

THANKSGIVING IS OBSERVED IN PRAYER AND SONG

Real Spirit of the Holiday in Omaha Best Expressed In Homes—Charities Provide for the Needy.

The real Thanksgiving spirit in Omaha yesterday was best expressed in homes where family circles gathered, and also in the larger housing centers where city dwellers live.

From the most humble home to the best homes, each habitant in its way gave evidence of the day when everybody takes thought of the things to be thankful for.

A snow-clad earth and otherwise wintry weather made the average home more cheerful, and the members of the average family gathered around the Thanksgiving table which had been prepared with extra care.

Baskets for the Poor.

The time-honored institution of giving the "inner man" a treat was generally observed and this applied to practically every home in the 37 1-2 square miles of Omaha. The Associated Charities, Salvation Army, Volunteers of America, Visiting Nurse association of Omaha, St. Paul de Vincent society, City Mission, South Side Social Settlement and other helpful organizations worked conscientiously to provide needy homes with Thanksgiving baskets.

Residents of the House of Hope, Old People's home, Negro Old People's home, St. James' orphanage, Creche, Child Saving institute, county hospital and similar institutions were all remembered in a substantial way. A special dinner was served yesterday afternoon at the Young Women's Christian association reservations being made for 75 women workers who are away from their own homes and who were unable to attend family reunions of their own. The association held open house yesterday afternoon for its members. A program last evening included music, popcorn and marshmallows. A Thanksgiving dinner was served at the Young Women's boarding home, Twentieth and Cass streets.

The only special feature of the day at the Young Men's Christian association was a volleyball tournament yesterday morning. Frosty weather did not discourage members of the Omaha Walking club enjoying their annual hike. "Dick" Hassel, proprietor of the Woodrow cafes No. 1 and No. 2, and himself a former Chicago newsie was host yesterday afternoon to 120 Bee newsmen. Mr. Hassel saved his first money while selling papers on the streets of Chicago.

The men at Fort Crook and Fort Omaha, representing homes in all parts of the nation, were served Thanksgiving dinners. The hotels observed the custom of making their guests feel "at home" for the day.

Plenty of Amusements. Entertainment features were provided at the theaters. Creighton field was crowded yesterday afternoon with football fans and a poultry and rabbit show in the Auditorium attracted its quota of attendants.

Thanksgiving dinner was served at the Girls' Community house, 1716 Dodge street, for members of the Girls' Community Service league and their friends. An effort was made to obtain the attendance of young women away from home.

Business of the city was generally suspended, the barber shops were open until noon, and the postoffice department enjoyed a whole holiday.

The Thanksgiving vacation in schools will extend to next Monday morning, which will help in the coal conservation.

City hall, court house, public library, banks and other public and private places were closed all day. A vast, united hymn of thanksgiving went up from thousands of persons who gathered in the churches of the city yesterday morning for Thanksgiving services. Many of the churches united in these services, half a dozen in one neighborhood gathering in one building, thus saving coal.

Rev. Fred R. Shirk, pastor of Grace Lutheran church, spoke at Kountze Memorial Lutheran church, at the service in Trinity cathedral on "The Larger American Thanksgiving," declared that "new opportunities have been placed before the churches of America today as never before."

Thanksgiving services were held also in all other Episcopal churches of the city.

A solemn high mass marked the day at St. Cecilia's cathedral where Archbishop Hartley presided upon his throne.

The officers of the solemn mass of thanksgiving were the Rev. Edward J. Flanagan, director of the Boys' Industrial Home, celebrant; Daniel B. Leary, and Rev. Joseph A. Aughney, St. Cecilia's, deacon and subdeacon, respectively; Rev. George F. Dinneen, St. J., pastor of St. James, and Rev. C. Gannon, pastor of St. Patrick's, chaplains to the archbishop. The sermon was preached by the orator of St. Louis, Rev. James O'Brien, the Most Reverend J. O. Hartley, archbishop, presiding.

Castell Presbyterian, Dietz Memorial Methodist, Oak Street Methodist and the First Reformed churches held union services in the latter church, Rev. C. A. Burkholder preaching the sermon.

Rev. F. L. Townsend preached the Thanksgiving sermon in the First Presbyterian church at a union service of this congregation with the McCabe Methodist and First Baptist congregations.

Churches of the Kountze park neighborhood united in services of Thanksgiving in the First United Presbyterian church, Rev. H. J. Howard of the North Side Christian church preaching the sermon.

First Methodist, First Central Congregational and Central United Presbyterian congregation united in services at the Central United Presbyterian church where Rev. Frank G. Smith, pastor of the First Central Congregational church, preached.

In all the churches special Thanksgiving anthems and other musical numbers were sung by the choirs.

Popular A. E. F. Musical Comedy to Be Staged in Omaha

"I Beg Your Pardon," a musical comedy which was popular with the American soldiers overseas, and later presented in New York and Chicago, will be given next Monday night at Metropolitan hall, by local talent, for the benefit of Temple Israel Sisterhood.

Harry New of Council Bluffs, who had a leading role in this production in France and the United States, will appear Monday night in the same part. The other leading role will be sung by Celia Feiler of Temple Israel choir. Miss Feiler is a talented vocalist. A cast of 25 will assist in making this one of the best amateur productions offered in Omaha in recent years.

The entertainment will begin at 8 and dancing will follow the stage presentation.

Water Board Agrees To Supply School With Steam Coal

The Metropolitan Water board directed R. B. Howell, general manager of the municipal water plant, to supply Central High school with steam coal during the present emergency.

Central High school, the only public school whose heating plant is equipped for burning of slack coal, was threatened with being closed next Monday until the water board agreed to share its large supply of steam coal stored at the Minne Lusa plant, Florence.

The water plant has an estimated supply of coal to last five months.

Mrs. George Higgins, Well Known in Old Days, Dies

Mrs. George Higgins, 88 years old, died at the House of Hope yesterday. Mrs. Higgins had been a resident of Omaha for the past 55 years, and is known by many old timers here.

Funeral services will be held from the House of Hope this afternoon at 2:30.

So that a watch will be as accessible as if worn on the wrist, an inventor has patented a pouch to be suspended from a belt.

GEN. PERSHING TO BE GIVEN GREAT RECEPTION HERE

Plans Will Be Completed at Once for Gala Day.

Plans for a gigantic reception for General Pershing, who will visit Omaha shortly after Christmas, will be completed at once, according to W. A. Ellis, assistant commissioner of the Chamber of Commerce.

"The visit of the great general will be a real gala day for Omaha and Nebraska," said Mr. Ellis, "for we have always claimed General Pershing as a Nebraska man. We have been informed that he avoids formality whenever possible, so we will make the reception one big public celebration."

"The metropolis of Nebraska, Pershing's own state, is not to be outdone by any other city in the country. We will probably have soldiers from Fort Crook and Omaha aid in the reception; every band in town will be asked to turn out, and the whole reception will be a spontaneous outburst of gratitude—a reception General Pershing will remember."

An attempt to bring General Pershing to Omaha shortly after his arrival in the United States was made by the Chamber of Commerce. Cabergraves invited him to the city were sent him in Paris and London. Ak-Sar-Ben also made efforts to secure the general's presence during the fall festival, and had representatives in New York when he landed to urge him to come. The general was forced to go to Washington immediately on his arrival, however.

New Record Made In Day's Sale of Licenses to Wed

The marriage license record in Douglas county was broken Wednesday when Marriage License Clerk Herbert Stubbendorf issued 38 licenses to wed between 8 in the morning and 5 in the afternoon.

The previous high record for one day was 34.

One man who came from Fremont called Mr. Stubbendorf up at his home yesterday morning and asked him to issue a license to wed. Mr. Stubbendorf came down to the office and wrote the desired paper.

The marriage license output for last Tuesday was 22, also a very high record. This makes 60 licenses for the two days immediately preceding Thanksgiving day.

My Heart and My Husband ADELE GARRISON'S New Phase of "Revelations of a Wife"

The Sound That Broke and Scattered Madge's Fancy.

Mrs. Durkee must have reported to Major Grantland that the roses he had sent me were fading, for in the afternoon following her comment upon our neglect of them a box of fresh blossoms arrived.

I glanced nervously at Lillian when they came in, but her face was non-committal, and she opened the box, handed me the card it contained, and put the roses in vases and bowls with but a single comment:

"Roses, nothing but roses," she said. "They must be the man's favorite flower."

I wondered if it were only my fancy or if there were a suspicion of a sneer in her voice. I began hurriedly to scrutinize the card which had accompanied the flowers.

"I am anxiously awaiting the day when I can express to you in person the sorrow I feel at having caused you such suffering. In the interim please let the roses convey that message to you. 'H. G.'"

I laid the card down upon the coverlet of my bed with a queer fantasy taking possession of me, the conviction that the roses were not only delivering the message he mentioned, but another.

"Lillian," I said a bit sharply, "do you notice a fragrance like wild roses in here?"

She looked at me shrewdly, then sniffed the air critically.

"Your imagination is certainly working overtime," she smiled. "There is no such scent here. I wish there were. The fragrance of wild roses is stimulating, while these things are almost like tuberoses, their odor is so overpowering."

I closed my eyes in unreasoning protest. For the fragrance of wild roses was so real a thing to me that it brought before me a memory I thought I had buried deep, a memory which brought the hot blood to my cheeks as it swept over me.

Again I was walking with Major Grantland at midnight along the pipe line connecting Marvin with the next village, compelled to the bizarre expedition and his escort by the danger with which Grace Draper and her associates had surrounded me. Again the scent of wild roses wet with dew swirled round my senses, and the memory of the romantic emotion which had swayed me upon that night I had ever since wished to forget came back to me with poignant regret.

Not that I had any tangible thing, a caress, even an inadvertent word with which to burden the conscience

NEWSIES GIVEN GREAT TREAT AT WOODROW CAFES

Bee Street Salesmen Entertained By Proprietor "Dick" Hassel.

"The Bee newsies" were given a fine treat at a big Thanksgiving dinner at the Woodrow Cafes, No. 1 and 2, 214-216 South Fourteenth street and 1811 Farnam street. The feast was given to the Bee newsboys by John "Dick" Hassel, proprietor.

There were "eats" aplenty, of turkey, cranberry sauce and everything. All had their stomachs well filled before the proceedings were half over.

"Stop or I won't be able to sell my Bees this evening," exclaimed John Monico, the oldest newsboy in Omaha, who can be found selling Bees at the southwest corner of Sixteenth and Farnam streets. This was the sentiment of all the boys.

Judge J. S. Cooley helped things along by leading the boys from the Bee building to the cafe. Before starting, the judge gave an impressive speech before the boys, telling them that they were working for one of the greatest newspapers in the country and as such it was their duty to be honest in selling.

The boys were in charge of Harry Graecman, chief circulator of The Omaha Bee, assisted by Harry Markel and Paul Tittsworth. Harry Graecman and John "Dick" Hassel that the surest antidote for romantic foolishness had been given me.

Advance of Bolsheviki Continues Near Omsk

London, Nov. 27.—An official statement from the soviet government at Moscow indicates that most severe fighting is in progress on the Volga front, where the bolsheviki have captured Dubovka, 180 miles south-southwest of Saratov, with 800 prisoners.

The statement claims that the bolsheviki have annihilated three regiments of the forces of General Denikine, leader of the anti-bolshevik armies in southwestern Russia.

The advance of the bolsheviki continues rapidly in the Omsk region, where they are approaching the western shores of Lake Cham, capturing Tartarskaya, 100 miles east of Omsk, with 1,500 prisoners. General Denikine's statement admits that the bolshevik offensive in the direction of Astrakhan has caused him to retire considerably.
