

ONLY TWO WEEKS MORE SCHOOL IF COAL IS SHORT

Short Supply of Fuel in Omaha Threatens Churches and Theaters Also—Deliveries Stopped.

Schools, churches and theaters are threatened with being closed in two weeks. Many nonessential industries are in a similar plight because of the diminishing supply of coal in Omaha.

School officials are checking every pound of coal on hand, theater men are counting their black diamonds and church people are discussing the possibility of holding services in homes.

The coal bins at these places are being reduced to the vanishing point. Deliveries All Night. Coal men were busy Thursday night making deliveries to those who held contracts. The new order issued by the terminal coal committee went into effect at 7 a. m. today, ordering discontinuance of coal deliveries to schools, churches, places of amusement and nonessential industries.

J. H. Beveridge, superintendent of public schools, conferred Thursday evening with the principals on the coal situation. He explained that the school officials will equalize the coal supply between the buildings and he estimated that not more than two weeks' supply of coal is now on hand for the entire school system. Unless relief is received, some of the schools will be closed next week.

"We are working night and day to keep the homes of the city supplied with coal," said H. L. Snyder, chairman of the terminal coal committee. He stated that the local supply has reached its lowest stage and that it will be only a few days before it will be exhausted.

Western Towns Suffice. J. A. Bennet, chairman of the Union Pacific coal committee, reported that many towns along the Union Pacific, west of Omaha, are suffering from lack of coal, and he added that his committee is endeavoring to distribute the supply as fairly as possible to the various points.

"Unless there is early relief, the situation will be serious," Mr. Bennet added.

H. J. Plunof, assistant to the federal manager of the Union Pacific, reported that Union Pacific mines in southern Wyoming were worked to almost full capacity Thursday, and similar reports were received from Burlington officials as to their mines at Sheridan, Wyo.

BUTTER SOARS WITH EGGS ON OMAHA MARKET

Thanksgiving Delicacies Will Be Plentiful But High Priced, Is Prediction of Commission Men.

Butter may soon be $1 a pound if it continues to rise in price as it has during the last seven weeks. For six consecutive weeks butter went up 2 cents a pound, remaining at 74 cents a pound for about 10 days. This week the wholesale price on butter went up 3 cents and next week butter will sell for 77 cents a pound.

Eggs are also reaching a top margin, retailing for 68 cents a dozen. Eggs also took a steady advance for six weeks, finally stopping at 68 cents a dozen, and it is believed the market price will go higher.

Commodities for the Thanksgiving dinner are plentiful on the local market and grocers believe there will even be a sufficient supply of turkey, with the price expected to be about 50 cents a pound. Chickens, ducks and geese in quantities will also be on the local market.

Large quantities of southern vegetables and fruits from California and the south are daily arriving on the market in anticipation of the demand for the Thanksgiving season.

The best fancy apples are retailing for $4.85 a box with Arkansas Black at $4.35 a box. Large cooking apples are selling for 85 cents a peck. Fancy oranges are also on the market for 35 and 45 cents a dozen. Grapefruit is selling for 7 1/2 cents each.

Radishes are 5 cents a bunch, with celery 7 1/2 cents a bunch and carrot 5 cents. Rutabagas, carrots, parsnips and beets are selling three
