With Support of Entire Cabinet, He Calls Upon Both Union Officers and Members to Rescind Strike Order.

PROMISES TO PROTECT INTERESTS OF NATION

Characterizes Walkout Called for November 1 as Proposal to Restrict Production and Distribution of Necessities.

Washington, Oct. 25. - Holding the impending coal strike to be not only unjustifiable but also unlawful, President Wilson, in a statement issued tonight with the support of his entire cabinet, called on the coal miners of the nation, both union officers and members, to rescind the strike order effective November 1. The president declined to enter into the merits of the controversy between the miners and operators, but emphatically declared that the strike, which he characterized as the most far reaching proposal in the nation's history to restrict produc-tion and distribution of all neces-saries of life, had apparently been ordered without a vote of the individual miners concerned. For this reason the president served definite notice "that the law will be enforced and the means will be found to pro-tect the interests of the nation in any emergency that may arise out of this unhappy business.'

Statement Issued.

The president's statement was issued after his cabinet had gone over the entire situation with Secretary Wilson of the labor department whose efforts to bring miners and operators together in negotiations had failed. The cabinet, with only Secretary Lansing detained at his home by illness, missing, met first in the morning and again tonight. Rear Admiral Grayson, the president's personal physician, was summoned to the evening session. Apparently he agreed to the submission of the matter to his patient, for soon afterward the cabinet meeting broke up and the president's statement was issued.

The president reviewed the steps leading up to the strike call, including the Cleveland convention of the United Mine Workers of America one month ago, at which the demands for a 30-hour week and a 60 per cent increase in wages were formulated. The war in itself, the president asserted, was still a fact, peace negotiations still in suspension and troops still being transported. Because of these factors and the added consideration that victims of the strike would be among both the rich and the poor of the nation, the president said the proposed walkout could only considered as unlawful and as the nation's executive entrusted with enforcement of the law, he would use the means at his disposal to prevent any stoppage of work.

Again Offers Mediation.

The services of the government is a mediator offered by the president through Secretary Wilson but not accepted were again held out the president declaring that he held himself in readiness at the request of either or both sides to appoint a commission to investigate the situation to effect an orderly settlement of disputed questions with due recognition of the rights of the miners, the operators and the public.

There was no direct intimation of what steps the cabinet had discussed to prevent stoppage of work should the president's solemn warning to the miners to rescind the strike order fail of result. It was regarded as significant, however, that attention was drawn in White House circles to the statements made by Secretary Baker in a recent address in Cleveland, when Mr. Baker announced that department commanders had been directed to furnish troops at the request of governors without referring the matter Washington, Major General Wood in the central department has already exercised that authority in the steel strike situation.

The president's statement follows: "On September 23, .1919, the convention of the United Mine Worknow that it has been placed there adopted a proposal declaring that shall be declared as having auto-Describing the strike situation, he matically expired November 1, 1919, id:
