

Woman Represented by Law Partner of Judge Let Off Easy

Hazel Taylor, 1724 Charles street, was fined $100 and costs in Central police court yesterday on charge of illegal possession of liquor. She was dismissed on two other charges of keeping an ill-governed house and vagrancy. A man giving the name of W. J. Hileman of Amelia, Neb., who was arrested with the Taylor woman in the latter's home at 11:30 Wednesday night, forfeited bonds of $100. He was charged with being an inmate of an ill-governed house.

who passed on the case yesterday, signed for the receipt of the bonds of Miss Taylor, as is recorded on the books of the clerk of the police court.

Baker Is Ordered to Pay His Wife Alimony of $7,800

Alimony of $7,800 must be paid by Ray Crabtree, a baker, to his wife, Lenora, according to a decree of divorce granted to Mrs. Crabtree by Judge Day in divorce court yesterday. The alimony is to be paid at the rate of $50 a month until the 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Crabtree reaches the age of 18 years. Mrs. Crabtree charged her husband with extreme cruelty.

Celebrates Completion of 45 Years In Business In Omaha

Anton Hospe, Pioneer Music Dealer of Omaha, Started With Capital of $65 and Has Seen Firm Grow to Immense Size—Gives All Credit to "Satisfied Customers."

Anton Hospe celebrated today the completion of 45 years in the art and music business in Omaha. On October 23, 1874, he opened a store in Omaha, shortly after arriving here from Cincinnati, O., where he was born.

Anton Hospe

His first store stood where the Rialto theater now stands. It was a single room, 12 by 18 feet in size. He paid $25 a month and slept in the store. After being there for three months, he moved his business to a larger store on the north side of Dodge street between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets where he remained for 10 years, moving then to his present location, 1513 Douglas street.

Mr. Hospe's career is said to be unique. Many other businesses have continued as long as his and longer but no other music and art business in the country has continued 45 years under the personal management of the owner.

Started With $65 Capital. "I had just $65 when I arrived in Omaha," said Mr. Hospe. "My father had a music and art business in Cincinnati which he ran for 50 years. When I complete 50 years in my business I am going to have a big celebration."

From the 12 by 18 store room and the capital of $65, the A. Hospe business has been expanded in 45 years to the point where today he owns three stores, handles annually many hundreds of pianos, thousands of talking machines and a vast volume of records, pictures, music and similar merchandise.

Serves Customers' Grandchildren. He has branch stores in Council Bluffs, Ia., and Scottsbluff, Neb. He has an immense warehouse and is now building a new, six-story warehouse on Ninth street near Douglas. His main store has a stock of enormous value. A single room out of many in this store contains $25,000 worth of grand pianos. The rent for this store is $17,000 a year.

Service and satisfied customers are responsible for the growth of his business, Mr. Hospe declares. He says the grandchildren of some who traded at his first store as boys and girls are now trading at his present store.

My HEART and My HUSBAND Adele Garrison's New Phase of Revelations of a Wife

What Madge Found Awaiting Her at Home.

"When you girls get through with that flub-dub, just clear out, will you, and let Jim and me have the room for a while."

Dicky put his head in at the door of the dining room where Lillian and I were putting the finishing touches to the decoration of the dining table. By careful management after my return with Dicky after meeting Alice Holcombe, I had succeeded in avoiding haste in my little tasks, something which I detest. And then, of course, with Lillian to help, things could not but go smoothly. I have never known any one who could soften the edge and round the corners as Lillian.

"On one condition only," Lillian retorted crisply. "Name it!" Dicky demanded.

"That you do not come within two feet at least of the edges of this table."

"Aw, have a heart!" Dicky entreated exaggeratedly. "I have—of adamant!" Lillian replied smiling. "I've seen you in action before my laddie, and I have a very vivid photograph in my mental camera of the state of this table after you and Jim got through arranging your gifts for Junior on it. Nay—nay—Dicky-bird! Two feet away, fix up any display you want but that's the absolute outside limit. Otherwise Madge and I mount guard with machine guns."

"Oh, well," Dicky said loftily, "if your little two-by-four display of flowers and favors and birthday cakes means more than the real chef-d'oeuvre of the occasion, why go ahead by all means. I'm the most chivalrous man alive. But I warn you that my son will not take a single look at all your fussing when he sees my display."

"We'll probably have to carry him away from the table in a spasm of fright and send for a physician," Lillian retorted grimly. But that is beside the question. We have your solemn oath?"

"Doubled-barrelled," Dicky replied laconically.

Two Lovers Lost.

"Then clear out. We'll be through here in—how long, Madge?" She turned to me her face as sober as the traditional jurist's, but her eyes twinkling with amusement. "Five minutes," I affirmed promptly.

"All right," Dicky closed the door and we hear him noisily retreating down the hall vociferously calling for Jim.

"There!" Lillian stepped back from the table and gazed approvingly at our handiwork. "That's simply perfect, or would be if those roses were changed. I thought they'd last—didn't you—but their edges are beginning to look a bit frayed."

"I asked Leila to get others an hour ago," I confessed. "Alfred volunteered to go with her, and—I haven't seen them since."

"They're probably sitting on some grassy bank or fallen tree anywhere within the radius of a mile, gazing into each other's eyes, the roses and everything else in the world forgotten," Lillian commented. "I've seen a good many love affairs in my day but nothing quite to equal the intensity of this one."

"But I don't think they are at all obtrusive, do you?" I asked. "No, but the mental atmosphere is so surcharged with romance that it is almost dripping," she retorted, but there was no cynicism in her voice for all her apparent gruffness, and I knew that in reality she had a warm interest in the outcome of the affair.

"You Mean—"

"I think I'd better get those roses, however," I said.

"If you expect to have them today," she smiled.

I started for the door and turned to ask a question which had been in my mind all day:

"Do you think they have settled things—that they are really engaged?"

"I hope so, for Alfred's sake," Lillian.

"If they haven't, it's only because of one thing," Lillian returned soberly.

"You mean—" I asked, almost knowing beforehand what was in her mind.

"Item, one devoted son," began Lillian, checking the words off on her fingers as if she were making out an inventory. "Item, one over-scrupulous young woman, item, item, item, means least one foolishly temperamental little mother."

"I was afraid of that," I said, a bit gloomily, for gentle Leila Fairfax had made a secure place for herself in my heart, and I had quite counted upon seeing her romance reach its logical conclusion. I am afraid as I hurried into my garden to gather the few roses I needed I felt decidedly "crossway" against my little friend, Mrs. Durkee.

Kiwanis Club to Entertain Members of the County Board

Members of the county board of commissioners will be guests of the Kiwanis club at noon today in the south room of the Chamber of Commerce, the purpose of the meeting, as announced by the club, being to form a better acquaintance with the officials to the end that closer cooperation in the work of upbuilding Omaha may be attained. Members feel that they will be greatly benefited by an exchange of views with the county officers. No set speeches will be made.

Switzerland Will Not Join Allied Blockade of Russia

Berne, Oct. 23.—(By The Associated Press.)—The Swiss government decided today not to join in the collective reply of other neutral states regarding the invitation of the allies to participate in the blockade of soviet Russia. It is pointed out that Switzerland long ago had broken off relations with the existing Russian government and that there are no commercial or financial relations of any kind. So that the situation intended by the allies has been reached already as far as Switzerland is concerned.

TROCO

An Appetizing Combination —Coconuts and Milk

The sweet, delicate Troco flavor and perfected texture are due to the appetizing combination of the most valued food products of Tropic and Temperate climes.

The dairy nut fat extracted from the white meat of coconuts is churned with pasteurized milk. A perfected process standardizes quality—you know every carton of Troco will be the consumption of loving freshness.

But—with all this quality the use of Troco is an economy. Every carton saves you from 25 to 40 cents a pound.

We churn and ship Troco daily, on ice, to insure freshness. If your dealer will order frequently and keep Troco always in his ice box, it will reach you in perfect condition. In case of dissatisfaction, send his name to the Troco Nut Butter Company, Chicago.

Good News For Tired Women

Renew Your Strength

It is a fact that any physician can easily verify—by looking over his Case Records—that the majority of women patients who come to him are more or less run down and devalitized, and that his remedies frequently fail to produce permanent and satisfactory results—unless they are supported and supplemented by a course of tonic and systematic strengthening treatment for the whole system, like "REOLO."

Later, during the most critical period of a woman's life—the change of life—various serious disturbances are apt to occur; neurasthenia and even insanity manifest themselves.

The weakest point of the body is where the breakdown is most apt to occur, and it is only by the aid of a strengthening and revitalizing tonic and blood builder like "REOLO" that the resistance can be maintained, and this dangerous period bridged over successfully.

Later on, when old age approaches and there is an ever increasing lack of vitality—the exhausted tissue must be given renewed life and activity to enable the body to utilize to the utmost, whatever vitality and energy it still retains.

REOLO

Restores Vigor and Vitality

It has remarkable tonic and reconstructive properties. It improves the appetite, digestion and assimilation; increases the red blood cells and hemoglobin of the blood—tones up the heart and nervous system—and gives renewed strength and vitality.

By special arrangement with the Dr. A. L. Reusing Laboratories, Akron, Ohio, we have been appointed Licensees for the distribution of "REOLO"—direct from the Laboratories, certified by Dr. Reusing and positively guaranteed to give satisfactory results or we will gladly refund your money. Large box of REOLO (100 tablets) costs only $1.00.
