

DAGGER GLANCES BETWEEN WIFE AND HER RIVAL

Hard Looks Enliven Mrs. Pierce's Suit for $15,000 For Alienation of Husband's Affections.

Mrs. Lottie E. Pierce and Mrs. Theresa Morrison glared at each other in District Judge Estelle's court room yesterday, where Mrs. Pierce's suit against Mrs. Morrison for $15,000 damages for alienation of Charles W. Pierce's affections was on trial before a jury.

Mrs. Pierce was accompanied by two of her nine children. She lives at 3120 Maple street. Mrs. Morrison conducts a rooming house at 2316 Pinkney street. Both women are middle aged. Mrs. Pierce was married 22 years ago in Marshalltown, Ia. Mrs. Morrison is the wife of Ed. Morrison, formerly an Omaha policeman, who went insane and is now in the state asylum.

Loves Woman's Husband.
"I went to Mrs. Morrison's house once and asked Mrs. Morrison for my husband," testified Mrs. Pierce. "She said to me, 'I love your husband and he loves me and there's no law that can make him live with you.'"

"Another time I went there and she said he wasn't in the house but I saw him slip out the back door." Mrs. Christine Dahlin, aged mother of Mrs. Morrison, was brought in as a witness from the county poor farm by attorneys for Mrs. Pierce. She testified that during five months while she lived with her daughter Mr. Pierce and Mrs. Morrison occupied rooms on the same floor of the rooming house.

Gave Money to Affinity.
Mr. Pierce is an automobile mechanic. He formerly worked for Andrew Murphy & Sons and was injured while working there in 1914. He recovered a judgment of $5,000 in district court, of which amount after paying the lawyers, he received $2,500. This, Mrs. Pierce alleges, he gave to Mrs. Morrison. Mrs. Pierce secured judgment against him for $40 a month in a separate maintenance suit last January in the district court. Judge Estelle refused to sustain a motion by Mrs. Morrison's attorneys to take the case from the jury at the conclusion of the plaintiff's testimony.

No Regular Luncheon Today for Kappa Sigmas

The Omaha Alumni chapter of the Kappa Sigma fraternity, which ordinarily has its luncheons Saturdays at noon at the University club, has postponed today's luncheon on account of the large number of men who are going to Lincoln for the "homecoming." Sunday the chapter will entertain visiting brothers at the fraternity house. The luncheons of the Alumni chapter will be resumed beginning Saturday, November 22.

Divorce Courts

Bernard Olchan told his wife, Ella, that it is every wife's duty to work hard and support her husband in idleness, she alleges in a petition for divorce from Bernard, which she filed in district court. They were married in 1908 and she says she has supported herself and two children and her husband.

Mrs. Bessie Goulder filed an answer and cross-petition in district court to the annulment petition of Walter H. Goulder. He sought to have their marriage annulled on the ground that her former husband was living at the time of their wedding. Mrs. Goulder states that she married Harry Slater July 20, 1915.

that he deserted her December 1, 1917, and that on December 23, 1918, she received a letter from Mrs. Frances Wellborn, his sister, stating that he died December 8. She says she still believes he is dead. She asks the court for a divorce and alimony from Mr. Goulder.

Effie Leisenring was granted a divorce by Judge Estelle in divorce court from Joseph Leisenring on the ground of nonsupport and given the custody of their child.

Sixty dollars a month alimony was granted to Eddyth Burdick in a divorce from Lew Burdick given her in divorce court by Judge Estelle on the ground of nonsupport.

Charles Corkhill, in an answer filed in district court to the divorce suit of his wife, Ida Corkhill, admits that he owns the property at 2553 and 2555 Pratt street and real estate in Rochester, N. Y., worth $10,000, but says his personal property is not worth $125,000, as she alleged, but less than one-fourth that amount. He says she has made life intolerable for him and has constantly nagged him and sought to pick quarrels with him. He asks for a divorce and the dissolution of an order granted several weeks ago prohibiting him from disposing of his property.

C. E. Boyd sued Iva Boyd for divorce in district court on the ground of abandonment. They were married in 1915.

Frank Hoye, South Side, asks the district court in a petition for divorce, to give him the custody not only of his own two children, but of three children of his wife by a former marriage. His wife, Emelie, he says, has deserted him, but he wants the custody of her three children and declares he is financially able to care for them.

BETRAYS SELF IN COURT WHEN HE SEES HIS WHISKY

"It's Mine," He Proclaims—"$100," Answers the Court.

Evidence of unlawful possession of liquor against four men was turned against Joe Cato, 723 South Seventeenth street, an uninvited spectator in Central police court yesterday when Cato excitedly stepped forward while the case was being tried, and told the court openly that "those bottles of whisky" belonged to him. The whisky was evidence against the four men. A complaint was immediately made out against him and Cato was fined $100 and costs.

The case against the four men who were charged with illegal possession of whisky, that Cato confessed formerly belonged to him, was continued until today. The four men, Angelo Bruno and John Rhina, rooming at Cato's home, E. J. Kelly, Claremont Inn, and J. W. Owens, Hotel Rome, were arrested at Cato's home late Thursday afternoon when Detectives Haze, Knudtson and Samardick found 24 pints of liquor inside a cistern in the back yard just after the four men are said to have left the spot.

Cato learned of their arrest and came to police court yesterday to hear the case. When he was being served with the complaint by the city prosecutor, Cato said: "I had 48 pints of whisky in that cistern judge. Those officers took the rest." The arresting officers testified that they found only one case containing 24 pints of whisky in the well.

Trackman Killed by Engine At West End of U. P. Bridge

Harry Demtracopoulos, trackman on the Union Pacific railroad, was instantly killed at 10:30 yesterday morning while he was working on the tracks near the west end of the Union Pacific bridge.

The body was badly mangled and was thrown by the engine down the embankment. Witnesses of the accident say the laborer failed to get off the tracks when the engine approached the bridge.

The body was ordered removed to Brailley and Dorrance undertaking parlors by County Attorney Shotwell. It was not learned where Demtracopoulos lived. Efforts are being made to find relatives.
