

BODY OF SLAIN GIRL ON VIEW IN THIS CITY TODAY

Officials Hope Murder Mystery May Be Solved Through Recognition of Victim by An Observer.

to the location of the crime. The authorities refused to make any statement regarding this, but it was learned that a number of telegrams were sent to points outside the state, and that answers to some were expected today. If they are favorable, it was said, the scene of the crime will be ascertained, which will hasten the identification of the girl.
Try to Trace Car.
The Omaha police believe that Detective Trapp's clue is the "warmest" yet uncovered. The identity of the car that took the party to the dance may be learned today, and if it is finding of the occupants of the car will follow closely.
The murdered girl's wedding ring had been removed, Stricklett said he did not remember whether the girl he danced with wore a wedding ring. The body last night showed a ridge about the "ring" finger that indicated a wide band ring had adorned the finger recently.
Mrs. Eloise Achultz, Sixtieth and Center streets, is the girl who noticed the touring car that carried the mysterious sextette from Calhoun last Saturday night, as it stood near the first bridge this side of Calhoun at 3:45 Sunday morning with its curtains drawn tightly. All was quiet about the car, she said.

Cecil Stricklett's story about dancing with a girl who remarkably resembled the murdered girl was substantiated by Bert Miller of Calhoun, and in part by other dancers last night.
Stricklett and Miller said the three couples came to the dance late in the evening. Detective Trapp has a clue to where they came from in Omaha.
Quarrelled With Escort.
"This particular light-haired girl seemed to have had some difference with her tall, good-looking escort," Stricklett explained to the police last night. "She would not even sit with him between dances. I had a dance with her and in the middle of it he came over, and, taking her by the wrist, jerked her away. They had some words then and when I went over to interfere he drew away and sat down and she came back and finished the dance with me. I could not hear what they were talking about, but I know they were not on very friendly terms."
"I only remember one other member of the sextette," said Stricklett. "He was not as tall as his escort and his face was pock-marked and slightly pimply. I think I would remember either of the men if I saw them again and especially the pock-marked fellow."
Girl Seen in Omaha.
Hazel Nicholson of Florence, Neb., City Detective Joe Warrin, and A. W. Ekman, 2223 A street, South Side, all agreed they had seen the girl in Omaha but none could associate any other information with their recollection.
A man and his wife from Omaha visited the morgue yesterday and viewed the body thinking that the description answered to a girl they knew and whom they referred to as

Hazel. They refused to give their name or the last name of the girl who they said was not the dead girl. They gave as their reason for thinking the dead girl was Hazel that she was friendly with a young man who frequently took her riding in an automobile and that during a quarrel he had been heard to threaten to kill her.
Mrs. C. E. Cooley, 1620 Avenue B, Council Bluffs, viewed the body fearing that it was her daughter, Miss Grace Bothwell, who disappeared six weeks ago.
Miss Ballard Active.
Instead of interest dying out yesterday on account of general acceptance of the theory that the girl was brought to the ravine near Calhoun from a long distance, it was heightened by the renewed activity of the officials, who announced a determination to get to the bottom of the mystery.
In line with this decision Miss Grace Ballard, county attorney for Washington county, who has taken into her personal charge the direction of the investigation and running down of the murderer, gave orders that the body should be held until the last possible moment in anticipation of identification.
Brings Clothes to Omaha.
In pursuance of her investigation Miss Ballard went to Calhoun yesterday from Blair, the county seat, where she has her office, packed up the clothing of the dead girl, down to the last scrap, and left for Omaha. She was in Omaha for several hours. While in the city Miss Ballard did not call upon the police or the forces of the sheriff, according to reports from both departments, pursuing her investigation alone.
Visitors at Calhoun.
Throughout the day automobiles filled the roads leading to Calhoun from all directions. A dozen or more went out from Omaha, three containing parties who thought they might identify the girl.
One of these included the cashier of the Hotel Rome restaurant, the cigar stand girl at the Carlton, and a chauffeur employed by Manager Foreman of the Blue Taxi Co., who thought they had recognized the girl from a photo.
Mysterious Young Man.
Another was a mysterious young man who refused to give his name or address, but who appeared considerably perturbed and anxious as he approached William Sievers, the undertaker, and requested a view of the body.
Following his examination the young man said that the girl was not the one he thought he might find, and explained that he did not wish to give his name as he was representing a man who thought the girl might be one of his employees.
Mr. Sievers corroborated the statement of the young man, saying that when he caught one glimpse of the body he exclaimed:
"That's not the girl."
Others came from the country districts around to view the body, but all failed to recognize her.

ALCOHOL COMES TO FOREGROUND AS POTENT FUEL

World's Annual Consumption Of Coal and Oil Brings End of Supply in Sight.

Washington, Nov. 22.—"No sooner had King Alcohol gone out of the back door as a beverage than he enters the front door in triumph as a fuel."
That, at least seems a reasonable interpretation of recent expert utterances on the subject, including the pronouncement of a number of world famous chemists who attended a scientific congress recently in New York City, says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.
Why Mother Necessity is giving birth to this new brain-child of invention is related in a communication to the society by Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, as follows:
"There is one obstacle to further advance in mechanical development, in the increasing price of the fuel necessary to work machinery. Coal and oil are going up and are strictly limited in quantity. We can take coal out of a mine, but we can never put it back. We can draw oil from subterranean reservoirs, but we can never refill them. We are spendthrifts in the matter of fuel and we are using our capital for our running expenses."
In relation to coal and oil, the world's annual consumption has come so enormous that we are now actually within measurable distance of the end of the supply. What shall we do when we have no more coal or oil?
"Apart from water power (which is strictly limited) and tidal wave power (which we have not yet learned to utilize), and the employment of the sun's rays directly as a source of power, we have little left, excepting wood, and it takes at least 25 years to grow a crop of trees."
Alcohol Only Solution.
There is, however, one other source of fuel supply which may perhaps solve this problem of the future. Alcohol makes a beautiful, clean, and efficient fuel, and, where not intended for consumption by human beings, can be manufactured very cheaply in an indigestible or even poisonous form. Wood alcohol, for example, can be employed as a fuel, and we can make alcohol from sawdust, a waste product of our mills.
"Alcohol can also be manufactured from cornstarch, and in fact from almost any vegetable matter capable of fermentation. Our growing crops and even weeds can be used. The waste products of our farms are available for this purpose and even the garbage field of our cities. We need never fear the exhaustion of our present fuel supplies so long as we can produce an annual crop of alcohol to any extent desired."
"The world will probably depend upon alcohol more and more as time goes on, and a great field of usefulness is opening for the engineer who will modify our machinery to enable alcohol to be used as the source of power."

THREE KILLED, TWO WOUNDED, IN GUN FIGHT

Band of Men Attempt to Prevent Special Police From Arresting Negro.
Bogalusa, La., Nov. 22.—Three white men were killed and two wounded in a pitched battle at a garage in which a small band of men attempted to prevent special police deputies from arresting a negro labor leader, suspected of inciting negroes, and two white men who had carried shotguns to protect him while parading him down the main street of the city.
The dead are L. E. Williams, president of the allied Trades council of Bogalusa, and owner of the garage; J. P. Bouchillon and Thomas Gaines, carpenters. They were shot by the officers.
The wounded are:
S. J. O'Rourke, carpenter and one of the men whom a warrant for arrest had been sworn, and Jules Leblanc, a special policeman and a former army captain.
Saul Dechus, the negro, who is president of the Negro union, escaped from the garage with four white men during the shooting.
James Williams, brother of the slain leader, was arrested, charged with assault with intent to kill.
Bogalusa Now Quiet.
Bogalusa was quiet Saturday night. The special officers, who are members of the Self Preservation and Loyal leagues and who advanced on the barricaded garage despite the fire from shotguns and pistols, are maintaining order.
The officers began their search for Dechus Friday night, when they boarded a passenger train entering the city, but failed to find him. Saturday the officers said, Bouchillon and O'Rourke, armed with shotguns, marched Dechus, for whom a warrant had been sworn, down the street to Williams' garage.
The chief of police had sworn in 45 special officers and they formed to make the arrest. W. C. Magee and Jules Leblanc with warrants for O'Rourke, Bouchillon and Dechus started toward the garage. As they so defended Mr. Matters in the second hearing and my successor, United States District Attorney Allen, prosecuted, Federal Judge Wade of Iowa heard the case and Mr. Matters was eventually, sentenced to five years in prison.

Can Go to High Court.
Mr. Howell said that Mr. Matters can carry this case to the United States supreme court.
"On a writ of appeal or at any rate on a writ of certiorari, he can take it to the United States supreme court," he said.
The action of the circuit court of appeals may not result in a final disposition of the case for a year or two, according to his attorney, who explained that a motion for a new trial is probable and that an application may be filed for a review of the case by the supreme court of the United States. The mandate of the circuit court will be received in about 40 days and then 30 more days will elapse before Mr. Matters will be required to appear before the federal court.
It was charged in the trials here that Matters aided and abetted M. L. Lucbe, former president of the Sutton bank, in issuing certificates of deposit for the purpose of borrowing money which went into the bank. Matters' defense was that he negotiated these certificates to obtain money for the bank; that it was a method of borrowing money. It was alleged that this method was adopted without a copy of the board of directors of the bank. Matters asserted in his defense that the bank owed money to him.
Mr. Matters formerly lived at

Mr. Gild says, but if the mines continue to produce, the situation will be eventually relieved here, he says.
Heatless theaters are a grim reality for Omaha.
W. M. Jeffers, chairman of the terminal coal committee, ordered the discontinuance of heat supplied from plants to theaters, which affects most of the large amusement places.
The Brandeis power plant at Seventeenth and Dodge streets supplies heat to the Brandeis, Strand, Empress and Rialto theaters, and the heat connections for these places was cut off yesterday. The full effect of this discontinuance will not be felt until today, on account of the mild weather and the heat that will remain in the buildings.

Irish Protestants to Present Their Side Of Home Rule Idea

Belfast, Nov. 22.—William Coote, member of Parliament for South Tyrone, accompanied by a deputation of six prominent clergymen representing various churches in Ireland, is sailing for America from Liverpool for the purpose of "putting before their churches in America the true position and the dangers which threaten their churches in Ireland by the adoption of the Sinn Fein program."
The party comprises, Presbyterians, Rev. Willie Blue and Rev. William Corkey; Methodists, The Revs. F. E. Martie, Edward Hazelton and C. W. Maguire; Episcopalian, Rev. Louis Crooks. All these clergymen officially represent their respective denominations, which number approximately 1,000,000 Irish Protestants.

the Gayety theater, heated from the Henshaw hotel, will be similarly affected.
The Orpheum will use coal on hand, but will not be allowed further deliveries during the present situation.
One of the theater managers facetiously remarked that if he could get a "real hot show," the lack of heat would not be noticed by patrons.
"With the present mild weather and the heat that is added by the presence of an audience, the theater situation will not be as serious as one might believe," said Thomas F. Quinlan, general manager of the Brandeis stores.
"Attendants can wrap warmer and enjoy a show, but, of course, if we should have a cold snap, it would be a different story. I am convinced that Mr. Jeffers is handling this coal situation in an admirable manner."
The coal on hand at the Brandeis power plant is not large, and what there is, will be needed to heat the stores.
This plant also heats the city hall, which has not as yet been classified as a "nonessential industry."
Heatless Theaters.
"We have enough coal on hand to last us for a few weeks," said W. F. Byrne, manager of the Orpheum. "We intend to conserve the best we can."
"The heat which is supplied to the Gayety passes through the theater to several stores on Harney street, so I anticipate that we will continue to receive heat," stated E. L. Johnson, manager.
H. L. Snyder, acting chairman of the terminal coal committee, stated late yesterday that only 11 cars of coal had arrived in Omaha during the last 24 hours. This is much lower than the usual amount and only emphasizes the seriousness of the situation, he said.

A Few Facts

Which Go With the Oakford Plan of Piano Selling

This wonderful toned WEBER Baby Grand $995

We give neither scarf, music cabinet nor piano lamp with our instruments. But rather a dollar's worth of piano for every dollar you spend with us.

"Goods that have a value will sell at that value."
"Shrewd buyers do not expect to purchase at less than right value."
"The house that fixes prices and adheres constantly to them, must of necessity fix lowest prices."
"Standard values insure regular prices."
"When there is no regularity of price, there is no certainty of value."
"It does not require an expert to buy from the Oakford one price no commission store."
"In the multi-price house it requires skillfulness of the buyer to insure correctness of price."
"When the buyer is not familiar with the value of an article, it is easy for the salesman to add some to the price to allow for cuts, and it often happens that the cuts do not equal the addition."
"If too much is asked to start with, how are you to judge what is really correct?"
"Can you depend upon a man who confessedly tried to get too much in the beginning?"
"When a salesman asks $500 for a piano and then takes $400, he confesses a willingness to get $100 of your money which does not belong to him."
In no other store in the United States will you find better or more famous pianos than you will find here. For instance:
