

CAMPAIGN FOR EXPOSITION TO START MONDAY

Commanders of Salesmen Waiting for Word to Launch Drive for $1,000,000.

Omaha today is set for the big $1,000,000 Ak-Sar-Ben exposition drive which will start Monday. The sales committee in charge of the drive has gone over every detail to be assured that the mammoth appeal for funds to develop the Ak-Sar-Ben will not be in vain. It is the hope of Guy Cramer, chairman of the sales committee, that the drive will be a "100 per cent success" by the end of the coming week.

The city has been divided into districts with three "commanders" in charge. Under each "commander" are "majors," "captains" and "lieutenants." In all more than 400, all of them successful business and professional men of Omaha, will take part in the drive. The western division of the city is in charge of Harry B. Whitehouse. The eastern division is in charge of Harvey Milliken and Robert Manley.

Salesmen Will Report. Headquarters of the drive is in Room 410, electric building, and is in charge of Danny O'Brien, secretary to J. E. Davidson, president of the Nebraska Power company. Mr. Davidson is chairman of the Ak-Sar-Ben finance committee.

Complimentary luncheon. Luncheons will be given for all the salesmen Monday and Tuesday noon at 12 o'clock sharp in the ballroom of the Hotel Fontenelle. At that time committees will make reports of subscriptions taken. The salesmen are urged to attend these noonday meetings.

There is keen rivalry between the teams in the drive. The board of governors of Ak-Sar-Ben has offered $1,000 in prizes to the winning teams and Randall K. Brown, king of Ak-Sar-Ben, has offered $500 in prizes.

Start Canvass Monday. Starting tomorrow the 400 salesmen, divided into 26 teams, will begin their canvass of the city. Their motto, according to Chairman Cramer, will be: "When you invest in the Ak-Sar-Ben exposition, you are making money for yourself, for you are investing in Omaha."

The stock will sell for $100 a share and within three years, members of the board of governors say, it is likely that the stock will bring from 3 to 4 per cent dividends or more.

The Ak-Sar-Ben exposition, according to Chairman Cramer, will be the only one of its kind in the United States. It is estimated that it will bring more than 300,000 persons to Omaha every year, and will aid in making Omaha a city of 500,000.

Harries Praised Plan. "The Ak-Sar-Ben exposition must go over the top or Ak-Sar-Ben will die," said Mr. Davidson. "Omaha has outgrown the present organization. Ak-Sar-Ben must keep pace with growing Omaha."

General George H. Harries, former president of the Nebraska Power company, who has just returned from Berlin, penned the following tribute to the Ak-Sar-Ben Saturday:

"Ak-Sar-Ben is an unwearied organization. What it has done for Omaha, and is doing, is beyond purely material computation. Its public-spirited, Omaha-building energies will now proceed to give the city a permanent exposition of the first class, an institution which will add materially to the city's reputation for enterprise and at the same time provide the public with wholesome recreation. Surely there can be no better community investment—paying dividends in health, education, good citizenship and widely-distributed increase of Omaha's income."

Holding Power of the Junior High School Upon the Pupil By EDWARD HUWALDT.

Probably the most convincing argument in favor of the Junior High school is that it holds the pupils in school better than the traditional school organization. We have available some statistical records in representative cities where the Junior High school is an integral part of the school system.

Grand Rapids, Mich., is a city in which school attendance was kept up to a very high standard even before the institution of the Junior High school. There the elementary school enrollment remained practically stationary from 1908 to 1916, the increase being almost entirely in grades 1 to 12, inclusive.

High schools were established in Grand Rapids in 1912. Not all seventh and eighth grades were at once assigned to the new schools. The enrollment in the seventh grade remained about the same until 1913, when it began to grow by leaps and bounds after feeling the effects of the Junior High schools. The eighth grade had hardly been able to hold its own until 1914 when the effect of the Junior High school began to be felt. The increase in enrollment in this grade between 1913 and 1916 was 30 per cent.

Another case is that of Macomb, Ill. In this city the Junior High school was established in 1916, the results showing in 1917 in the seventh grade. The enrollment in the seventh grade had been at a standstill while the population of the city has been slightly increasing, as shown by the enrollment in grades 1 to 6. The following are the results:

|------|---------------|---------|
| Year | Grades 1 to 6 | Grade 7 |
| 1913 | 731 | 83 |
| 1914 | 745 | 82 |
| 1915 | 748 | 81 |
| 1916 | 748 | 81 |
| 1917 | 743 | 123 |

In Springfield, Mass., as soon as the Junior High school was established there was an increase in enrollment of the seventh grade of 27.3 per cent over the preceding year, while the sixth grade only increased its enrollment 2.4 per cent. The increase in the eighth grade enrollment was 22.5 per cent over the preceding year.

Omahans to Meet President And Heroes of the Republic of Ireland at Monday Meeting

HARRY BOLAND, Member of the Irish Parliament

Eamonn, Frank P. Walsh and Hero Boland to Speak at Creighton Auditorium, 8 P. M.

Eamonn De Valera and Harry Boland, who will be here Monday night and Tuesday, are prominent persons in whose efforts lies the fate of the Irish republic. The two of them have been referred to as two of the leaders of a group of Irish patriots in whose efforts lies the fate of the Irish for the right of free development among the nations of the earth.

Plans have been made for an interesting program of events during their stay in Omaha. They will be met at the Burlington station Monday evening at 6:05, by a committee which will escort them in automobiles to the Hotel Fontenelle.

Eamonn Speaks Monday. A mass meeting will be called at 8 o'clock Monday evening in the Creighton gymnasium auditorium, which has a seating capacity of 5,000. Judge George Holmes will act as temporary chairman and John P. Sutton permanent chairman. The speakers will be Eamonn De Valera, Frank P. Walsh and Harry Boland. Music will be furnished by the Creighton university orchestra.

Tuesday's program will be started at 10 a. m. with a tour of the city, including the stock yards district. At 2:30 p. m. the party will proceed from the Hotel Fontenelle to hold momentous unveiling ceremonies in the Holy Sepulchre cemetery in memory of Gen. John O'Neill. The speakers at the cemetery will be Capt. C. E. Adams, former commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, Edward H. Whelan of Omaha, Neb., and Mr. De Valera. At 4:30 p. m. a visit will be made to the home of Archbishop Hartley.

Reception to Public. An informal reception will be held at the Fontenelle from 6 to 7 p. m. for the general public. John Rusby will be toastmaster at a banquet at the Fontenelle at 7:30 Tuesday evening. Archbishop Hartley will offer prayer and the speakers will be Col. Mat. Tingley of Council Bluffs, Frank Walsh, Harry Boland and Eamonn De Valera.

The distinguished visitors will leave Omaha Tuesday night for Denver. De Valera is generally known as the "President of the Irish Republic." Many stories have been related of the daring escapes he made from the British prisons. After being elected to the presidency he escaped to the United States. Mr. Boland, who will be here with De Valera tomorrow, is credited with having been assigned the task of releasing his chief from Lincoln prison, which was guarded by the British.

Boland Directed Election. "While 46 of the Irish republican leaders, including De Valera, were in prison, it was Boland, himself sought for by the police throughout Ireland, who directed the entire republican election campaign in November and December of last year," said Liam Mellow, who was here yesterday as the personal representative of De Valera.

"This campaign," he added, "resulted in victory for the establishment of a republic and the election of 73 Sinn Fein, or republican, parliamentary candidates, out of a total of 105. Boland, known throughout Ireland as 'The Fiery Gael,' was among those Irish patriots who carried a rifle during the rising of Easter week, under the command of Padraic Pearse, first president of the republic, who was executed by the British.

Boland in Prison. "In British prisons for ten months after the revolution, Boland carried on a daily and systematic protest against being treated as a criminal, demanding the status of a prisoner of war, which was afterward conceded to all the prisoners. On one occasion he knocked down six warders and was finally subdued by a dozen reinforcements. They clasped handcuffs on him, but when he arose he telled two more with his hands cuffed together.

"For ten months he lived in Ireland and conducted the daily affairs of the entire Sinn Fein organization while every detective and policeman had orders to capture him, dead or alive. He slept on roofs, in garrets, in fields and other spots in which he could rest his head in safety for a few hours."

Served Under Pearse. Sean Neman, who is traveling with De Valera as private secretary, served under Pearse in the company which held the Dublin general post office against two divisions of British troops for eight days. He is said to have refused a lieutenantcy in the British army.

Mr. Walsh, who will speak Monday and Tuesday evenings with De Valera, resides in Kansas City and is prominent as a public speaker and lawyer. He was chairman of the committee on industrial relations during the period of the war and was a member of a mission of three men who went to Paris to ask the peace conference to hear De Valera, or, otherwise, hear a presentation of the Irish cause.

friendly, but being and misrepresenting their neighbors. That there was a Judas among the disciples does not mean that they are all traitors.

"When they say De Valera and the Irish people as a body or nation betrayed the allies they willfully and knowingly lied, and I will say to them there is more humanity, more nature, more self-sacrifice in one man like Dr. Valera, who is doing it all for others, than a thousand such synods."

"Read the death list under General Haig in France and at the battle of the Marne and you will see over 50 per cent of those that gave up their lives were Irish or Irish descendants from either Ireland, Australia or Canada, as well as our own boys from America.

"It would be much better that such narrow-minded bigots put on overalls and go to work in a foundry or a packing house and leave religious destinies of their fellow men in the hands of broader men who are glad to see their neighbors on any side of the universe enjoy the blessings of liberty.

"To the Nazarene it mattered little whether one was a Jew, Phoenician, Samaritan or Gallician, it was 'Love your neighbor as yourself if you would enter the kingdom of My Father.'"

South Side STOCK PENS ARE JAMMED FULL OF UNSOLD CATTLE

Thousands Will Have to Be Carried Over—Hog Prices Record Slight Raise.

The hog market recorded a slight raise in prices Saturday with a light run of receipts. Prices were quoted as from 15 to 25 cents over Friday's prices, the bulk selling at a trifle over $12 a hundred.

A little over 2,000 hogs were received with the demand from buyers light. Quality is said to have shown but little change.

Receipts for hogs show a light gain over the same period a year ago, the total for this week being 25,700 head, compared with 22,000 head last week and 22,400 head for the same days last year.

Last week developed another occasional low spot in the stocker and feeder cattle trade, which came at intervals during the season. An advance in prices for cattle the first day of last week on top of the relatively high prices of a week ago checked the country outlet, and with liberal receipts cattle have been piling up in the pens until there are now thousands of them that have to be carried over until this week. Prices have been on the down grade since Tuesday, and values are lower than those quoted Monday.

Friday showed a liberal run of cattle with receipts estimated at 335 loads, or 9,000 head, which was the largest Friday run seen here this season.

"The Velvet Hammer," New Editorial Feature in the Bee

A most attractive and entertaining feature of intense local interest will be "The Velvet Hammer," a series of poetical cartoons on well-known Omaha people which will begin in Monday's Bee and continue daily as an editorial feature of the paper.

The poems are of four stanzas each, taking the prominent figures of the city's business and social life one by one as subjects, and dealing gently and humorously with their well-known characteristics, fads, fancies and foibles. The poems are not satiric and are not caricatures, the author disdaining to use this familiar and easy method of making a point or displaying wit, the finest wit aiming shafts that are without sting.

The author, Arthur Brooks Baker, has a country-wide reputation for putting into rhythmic and lilting verse hits or take-offs on prominent personages, and tempers them with the homely and gentle philosophy of a James Whitcomb Riley.

A glimpse into this garden of humorous poetry, revealing the names of the first of those to be tapped by "The Velvet Hammer," as the author calls his verses, will excite anticipation, not only among the personal friends and acquaintances of the subjects, but through the city and countryside at large, as all are public characters familiar to those who read the daily prints.

The first will be William A. Rourke, Omaha's base ball magnate; the second, Superintendent John H. Beveridge of the public schools; the third, Everett Buckingham, and then W. F. Gurley, William F. Rigge, Charles Edward Black, etc.

This is sufficient for the time being. The first poem will appear Monday, on the editorial page of The Bee.

Answers Resolutions that Condemn De Valera's Course

Dr. W. J. McCann has written a response to the resolutions adopted by the Iowa Presbyterian synod at Des Moines last week protesting against the recognition of Eamonn De Valera, president of the Irish republic.

The resolutions, as adopted by the synod, said that De Valera did all in his power to hinder the government of the allied nations in their prosecution of war and that they would ask the president and the senators of the United States not to recognize De Valera. His response follows:

"Love Thy Neighbor." "In response to our Presbyterian synod in session at Des Moines, notwithstanding their their highly Christian sentiment, I would say that all true followers of the Nazarene aimed to show a brotherly love and affection to their fellowmen and one another. His first commandment called for 'Love thy neighbor as thyself' and lo and behold these assembled Presbyterians, enjoying the wonderful blessings of liberty, equal rights and opportunity of our nation, have resolved to deny it to others. To deny the three great features of our country, or in other words, the three principal facts that lifted the unknown boy of the Junior High school in Kentucky from obscurity and made him master and ruler of a nation's capital as well as the nation itself—Abraham Lincoln, a man that saw in the minds and hearts of the slaves a just right for freedom and went forth and secured it for them.

Was Not Betrayal. "Yet in these days of civilization we read resolutions adopted by the Presbyterian synod denying that to their fellow men in Ireland and writing resolutions not only un-years ago and the records show that since their establishment the increase in enrollment in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades is 25 per cent greater than the increase in enrollment in the first six grades.

If the Junior High school will hold its pupils in school in other cities it ought to do it in Omaha, and for this reason we ought to establish them in our city.
