

DR. GRIMES SAYS WOMAN'S TALE OF DOGS IS NOT TRUE

Writes Letter to Bee—Mrs. Ashley, or Ashlyn, Secures "Freedom on $1,000 Bail."

Indications that a checkered career has been led by Mrs. Mildred Ashley, or Ashlyn, as her name is claimed to be, who recently was arrested in Omaha on a state warrant issued at the instance of Dr. William Grimes of Hawthorne, N. J., are contained in an illuminating letter received from the doctor by The Bee.

As I read your Bee in New York when it arrives, I read a statement in the November 10 issue about this woman, Mildred Ashley, not Ashley. She is known here as Miss not Mrs. although she poses differently at times. She is also known by the name of Harris. She is a self-admitted bigamist, as she claims to have been married twice, the first time in Massachusetts, where she ran away in less than a year's time, and then she married a man in the vicinity of New York, a Hebrew, so she claims, who is a salesman for a lace house in New York City, and is a very nice man so we have heard. She ran away from him also.

Questions for Woman. "Ask her how she has made a living all her life, where she was born, and who she is. I see she has prominent men's names mentioned in connection with the dogs. She owned the dogs, as far as I know at the time I thought them from her. I hold the receipt in her own handwriting for the purchase of the dogs. They are not valued at $20,000, nor $500 each, as has been written in some of the papers. The value of the three dogs is about $500."

MUSTEROLE WILL NOT BLISTER. To Err Is Human, To Forgive Divine. VIRTUOUS SINNERS WATCH FOR THEM.

owned a kennel in New York City, where she had some valuable dogs and where she met me. The statement is not true, as I never saw a kennel owner. I met her at the New York Veterinary hospital, where she came to board two of her dogs. At the time she claimed she was a widow, settling up real estate in Connecticut and mining stocks in the west. I hold a paper in her own handwriting where she claims to be settling up real estate in Connecticut.

"As regards the question of marriage, she promised to become my wife, accepting money and also the ring. She said she did not want to get married in New York City or Hoboken, N. J., as she did not want any publicity near New York."

"I was ignorant of any reason why she did not want publicity at the time. She agreed, however, to come out to Hawthorne and live at my home until such time as we could be married out there. She came out the day after Easter of this year. I approached her various times to set the date, but she kept putting it off. At the time I was ignorant of her whole past, accepting her as she had posed herself, a widow. As I had proposed the question of marriage, I was willing to go through with it."

"She had absolutely no charge of my seven children, as they are all able to take care of themselves, having three girls, one 18, one 17 and one 14. The two older girls go to business every day and the rest of the children attend the public school every day, with the exception of the smallest child, a baby of 1 year, who is not at home, being in the hospital, with the intention of being left there until he is able to take care of himself."

"Last summer she rented a bungalow in the pine woods of Towaco, N. J., where she claimed to have lived alone with two or three dogs. One Sunday the bungalow was struck by lightning. She was shocked, likewise a man who was with her at the time. The man claims that there is a mark on her chest from the effects. Both dogs were nearly killed, their chains being broken into many pieces."

"The following are some of the places where she has lived: Massachusetts—where she claims to have been married. Connecticut—in various places. New Jersey—Plainfield, Westfield, New Brunswick, Ridgewood Park and Towaco. New York—New York City, and Mt. Vernon."

Humane Society Would Care For City Pound and Dog Taxes. The city council, committee of the whole yesterday recommended for adoption a resolution calling for bids for the maintenance of the city pound and collection of dead animals.

Shot in Attempted Robbery. Ottumwa, Ia., Nov. 10.—William Herold, 30, a negro was killed by a shotgun in the hands of Jacob Redman, a local merchant, when Herold was entering the Redman store for the supposed purpose of robbing it, yesterday.

Important to all Women Readers of This Paper. Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased. You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be dependent; it makes any one so. But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to cure each condition.

Many theater parties attended the Orpheum last evening for society night, and the big fashionable audience displayed enthusiastic appreciation for the chief attraction of the bill, the 1919 dance revue headed by Bessie Clayton. Her company includes the famous Spanish dancers, Eliza and Eduardo Casino. Another of the organization is the humorous eccentric dancer, James Clemons. He is more than grotesque, he is exceptionally laughable.

FLASHES from FILMLAND PHOTO-PLAY OFFERINGS FOR TODAY

IF CHARLES RAY, the motion picture star, ever wants to quit the pictures, there's a great future waiting for him. The scenario called for, to fight promoter; and several hundred California fight fans, who watched the filming of the big scene in "The Egg Crate Wallop," which is being shown at the Rialto theater. Both the producer and the star himself, insisted that the prize fight which the scenario called for, be a real battle, and so it is. The fistful duel between Charles Ray and Jack Connelly, which goes five rounds to a knockout, is declared to be the fastest, most exciting mill ever pictured.

"fewer, bigger and better" picture policy, this fall, and which is to be seen on the screen at the Sun theater all week, broke many records during its long occupancy of the stage. Among other marks it set was a record for the longest continuous laugh ever evoked from a theater audience. This laugh was timed by the stage manager of the piece. It lasted precisely 43 seconds, and the laugh came after the innocent saying, "She said she would do it, and she did."

Muse—People who attend the Muse theater this afternoon or evening will be treated to a double bill. Norma Talmadge in the "Children in the House," a photo play of most merit enacts her part with great credit. As a neglected wife she easily convinces one that the strength of parental love is greater than the craving of personal happiness. She has the able support in the cast of Jewel Carmen and Eugene Pallette. Then, too, you will see on the screen, "The Black Secret," starring Pearl White, who as the brave American girl, saves her life to lay bare the black secret of the blackest hearted of men. This big double bill is of interest to every one.

Sun—"Fair and Warmer." May Allison's first starring vehicle for Screen Classics, Inc., under its AT THE THEATERS SELDOM does an Omaha audience linger after the drop of the last curtain to applaud a play. But it did this last night at the Boyd, where William Court-enay in "Civilian Clothes" opened a week's engagement. And the applause the audience gave was from the heart—an outburst of spontaneous enthusiasm and appreciation of an evening of real enjoyment and a stamp of approval from a real clever play, acted by honest-to-goodness actors and actresses.

"Civilian Clothes" would have gone over big even if acted by a mediocre company, by virtue of a delightful comedy plot and clever bits of stage business. But acted as it is by a metropolitan company, the comedy is one of a thousand, and theatergoers who saw the Boyd attraction this week probably will be kept busy the rest of the winter trying to explain to their friends why they did. To start with, Mr. Courtenay is a finished actor, supported by a finished company, in a vehicle that fits the star to a T. But he needn't have come to the footlights before the play started and explained to the audience because he wanted to be fair with it, that his leading lady was not in the cast, due to a sudden attack of serious illness in Milwaukee just before coming to Omaha. For the little actress who was called in the emergency played her part so delightfully and made such a favorable impression on the audience that nobody would have known the difference.

Mr. Courtenay as "Sam McGinnis," late captain in the A. E. F. and winner of the D. S. C. and a "roughneck" according to the snob's way of thinking, shows all the fire and enthusiasm and bits of stage play that his role calls for. As the chap just out of soldier's uniform, with his ball-tost shoes, "classy" clothes and unashamed admission that he's just a common sort of fellow; as the butler, bent on learning "manners" and on curing his wife, whom he married in France, of her snobbishness; as the finished product, the man of the world and diplomatic husband, Mr. Courtenay is real, true to life, all in all, perfect. Floy Murray, who at the last minute took the part of "Florence Lanham," the society girl who went to France, married her hero captain, and then found him a different sort of fellow when he came to life; and appeared in her sister's home, after having been brought dead, a role originally intended for Virginia Fox Brooks, handled the leading lady's lines like a veteran and deserves all the applause she got last night.

The supporting cast is unusually well balanced, each member of the large company coming in for his and her share of the honors. Particular mention should be made of Francis Underwood as "Mrs. Margaret Smythe, Dorothy Murdoch as "Belle Henderson," Theodore Westman as "Zack Hart," J. Francis O'Reilly as "Mr. Lanham," Lloyd Neal as "McGinnis Sr.," Frank Herbert as "Bill Ackwright," Venie Atherton as "Nora, the Maid," J. K. Murray as "General McInery," Raymond Walburn as "Jack Rutherford," Lillian Lawrence as "Mrs. Lanham."

The settings are elaborate and pleasing in all the three acts and two scenes. "Civilian Clothes" will matinee Wednesday and Saturday. Many theater parties attended the Orpheum last evening for society night, and the big fashionable audience displayed enthusiastic appreciation for the chief attraction of the bill, the 1919 dance revue headed by Bessie Clayton. Her company includes the famous Spanish dancers, Eliza and Eduardo Casino. Another of the organization is the humorous eccentric dancer, James Clemons. He is more than grotesque, he is exceptionally laughable.
