

Work of Omahan in Philippines Rewarded By Post to Liberia

Word has been received from the state department by Percy M. Jones, 2946 North Fifty-ninth street, assistant store order clerk at the Union Pacific shops, of his appointment as commissioner to the republic of Liberia. The appointment was made in recognition of his service with the educational department in the Philippines from 1910 to 1912. One of the two telephone companies serving Philadelphia and its suburbs will install automatic equipment throughout its system.

MAY ADVERTISE BONDS TO REPAIR THE COURT HOUSE

Expect Resolution to Pass Today—Sold as Work Progresses.

The board of county commissioners this morning probably will pass a resolution calling for advertisements for the sale of $800,000 of bonds for the repair of the court house and the restoration of county records destroyed in the fire of September 28.

County Attorney Shotwell drew up the resolution in legal form. Never before in Douglas county have five men passed a resolution involving so much money. Usually the people have to vote on bond issues. In the present instance the state legislature at a special session called by Governor McKelvie following the riot and fire of September 28 gave the Douglas county commissioners authority to issue the bonds.

Delay of Month
Delay of nearly a month was caused when citizens objected to the hiring of John Latenser to make the repairs. Then committees of architects, engineers, contractors and laymen were appointed to make estimates of the cost of repairs and committees of abstractors and real estate men to estimate the cost of restoring the records. The Citizens' and Taxpayers' league objected to the estimate of $250,000 to restore the records in the register of deeds office and of $40,000 to restore the records in the treasurer's office. The county commissioners cut these to $235,000 and $10,000 respectively.

Itemized Cost.
The resolution to be passed calls for issuing bonds of Douglas county to cover the following items:
Repairing the court house and furniture and fixtures for the court house... $642,000
Restoring records in the register of deeds office... 235,000
Restoring records in county and city treasurer's office... 85,000
Restoring records in county assessor's office... 10,000
Total... $972,000

Objectors to the estimate for restoring the records should remember that this work will be done by clerks working by the day and bonds will be issued just as fast as necessary to pay the clerks," said Commissioner Ure. "If the records in the register of deeds are restored for $150,000 we simply won't issue the rest of the bonds. But if our estimates were too low we couldn't get additional money to complete this work."

Case of Allied I. W. W. Is Referred to Washington

Rupert Blauer, unaturalized Austrian, being held in the county jail on a 30-day vagrancy sentence, may be held by the federal immigration authorities and given a hearing on the charge of being an undesirable citizen.

O. B. Holton, local immigration agent, has sent a statement to Washington, with a request that a federal warrant be issued. Blauer is a member of the I. W. W., and is said to favor a revolution if the capitalist and working classes can not get together.

My Heart and My Husband ADELE GARRISON'S New Phase of "Revelations of a Wife"

What Dicky Suggested After Major Grantland Had Helped to Revive Madge.

I wondered idly, with what faculty I had left to wonder, why Hugh Grantland and not my husband had been first to notice my illness. I had not realized in the first excitement of the accident that I had been subjected to an unusual shock. Then, too, before Dicky's protecting arms could shield my side violently, I had not noticed it at first, but as I sat by the roadside watching the two men at work upon the cars I began to feel more pain, and by the time Major Grantland looked up at me I was woefully faint and ill.

At the officer's words Dicky looked sharply at me, then both men hurried to me.

"What is it, sweetheart?"

"I fear you are ill, Mrs. Graham," Dicky's Plan.

Outwardly, one was the anxious query of a husband, the other the conversational courtesy of an acquaintance. Yet through my pain and faintness I recognized the same drawn, tense note in both queries, and realized that one man was no less worried than the other.

I rallied myself with an effort. I have the horror of the hopelessly clinging-vine type of woman, who faint at every accident, and I tried to make my voice strong and casual.

"I am absolutely all right," I said. With the cheerful accustomed acceptance of husbands, Dicky's face cleared.

"Are you sure?" he asked perfunctorily, then he added enthusiastically, "I have it! Grantland, I wonder if it would trouble you too much to take Mrs. Graham along with you? You can leave her at the little inn in the next town, and then I can go there after her. She can perhaps find a place to lie down."

Major Grantland hesitated for only the fraction of a second. But I knew that for some reason he did not wish to grant Dicky's request. Then his face set into the grim lines I knew so well, and he bowed to me with the funny little, awkward manner which had made me sure when I first met him that he was unused to the society of women.

"I am only too happy to be of service to Mrs. Graham. But if I am to assume charge I must insist upon her taking a bit of first-aid treatment of mine. She has had a greater shock than—we realize."

His hesitation before the pronoun pointed his meaning so clearly that I wondered if Dicky could fail to catch it. If he had shouted "you realize" he could not have made his meaning clearer.

Sudden Distaste.
But Dicky was either astute or preserved a poker face, for he laughed heartily.

"If it's the right kind of first aid," I wouldn't mind being revived myself."

"Unfortunately, I am not provided with that variety," the officer answered, and in another minute or two with swift deft movements he had produced a small drinking cup, water from a thermos bottle, and a tiny vial from which he carefully poured a few drops of liquid. Then he crossed to me and bent toward me.

"Drink it quickly," he said to me, and I knew that he had observed the faintness which my husband failed to see.

I drained it obediently, and lifted my eyes to his searching anxious ones as I returned the cup. But there was a gleam in them that made me drop mine again.

"Thank you," I murmured, and was furious to find myself as tongue-tied and embarrassed as a school-girl.

He made no reply, simply stood waiting until the color came back to my face. I knew that it had returned, for I felt my cheeks burning.

The pungent revivifier he had given me was certainly a potent one. In a few minutes the terrible faintness I had felt completely disappeared, although the pain in my side remained.

"Whenever you are ready," he said quietly.

"I am ready now," I returned, and he quickly put out his hand to help me up.

I looked around for Dicky and saw him standing by the side of our own car, evidently taking stock of the injury. He wheeled quickly as we approached him.

"Well, old dear, you don't look as if you required any first aid now!" he said cheerily. "Wish I had some of that dope, Grantland, to give this car. She certainly needs first aid."

"We'll send a surgeon back," Major Grantland promised as he assisted me into the front seat of the machine. I wondered why he did not put me in the tonneau. It was certainly not want of thought, for he made the cushioned seat still more comfortable with a folded robe. I saw Dicky's eyebrows go up and had a sudden distaste and shrinking for the little journey.

"Lightless Nights" Again in Omaha; Move To Save Coal Supply

"Lightless nights" started again in Omaha last night.

The sub-fuel committee requested the Nebraska Power Co., through Mr. Davidson, to turn out all display advertising signs in the city in order to conserve fuel. This measure went into effect last night and caused about 500 signs to be turned out.

The lights will remain out until the acute fuel situation is relieved.

Mr. Davidson says the people of Omaha will help if they will be conservative in the use of electricity.

GET ARRESTED IN OMAHA AND HAVE RIDE IN A PACKARD

Four City Commissioners Vote to Buy High-Priced Cars.

"This is ruthless extravagance," asserted Mayor Smith yesterday in the city council chamber, during a discussion of the purchase of two new automobile patrols for the police department.

Police Commissioner Ringer, supported by Commissioners Zimmerman, Low and Falconer, voted to purchase two new Packards at a price of $5,712 each. Mayor Smith and Commissioners Butler and Ure voted against the resolution.

Hold Special Meeting.
The decision to buy these two new automobiles was the culmination of a spirited situation. In the first instance Mr. Ringer asked the council to approve his recommendation to buy two used Packards at a price of $6,144 for the two. The council approved that recommendation Thursday morning and then rescinded its action, deciding to hold a special meeting yesterday when the automobile men appeared in the council with their arguments.

The cars which were purchased were the highest priced of any offered by the bidders.

Ure Against Purchase.
An interesting phase of the situation is the opposition of City Commissioner Ure to the purchase of these expensive patrols for the police department, in view of Mr. Ure's support of Mr. Ringer during the recent days of stress for the police commissioner.

"These cars will never be bought if I can help it," said Mr. Ure.

A Simple Way to Get the Benefit of the Best Senna

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin contains the finest Egyptian Senna, as recommended by the U. S. P.

A GREAT many people, habitually constipated, find relief in chewing senna leaves or brewing them into a "tea" and drinking it. They will be glad to know that they can obtain senna already brewed, at no greater expense and in a much more convenient and agreeable form.

The chief laxative constituent of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is Egyptian senna (Cassia acutifolia) gathered in the Egyptian Soudan. This grade is seldom sold at retail. It is, however, recognized as first in the U. S. Pharmacopoeia because of its freedom from gipping and its cleaner action on the intestines, and because it does not lose its effect after repeated use.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin the Egyptian senna is combined with pepsin making an exceptionally valuable tonic-laxative in dyspepsia and other disturbances of the stomach and bowels. It has been on the market since 1892 and many thousands of people who formerly bought an inferior grade of senna at retail now buy Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for 50c and $1 a large bottle. It is sold in all drug stores.

In spite of the fact that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, there being over 6 million bottles sold each year, many who need its benefits have not yet used it. If you have not, send your name and address for a free trial bottle to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 511 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.
