Quality of the general run of butcher stuff on offer was very common and as a result real good cows sold fully steady though the undertone was dull and easier on medium kinds. Canners continued in broad demand and sold stronger. Stockers and feeders trade opened out steady, but demand did not appear to be so broad today and offerings were slow in changing hands, late rounds indicating a lower tendency. BEEF STEERS.

New York. Oct. 29.—Bar silver was quoted at $1.28 an ounce in this market today, the highest price, according to dealers, in almost 30 years.

Silver was subjected to wide fluctuations during the war, but fell almost to $1.00 after the United States government entered into an agreement with Great Britain to ship large quantities to India.

The recent rise is attributed to renewal of demand from the Orient, mainly China, and increased domestic use by silversmiths and allied trades. miths and allied trades.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Reports that a $500,500,000 credit had been negotiated between New York financial interests and Germany had much influence today as a strengthening factor in the grain and provisions markets. Corn closed steady

77c higher.

Gossip about the supposed big loan to Germany led to assumptions that the germany nation would purchase freely of American foodstuffs. Considerable investment buying of corn here as well as extensive covering on the part of shorts ensued. Notwithstanding that disclaimers were received from New York as to any knowledge of such a loan, the market went upward and at no time showed any

Oats were firmer with corn. Eastern demand was active and there was no prospect of an increase in supplies from rural sources.

Nearly all deliveries of provisions made a sharp upturn in price. More active domestic demand for packing house products was noted and the trade gave due attention to the German loan reports.

City Is Fast Becoming Macaroni Center of the Middle

The Omaha Maid factory is not new, but it is only lately that its products have been pushed. Since the reorganization of the company, the selling end has been developed.

made in Omaha is a boost for maca-

Mangiamell brothers, who founded the business, learned the macaroni game in their native country, and know it thoroughly, but found they could not handle the selling end of the business when it became large. It is expected that a new up-to-date plant will be erected in the spring, so that Omaha will have the two largest macaroni plants in

There's a Smile Here For You.

C. H. Malmberg, Paying Teller, is one of the best known young Omaha bankers. His pleasing disposition and winning smile is always evident, no matter how steady or long the line is before his window. "A man is an American and nothing else, or he is not an American at all."
—thus spoke Theodore Roosevelt,

Today It Is the Duty of All True

There can be no side stepping now-Business co-operation is paramount. Today the line between cheerful service and the grouch is sharply defined.
