

AVERY IS HEAD OF LAND GRANT COLLEGE ASS'N

Chancellor of University of Nebraska Is Honored By the College Presidents.

Information has been received at the University of Nebraska that Chancellor Samuel Avery has just been made president of the Land Grant College association. The chancellor has for several years served on the association's committee of college organization and policy.

The association is a powerful one, meeting for an annual convention, usually at Washington, D. C. The last meeting was held in Chicago, November 12 to 14. The offices are filled by the college presidents of the association and it is their custom to name one of their own number.

The newly elected chairman of the executive committee is Raymond A. Pearson, president of Iowa State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts at Ames. President Pearson was assistant secretary of agriculture during the war.

Shapes Legislation.
The association is a controlling factor in the development of the land grant colleges. One of the university deans says it is possible to trace the development of all such institutions by studying the reports of the committees, which, together with other reports, are published in the annual proceedings of the association. The association is a factor in shaping federal legislation regarding these institutions. All such bills as the Smith-Hughes for vocational work emanate from the association, as also the extension work of all sorts which is supported by the government.

The membership comprises every college established under act of congress approved July 2, 1862, or receiving the benefits of the act of congress approved August 30, 1890. Institutions belonging to the association send delegates to the annual conventions.

Studies Progress.
The object of the association as defined in the constitution is to consider and discuss all questions pertaining to the successful progress and administration of the colleges and stations included in the association and to secure to that end mutual co-operation.

The association has three sections: (1) On college work and administration, (2) On experiment station work, (3) On extension work, composed of directors or superintendents of extension departments in the institutions of the association, or the representatives of such departments duly and specifically accredited to this section.

The election of Chancellor Avery to this high office is a great honor to the university and to Nebraska.

Iowa Contractor Says He Only Put Up Bonds for Others

POLITE THIEVES GET $6,000 HAUL OF FINE JEWELS

One Is Heard to Call the Other "Slim" — Enter House in Early Morning.

Two polite burglars who have baffled Omaha police during the past week, by their peculiar antics in holding up victims in their homes, made a haul of $6,000 worth of jewelry at the home of C. R. Jewell, 315 South Fifty-seventh street, at 6 yesterday morning, according to a report made to police.

A solitary diamond, three and one-half carats and set in a gold ring, was taken by the masked burglars. It was Mrs. Jewell's engagement ring. An eight-grain pearl surrounded by small diamonds, set in gold was also taken, besides a platinum bar pin, valued at $300.

According to a description of the robbers, police believe them to be the same pair that held up Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Powers, in their apartment at the El Beador, Eighteenth and Dodge streets, early Monday morning.

'Are Tall and Short.'
A short heavy set man issued orders to his accomplice, a tall, slender and sallow youth. Both men entered the house through a pantry window. A "Jimmy" had been used to cut about the latch. While "Slim," as Mrs. Jewell heard the short burglar call his accomplice, remained downstairs, the leader of the pair ransacked a vacant bedroom upstairs. It was in this room that the burglar obtained the three valuable articles of jewelry, Mrs. Jewell said.

The heavy set robber then entered the room occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Jewell. Flashing a light in Mr. Jewell's face, he commanded, "Wake up and throw 'em up."

Looks Into Revolver.
Mrs. Jewell also awoke, only to peer into the muzzle of a gun in the hands of the burglar. "Come on up, Slim, I've got 'em covered," the burglar ordered his accomplice, who was downstairs.

While a gun was being held on Mr. and Mrs. Jewell, the slender outlaw went through Mr. Jewell's trousers at the command of his partner. He missed $22 which was concealed in a watch pocket. Before leaving the house the short burglar took an overcoat and hat belonging to Mr. Jewell and left a worn coat in its place.

Ringer Out of City.
An effort to interview Commissioner Ringer on the series of bold robberies in Omaha recently, in which thousands of dollars worth of property has been stolen and no material headway made by the police at a solution of the crimes, failed. At his office it was said the police commissioner was in Detroit attending the meeting of the International Association of the Y. M. C. A.

WIFE NUMBER 3 SAYS ROMANCE WAS SHORT LIVED

Omaha Stenographer Declares Her Husband Deceived Her.

The romance of Margaret Fillenworth was shattered a week after her marriage to Harry McKay, she says in a petition filed in district court yesterday for annulment of her marriage to him, alleging again the truth of the lyrical proverb that "Men were deceivers ever."

Margaret was a stenographer with a local music house when Harry came along and wooed and won her.

Their honeymoon was only three months ago. They were married August 1, 1919, by Rev. Harry Noble-Wilson, in St. Paul, Minn. Harry told his bride that he had already led two other girls to the altar but that his first wife had died and that he had been divorced from his second, Margaret alleges.

As they were leaving the house one afternoon about a week after the wedding in company with some of her husband's friends the wife of one of them remarked to her, she says, as women will, "I hope you won't have any trouble because of your marriage to Mr. McKay."

This "hope" was destined to be shattered, because Margaret soon found out, she alleges, that her husband had not been divorced from wife No. 2 before he was married to wife No. 3. She alleges that he is now the legal husband of Edna M. McKay, his second bride. Mrs. McKay No. 3, therefore, asks the court to annul her marriage.

She says Mr. McKay earns from $200 to $250, and asks the court to pay her $100 a month alimony.

Choosing Between Good and Bad Clothing

There has never been a time when Good Clothes

Were as scarce as they are now, and the scarcity exists only in GOOD CLOTHES.

We could get plenty of inferior stuff. Our store would be filled if we were not particular about the clothes we sell.

We believe a man would rather choose his Suit or Overcoat

From a limited assortment of clothes such as KUPPENHEIMER, HIRSCH-WICKWIRE and L-SYSTEM

Than from a big variety of questionable quality garments. Every garment we sell represents quality and style of the highest order.

Suits $35.00 to $65.00

Top Coats $35.00 to $85.00

Seasonable Furnishings

Like our clothing, there are none better. Only the exclusive merchandise of the world's best can be found at this popular store.
