

place a little even by referring to its proximity to Omaha. "In Japan I found frequently the trace of Senator Millard's seven league boots, and the trail he left all up and down the Japanese group of islands was marked by blazes bearing the capital letter O, the trail of the Omahan. I had hardly time enough in Shantung or Formosa to locate the Omahans who must be there, for my time was all taken up with official business.

Thick in Philippines.

"In the Philippines, however, Nebraska, and Omaha in particular, is well represented. The best informed man on the affairs of the wild tribes is Frank Carpenter of Omaha, at present governor of Min-Janao and the southern islands. I had the pleasure of making some very interesting observations with him and Roland Thomas, Sunday editor of the New York Herald. "In Manila I met my old French teacher, to whom I acted as assistant back in 1907-8 at Nebraska Wesleyan back in 1907-8 at Nebraska Wesleyan university, when she was dean of women there. She is now dean of women in the Philippine Normal school, and the head of the girls' dormitory. During the past 10 years she has had the pleasure of training and educating the children of the best Philippine families, including the daughters of the suitan of Sulu and the daughter of General Aguin-aldo, who is now a student in an American university. Her assistant now is Miss Morente, a Pilipino girl, now is Miss Morente, a Pilipino girl, daughter of the governor of Min-doro. "At the marine headquarters at din-At the marine headquarters at Cavite, P. I., I was the guest at din-ner of Major Randall of the United States marine corps. He is in com-mand of the marine post. His brother is William Randall, Omaha lawyer, and the major is an old Omaha boy. In Manila I met an old Stoddard of Auburn who had just completed a long cruise on a Dutch ship, which touched at most of the important ports of call in the
