Flashes From Filmland

Strand—Just when you have signed an agreement selling your affections and time for three months for $500, suppose your former lover whom you planned to marry suddenly injected himself upon the scene. That is the first crisis in Vivian Martin's entertaining career in her photoplay, "His Official Fiancee," which will be shown for the last time today at the Strand. She has the role of a typist who becomes officially engaged to her hitherto unapproachable employer for business reasons only. Jolly complications ensue that are said to keep an audience thoroughly amused throughout the film.

Moon—Three stars, Norma Talmadge, Constance Talmadge and Robert Harron, in one photoplay, "The Missing Links," has its last showing at the Moon this evening. It is a great all-star cast in a most interesting play that has been showing to crowded houses. If you want to drive away the blues, feel right for Sunday, then see this picture tonight.

Rialto—"Broken Blossoms," that different photoplay, has been playing to crowded houses all week, and as it is shown at the Rialto for the last time today we would advise you to go early. "Broken Blossoms" is the first real screen tragedy. It has no happy ending. It moves along with the slow dread tread of fate. It has all the force of a Greek tragedy. And there is in the character of the little waif something akin to Dickens' "Little Nell."

Sun—Because of her marvelous interpretation of the dual role of the mother, Yvonne, and the daughter, Toton, in the photoplay by that name, which will have its last showing at the Sun today, Olive Thomas has been hailed by the critics as the foremost delineator of feminine parts in stories of a romantic or artistic character. The picture is built on a strong plot and is doubtless the most heart-rending emotional role that Miss Thomas has ever presented.

Muse—Clara Kimball Young, who is to be seen in "The Road Through the Dark" at the Muse theater for the last time today, does not depart from her superb type of emotional acting in this picture. In Omaha Is Turning Point of Trip—Must Return to Italy for Christmas Singing.

His Holiness Pope Benedict XV has sent a request to the management of the Vatican Choirs that their tour of the United States be discontinued in time to allow the choir to return to the Vatican in Rome for the Christmas services.

The choir will arrive in Omaha this afternoon at 3:30 at the union station from Sioux City, where they gave a concert last night. Omaha is as far west as the choir goes. Their next engagement is at Tulsa, Okl. From Tulsa their tour takes them back to New York, playing engagements at several of the larger cities. It is planned that they will leave New York December 6 for Italy in order to comply with the pope's wishes.

Not Allowed Out Doors.

The members of the choir are not allowed to walk in the streets of any city on account of the weather and as a precaution to protect their voices. Closed taxicabs are used to transport the members from their hotel to the place of the concert. While in Omaha the singers will be guests at the Rome hotel.

Special preparations for meals for the singers must be made in every city that they visit. American dishes do not appeal to them and an effort is made by the management to have all Italian dishes served wherever possible.

A few of the American foods satisfy the Italian singers, but unless they are exactly prepared and served they are pushed aside and the singers refuse to eat them.

Urges Teachers to Support Longworth's German Dye Measure

The physical science section of the state teachers' convention yesterday afternoon at a section meeting held in Central High school resolved to urge Nebraska congressmen and senators to support the Longworth bill, which seeks to limit the importation of German dyes to the kinds not manufactured in this country.

"This bill was designed to save our dye industry and German propagandists are fighting it," asserted Prof. F. W. Upson of the University of Nebraska in his address on "Newer Developments in Chemistry in the United States."

He relates some of the experiences of A. Mitchell Palmer in connection with alien-owned properties during the period of the war. "Mr. Palmer found the chemical industries of this country practically 100 per cent German owned and controlled," Professor Upson said. "One of the lessons of the war was to tell us that a nation without a well developed chemical industry is in danger. The next war will be a poison gas war and, by the grace of God, we don't want to allow Germany to be the only nation making

Everybody Chopping Wood.

Indianola, Ia., Nov. 7.—(Special.) Indianola is abandoning coal as fuel and is going back to wood for heating plants, electric station, furnaces and stoves. Already wood choppers are at work, and the supply of wood to be used is said to be plentiful. It coal is not received at once, more men skilled in the use of an ax will be put to work chopping down trees to furnish enough fuel for this community.

Seldom in his picture career has House Peters been given the opportunity to rise to the heights of inspired emotional acting he reaches in "The Forfeit," the powerful drama, adapted from the popular novel of the same name, which will be shown for the last time today at the Empress theater. Repressed, yet throbbing with the outraged emotions of a man whose love and faith in life are torn by the revelation that his wife, though innocent, has sent his younger brother to a criminal's grave, the popular star portrays the role in a gripping manner.

Words of appreciation from a Chinese friend:

"Broken Blossoms," the new picture show, is from London, England. This show is showing the English people how friendly the Chinese people are, as they should be. Everyone should see this show. The characters are well taken and well acted.

"To H. M. Thomas, Rialto Picture House, Omaha, Douglas Co."

The writer, one of the REAL Chinese citizens of Omaha witnessed "Broken Blossoms" and wrote us as above.
