temple at noon yesterday.

Those present were picked delegates from their organizations. The meeting was sponsored by the Kiwanis club and a large body of members of the club were present.
F. H. Davis, president of the First National bank, and chairman of the committee of Omaha men to finance the building of a railroad bridge at Yankton, S. D., outlined briefly the advantages of the bridge to Omaha. New Omaha Road.

"When built, the bridge will prob-ably bring at least one railroad into Omaha from the north," he said. This road will tap the rich states of North and South Dakota, which have heretofore been sealed to Omaha due to lack of direct railroad transportation.

'As a result of this lack of transportation facilities Chicago, Minneapolis and other cities to the northeast have benefited from the rich agricultural and stock raising continued Mr. Davis. "A bridge at Yankton will represent only a small outlay of eapital by Omaha interests, as Yankton interests have already raised threefourths of a million dollars to "A drive to raise $300,000 Omaha to help build the bridge will start in a short time.'

Expect Changes at Central High Will Be Made at Last

Several members of the Board of Education visited the Central High school yesterday afternoon to look over the grounds which will be affected by the Dodge street The southeast corner of the high school grounds will be cut about 22 feet. The members propose to excavate the dirt around the lower floor of the building, which will give additional light to the rooms. Electric light must be burnet throughout the day in most of the basement floor rooms. Manual training, sewing and cooking are taught on this floor. The orchestra and band room is so small that many people, who ordinarily would join in these instructions furnished by the school, are crowded out. 'It is probable that the athletic toom, which recently was abandoned, will be used as the music room," said & G. Masters, principal of the school.
