

MAYOR ISSUES EDICT ON FUEL CONSERVATION

City Executive Orders Theaters Closed Tomorrow— Urges Citizens to Protect Homes Against Burglars.

Mayor Smith, following a conference with the local coal committee yesterday afternoon, issued a proclamation which embodies most of the orders previously announced by the committee, and also contains the statement, "I do urge every person to be vigilant in protecting their homes and their property against burglars and thieves." The mayor did not wish to comment on his reference to "I do not counsel violence."

The mayor urges utmost conservation of fuel and electric light and power in homes, and other places in order that this energy may be used in the maximum amount for the maintenance of industries.

Orders Theaters Closed.

All motion picture and other theaters and places where meetings are held are ordered closed on and after Monday.

The mayor's proclamation follows:

"To the People of Omaha: The coal situation in Omaha has become very alarming and unless all of us practice the utmost conservation, many industrial plants, employing large numbers of men, will be compelled to close down and many families be without fuel. A very large number of industries where men are employed depend on the Nebraska Power company for power and light. It is of the greatest importance that this industry should have coal sufficient to enable it to furnish this light and power."

"Acting in co-operation with the fuel administrator and under his orders, I urge the observance of the following:

- "First—Let all householders refrain from heating more rooms in their homes than are absolutely necessary and do not heat any of them above 70 degrees.
- "Second—I urge that all retail stores, beginning Monday, December 1, open not earlier than 10 a. m. and close not later than 5 p. m.
- "Third—Let all users of electric light and power conserve to the utmost, and to that end let all display or advertising electric signs be discontinued.
- "Fourth—All movie houses, theaters, lodge rooms and buildings used for meetings or societies to

Prizes Awarded at Rabbit Show Held Here Last Week

The joint rabbit and poultry show at the Auditorium, which closed last night, was pronounced the largest and most successful ever held here. Large crowds viewed the exhibits every night and members of the Omaha Poultry association were highly delighted with the interest displayed. Some of the best birds in the country were on display, according to experts, and the extensive variety of both fowls and rabbits delighted the crowds. The following awards were made to exhibitors by Judge C. S. Gibson:

Warns Against Thieves.

"The city must not be left in darkness. In other cities where they have been compelled to cut off street lights a wave of crime has followed. I do not counsel violence, but I do urge every person to be vigilant in protecting their homes and their properties against burglars and thieves. "I urge the observance of these requests because it is imperative necessary that it be done in order that industries which employ labor may continue to operate and that our homes may be kept warm. "ED P. SMITH, Mayor."

CHIROPRACTIC

THE DRUGLESS ROAD TO HEALTH

An educational series on the modern science of Chiropractic--"When the Human Machine Goes Wrong."

There Is Nothing Mystic About Chiropractic

EVERYONE who understands simple mechanics can understand the broad principles of Chiropractic. The Chiropractor merely applies to the human body the same principles of correct mechanics that the skilled machinist applies to great steel engines which have been scientifically constructed to lighten the toil of man.

When the great steel machine, with its beautifully finished parts, wavers or shows any sign of departing from the precision in operation for which it is designed, the master mechanic is called. He makes his examination, finds the part of the machine that is out of alignment, puts his finger on the cause and proceeds by scientific and well known methods to adjust it.

By the same method of application, the skilled Chiropractor works with the human body. He knows to an absolute certainty that the body is the most perfect of all machines. That when the body is in absolute health every part is in perfect working order. Inversely he knows that when any part of the human body is subjected to pain, swelling or other complication, some cause for the unnatural condition must be found.

The Relation of the Spine to the Body

THE most vital point of all the human body is the spine. So vital is the spine that no part of the body could possibly function in the slightest degree without its aid. The spinal cord is the basis of all locomotion, the conveyor of all thought and action. Leading directly from the spinal cord are the nerves which carry the necessary messages of life to all parts of the body.

These nerves also speak the well understood language of pain, and immediately give notice to the brain when either their length or position are interfered with. The pain which naturally follows this "nerve interference" is simply notice to the brain of the inflammation or distress to the part or organ which the nerve feeds.

The Chiropractor knows that the real cause of the pain or inflammation of the affected part is really caused by a misplacement or misalignment of one or more of the vertebrae of the spinal column. He recognizes instantly, because of his long study of the spine, any subluxation (misalignment) of the vertebrae and he is enabled to put his finger on the cause.

With his only instrument (his skillful dexterous hands) he moves the misplaced vertebrae to its correct position, thus tending to relieve the nerve tension or stress and allowing nature (the only known curative agent) to accomplish its healing tasks.

Thus the scientifically trained Chiropractor, by removing the cause of disease, is enabled to give relief in the most stubborn cases which defy the science of the trained practitioner of knife or medicine.

CHIROPRACTIC, then, is simply the means of giving nature a chance. Nature is the great healer, the good force which keeps every living body well when some mechanical or foreign substance does not interfere with its normal functioning, and which quickly cures the patient when the injurious cause is removed.

Announcement Extraordinary!

Souvenirs of the World War

Commencing Monday, we are showing a wonderful assortment of articles—hand made by soldiers of the Allied and United States Armies while interned as prisoners in foreign lands.

They were purchased by us many months ago through the Red Cross—the money going direct to the prisoners who made the different articles.

These prisoners sorely needed money to augment the miserable pittance allowed them by the enemy governments. To obtain it, the Red Cross guaranteed future delivery of the articles made by the men—it being impossible to ship them to this country at that time.

The showing includes hand-woven rugs and foot warmers in beautiful designs, hand-carved chairs, tables and foot rests, hand-made toys, singly and in sets, and a miscellaneous lot of hand-made articles too numerous to mention.

Delivery has only recently been made to us—and we are now offering them at actual cost.

Each and every article is something that will be prized more and more as time goes on. By reason of the sentiment which attaches, they make the finest kind of a Christmas remembrance imaginable.

In most instances, the name and address of the maker is given. Think what this would mean to that boy of yours in years to come—or the girl, either!

Then, too, it isn't every day that you have an opportunity to make a selection from things of this character.

Make your choice early—as we only have a limited number.

Our absolute guarantee that each souvenir is genuine goes with every purchase!
