

THEATERS WILL REDUCE LIGHTS TO SAVE COAL Situation May Be Relieved Monday by Diverting Cars Intended for Wyoming.

Managers of seven downtown theaters met yesterday afternoon to discuss means of aiding the terminal coal committee in saving the rapidly disappearing fuel supply of the city.

By careful use of lights, about two-thirds of the power ordinarily used in lighting of a theater can be saved, it was decided.

Theaters taking this step are the Rialto, Sun, Moon, Empress, Boyd, Muse and Strand. The Orpheum and Grandis are also expected to join in the movement.

No Lights at Home. Managers of theaters depending on central plants, which have been ordered to shut off heat if they have installed kerosene heaters which will keep the temperatures normal.

Managers of theaters with private heating plants have sufficient coal to run several days, and if the situation is not improved at the end of that time they, also, will install kerosene plants, they say.

Managers emphasized the fact that people did not burn lights in their homes when they attended shows, and passed a resolution urging the people to save fuel by saving lights.

H. L. Snyder, acting chairman of the terminal fuel committee, commended the action of the theater managers last night. He issued an order permitting heating plants to furnish heat to theaters.

May Get Coal Monday. If railroads succeed in diverting large quantities of Wyoming coal here by Monday, Omaha may "pull through" the present shortage with some difficulty.

This is the way members of the terminal coal committee viewed the situation here yesterday. Reports received yesterday by the fuel committee from Washington, state that the coal situation has reached a crisis.

Officials of the Union Pacific railroad are making every effort to secure coal mined in the Rock Springs district of Wyoming for Omaha.

Ordinarily much of the Wyoming coal is diverted westward, according to H. J. Plumhof, assistant to the federal manager of the Union Pacific, but as Utah mines are producing coal more of the Wyoming coal can be secured here.
