, Gen. George Morgan O'Brien and Gen. William Mulcahy.

Will Visit Archbishop.

A visit to Archbishop Harty will be observed Tuesday afternoon. Between 6 and 7 p. m., a public reception will be held at the Hotel Fontenelle. At 7:30 a banquet will be held at the same hotel, Archbishop Harty asking grace.

Mr. De Valera will leave Omaha late Tuesday night or on an early morning train Wednesday.

The local Irish societies are planning to make this visit of Mr. De Valera a notable event.

HEDARKENED HIS GRAY HAIR

Tells How He Did It.

Mr. J. A. McCrea, a well-known resident of San Francisco, who was called Daddy and Grandpa on account of his white hair, and who darkened it with a home-made mixture, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1/4 ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

How to stop dandruff and loss of hair with Resinol

Here is a simple, inexpensive treatment that will almost always stop dandruff and scalp itching, and keep the hair thick, live and lustrous:

At night, spread the hair apart and rub a little Resinol Ointment into the scalp gently, with the tip of the finger. Repeat this until the whole scalp has been treated. Next morning, shampoo thoroughly with Resinol Soap and hot water. Work the creamy Resinol lather well into the scalp. Rinse with gradually cooler water, the last water being cold.

Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment sold by all druggists.
