

GENTLEMAN AND "PAL" GET $500 LOOT IN ROBBERY

Enter El Beudor Apartment Through Window and Chat 40 Minutes With Occupants.

A flash from a pocket light in the hands of the "gentleman burglar," who has for the past three months invaded Omaha homes, awakened Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Powers in their apartment at the El Beudor, Eighteenth and Dodge streets, at 4 yesterday morning. A short, heavy set "pal" entered the room several minutes later and at the point of a revolver told the surprised couple to "stay in bed and remain quiet."

Both burglars chatted for 40 minutes with Mr. and Mrs. Powers while the long-haired and gloved "gentleman" thief sat on the library table covering the couple in bed with his revolver. The "gentleman" burglar's accomplice ransacked the apartment during the conversation.

Leave Him One Suit. The thieves packed all of Mr. Powers' clothes, excepting one worn business suit, in two suitcases and slipped quietly out the window through which they entered. The "exquisite" thieves also took a bracelet and a ring belonging to Mrs. Powers and $82 in money from a bureau drawer.

"Well, how do you do?" was the greeting given by the tall "gentleman" burglar as he flashed a light into the faces of the sleeping couple. When both awoke, they looked into the muzzle of a revolver. At a whistle of the masked thief, an accomplice entered and a lengthy conversation started with the tall visitor asking: "Where do you keep the stuff?"

Burglars Offer "Tip." "All our valuables are in that room," Mr. Powers said, pointing to his wife's boudoir. Before leaving the slender thief remarked: "Let me give you a tip: Don't rent an apartment so easy to get into."

Mrs. Powers said both men spoke in excellent English. Mr. and Mrs. Powers caught sight of the masked couple walking leisurely down the alley, each carrying a suitcase. Police were called and made a search of the neighborhood, but to no avail.

Newspaper Men Are Shown Workings of Big Telephone System

Twenty representatives of daily and weekly Omaha papers were shown the workings of the great Nebraska Telephone system yesterday afternoon by F. A. Second, manager of the Douglas, Tyler and Red districts.

They were first taken through the old headquarters at Eighteenth and Douglas streets, and then the new building at Nineteenth and Douglas streets. During the tour, Second quoted statistics showing the immensity of the great system.

Tyler and Douglas districts will be operated automatically by 1921, he said. Asked if the automatic machinery would do away with positions for a large number of telephone operators, Mr. Second replied that almost a million girls would be used after the operating became automatic as before.

Work of installing the automatic system will begin by January 1, he said.

AT THE THEATERS

THERE is great interest in the coming of Richard Bennett in "For the Defense" to Boyd's theater for the week beginning next Sunday night. Seats go on sale today for all performances, including the special matinee on Thursday, Thanksgiving day. The company includes not only Mr. Bennett, but a supporting cast embracing players who are very seldom seen outside of New York and Chicago.

"Twin Beds" will be the attraction at the Brandeis theater for three days, starting tomorrow night. "Twin Beds" really comes under the head of a comedy, by which is meant a comedy that brings continued peals of laughter from the audience. The cast that will be seen here embraces Antoinette Rotche, Josephine Saxe, William Connors, Bess Stafford, Margaret Phillip, Ten Eyck Clay, Frank May and others.

The plot of "Oh, Lady, Lady" now playing at the Boyd is better than its predecessors. Its bright lines and scintillating wit hold out consistently to the end of the story of the interrupted wedding of Wilford Finch and Molly Farrington. The story of "Oh, Lady, Lady" is presented in a beguiling form, and with the really excellent dancing and the well dressed and well trained ensemble girls, as well as the staging of the two acts. A special matinee will be played this afternoon.

Are you pleased to be told that you look like a player or that you have dramatic ability? The answer is given in the one-act comedy, "The Flattering Word," which George Kelly and his company are presenting as one of the stellar features this week at the Orpheum. Included in the program of Carl Jörn, the eminent tenor, are selections which range from dramatic grand opera selections to appealing ballads.

Memories of Sousa, Liberatti, Pat Gilmore and the rest of the great band leaders and orchestra directors are lost sight of when one sees Al K. Hall (Alcohol) conduct the orchestra at the Gayety this week during a portion of the exceptionally clever performance being given by "The Sporting Widows" before the theater at every performance. Among the most interested spectators are scores of visiting grain dealers who are attending the convention. Ladies' matinee at 2:15 daily.

A delightful one-act playlet is "Honor Thy Children," which will be presented at the Empress for the last times today. The big hit of the bill is the minstrel and musical revue headed by Marion Glibney, Scapones, cornets and trombones are used and a program of instrumental musical numbers are given. Hugh Johnston, besides being an excellent magician, is a wit and raconteur. His offering is a great novelty number replete with surprises.

With "My Sunshine Lady," the newest to the minute of our ladies of the stage. A full-fledged, made to the order, dimples and all, little lady, whose charms are hinted (positively irresistible), and she's attended by 30 real "sun goddesses." To be seen at the Brandeis next Sunday for four days, starting with matinee.

BURGLARS MAKE ROUND OF 'JOBS' IN AUTO TRUCK

Drive From One Place to Another and Carry Away Loot Worth Thousands of Dollars.

An automobile truck was used by a gang of burglars that operated in the north part of the city Monday night, according to evidence gathered by detectives in the investigation of six robberies reported to police. In each instance the thieves drove the truck alongside of the buildings which they robbed.

More than $400 worth of carpenter's tools were stolen in four "jobs" committed by the gang, according to reports made to police.

Tools Are Stolen. J. E. Jarvis, 534 South Thirtieth street, told police that all his tools were missing from a garage under construction at 2769 Titus avenue. A complete set of tools belonging to E. C. Van Leuven, 2619 Capitol avenue, was stolen out of the same place. Entrance was gained by breaking a temporary joist across the door of the garage.

Frank E. Kurtz, 919 Lincoln boulevard, reported the theft of his tools, valued at $100, from a house under construction at 4211 Leavenworth street.

A tool cart belonging to the Nebraska Telephone Co. was broken into at Thirty-sixth and Z streets and a lot of tools taken.

A side window of the garage of Hester and Lowe, Sixteenth and Binney streets, was broken open and $600 worth of tires stolen from the stock room.

Detectives discovered tracks of an automobile truck alongside the building.

A complete report of the burglary of the Fashion store, 111 South Sixteenth street, gives a total list of $2,885 worth of fur coats stolen from the place. Police say they have learned an automobile truck was used in the robbery. Entrance was gained through a rear window.

Burglars entered a rear window, let and a watch from the home of William J. Hawley, 3140 South Seventeenth street, while the family was at a theater Monday night, according to a police report. The thieves entered a rear window. Bureau drawers and a writing desk in upstairs room were ransacked and the contents strewn on the floor.

Church Is Robbed. While the congregation of the United Presbyterian church was at a meeting in the church at Twenty-fourth and Dodge streets Monday night, a thief entered the cloak room and took his choice of a pile of men's coats and hats.

The thief stole a complete winter outfit belonging to C. E. McCague, 347 North Forty-first street. A new overcoat, silk gloves, scarf and cap made up the loot.

Dr. J. J. Foster told police he caught sight of a poorly dressed middle sized man loitering about the cloak room of the church during the evening, but paid no particular attention to him. Police say the lone thief answers the description of the house prowler who has been operating throughout the city during the past week.

MAN WHOSE BACK WAS BROKEN GOING ABOUT AS USUAL. Case of Edward Bjorkgren Attracting Attention in Surgical World.

In filing away naturalization papers yesterday in the clerk's office of the district court in Council Bluffs the record of the application of Edward Bjorkgren was found and on the top of the order citing him to appear for final hearing on September 12 appeared the notation "back broken September 8."

The final record showed that he walked into the clerk's office November 13 and secured the copy of his completed naturalization.

He is the man who fell a distance of 25 feet at the Transmississippi grain elevator and had his back broken in three places, and who was restored to a normal condition in just 10 weeks by modern surgery applied by Dr. Fred P. Bellinger.

The story was exclusively printed in The Bee last Sunday morning. The case has attracted a great amount of attention in the surgical world, and Dr. Bellinger is receiving an avalanche of congratulations.

When Roy Hardesty, chief deputy in the clerk's office, waited upon Mr. Bjorkgren when he walked into the office last Thursday to get his naturalization papers he saw the notation at the top.

"Why, are you the man whose back was broken?" he inquired in astonishment.

"Yes, I am," the man replied, "and when they came to Mercy hospital on November 2 to take my final acknowledgment of I lay in the plaster cast I didn't even then expect to ever move again. I was completely paralyzed, but I'm all right now. Back a little lame but I can get around as good as ever and will resume my regular work on December 1."

Mr. Bjorkgren is now down in Kansas with his family.

START CAMPAIGN TO BOOST ZONE PLAN FOR OMAHA

City Planning Committee Will Appear Before Civic Bodies to Explain Ordinance and Maps.

The City Planning commission has started its intensive educational and publicity campaign for the new zoning ordinance which it hopes to submit to the council within a month.

The planners want to go before every organization in Omaha with the zoning maps and ordinance, to get objections that any citizen may have, before asking the council to approve the law.

Monday night the zone plan was considered by the Nebraska chapter of the American Institute of Architects. Chairman Morton of the planning commission and Architect George B. Prinz presented the plan in detail.

Wednesday noon the plan commission members will appear before the real estate board with the zone maps and ordinance. A letter sent to all realtors today said with reference to the zone scheme: "Bring on your kicks."

Mr. Morton says that in most cases the objections can be made to see that their objections are not good.

"But, if the plan commission is wrong," he said, "we want to know it. If the ordinance will work an injury, we want to change it so it will not be injurious, but helpful."

Friday, the planners will go before the Building Owners and Managers' association. The municipal affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce is now considering the ordinance.

Apartment Area Small. "We want to present the plan to all improvement clubs," Mr. Morton said yesterday. "If a club will ask for the maps, a member of the planning commission or some other person who understands the new scheme, will present it."

"We'll go any place in the city and be glad to do it, with the ordinance and maps."

Some of the architects Monday night thought the "40 per cent" provision for apartment houses was too small.

"Some of them changed their minds," Morton said, when he showed them that the Garvey apartment house at Thirty-eighth avenue and Dewey will cover only 30 per cent of the ground, and that the big Metz home at Thirty-seventh and Dewey covers only 23 per cent of the ground."

From the moment when the prince's special train arrived in Jersey City, until midnight when the royal guest retired to his quarters after a gala performance at the Metropolitan Opera House, the young British heir had scarcely a moment to call his own.

In warmth and enthusiasm his reception rivaled that given by New York to his famous royal cousin, Albert, king of Belgium, and again and again throughout the day the prince expressed his keen pleasure at his welcome.

After his official reception at the city hall and visits to Grant's tomb and the statue of Joan of Arc, at the foot of both of which memorials he laid wreaths, the prince was taken on a launch to the Renovo, anchored in the North river, and with the royal standard of Windsor floating from its masthead. There the afternoon was occupied in receiving various delegations.

The prince had planned a visit to Fifth avenue, but his visitors were too numerous and he was unable to leave the cruiser until it was time for him to go to the Waldorf hotel, where he was the guest at dinner of Henry P. Davison, representing the former war council and the American Red Cross.

County Commissioner Replies to Attacks of Taxpayers' League. Continued assaults by the Citizens' and Taxpayers' league on the proposal to advertise bonds to the extent of $235,000 to restore the records in the county register of deeds office brought an explanation yesterday.

"The Citizens' and Taxpayers' league says it will replace these records for $200,000," said Mr. O'Connor. "But the county, doing the work by the day may replace them for less than $200,000."

The $235,000 bonds being advertised for this purpose need not be issued if the work costs less. In fact they will be issued just as fast as the need arises. When we get the work done we may still have $50,000 or $75,000 of the bonds left in the county treasury. We believe the work will be done for much less than the $235,000, but we have to advertise enough bonds to make sure the work can be completed. We have to issue only as many as it actually requires to do the work."

Three units of typists are being employed and a schedule has been arranged of the number of instruments that each must copy for a day's work. County commissioners believe the work will be done for less than $200,000.

Prince of Wales Sees New York From All Sides. New York, Nov. 18.—The prince of Wales received about everything New York had to offer today, from a royal welcome from some hundreds of thousands of citizens and the official freedom of the city to a book containing newspaper clippings recording his journeyings in Canada and United States.

Other gifts presented to him included a silver star and stripes; a Bible given by the New York Bible society, a replica of the one presented to his grandfather, King Edward VII, when he, then prince of Wales, visited this country 60 years ago, and a gold medal donated by the representatives of 30 states who have contributed to the building up of America.
