Industrial Unrest Not So Prevalent as In America-Saw Largest Market In World.

After a two-months' sojourn in England, visiting his brothers and sisters in Lancanshire, Sam Mort, hog buyer for Morris & Co., re-turned Friday and spent the day at the South Side stock yards greeting old friends.

visiting with relatives in various parts of the British Isles since September 12 and that it was his first visit in 32 years. He said the coal shortage was keenly felt in England and it was a regular thing to spend two weeks at a stretch in a house toasting shins before an open fire place, where inferior fuel was used. Unrest Not Prevalent.

"Industrial unrest in England is not near as prevalent as in the United States," said Mr. Mort. Every able-bodied man over there has buckled down to business and strikes and labor troubles the but few and of short duration. A short strike, of three days, of freight handlers occurred soon after I land-

Most of the cattle and sheep carcesses they had on display came from the Argentine and Australian markets, and the quality of this imported meat would open the eyes of the average stock buyer in any of the American markets. Beef carcasses from Argentine were literally wrapped in fat, many carcasses having a surface layer of tallow three and four inches thick. It was also the same with sheep from Australia.

"They were of prime quality and revealed wide, plump backs, like hose of 300-pound corn-fed hogs. American smoked meats are not in great demand over there, homecured or Irish bacon, seemingly to be preferred. Smoked meats from America appears to be too salty for the average Englishman."

'Although the transportation lines under the control of the Russian government had many drawbacks, hey were at least operated with less friction and more intelligence than the railways serving western live stock interests this season," he said. Toro is a leading farmer of the Moorcroft district and came from Russia 12 years ago, settling there shortly after landing in Nebraska.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—Fairly liberal receipts and a limited demand gave a heavy undertone to the dorn market today and prices were generally lower. There was a pronounced drop shortly after the opening and on rather free seiling. Bearish sentiment predominated in spite of expected transportation difficulties due to weather conditions and the fuel shortage. Opening prices, which ranged from unchanged to half cent lower, with December $1.39½ and May $1.32% £1.33%, were followed by declines. On the dips May touched $1.32.

Later resting orders checked the decline and shorts covering generated sporadic upturns. The close was unsettled, 1½c to 1½c net lower, with December $1.35% and May $1.32½ £1.32%.

Oats followed the course of corn, but within narrower limits. After opening %c lower to ½c higher, with May at 79½ £79%, there were gradual decreases.

Lower live hos prices were reflected in decreased provision values. Opening prices were from 5 to 19 cents lower, pork registering the greatest decline.

Bradstreet's Trade Report.

Bradstreet's Trade Report.

New York, Dec. 5.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

I Reports as to trade distributions and those reflecting industrial conditions as affected by the soft coal strike show even more of a contrast than has been hitherto noted. In the former, buying both at wholesale and retail is still eager, only cheerful reports emanate from most large centers as to early holiday buying, and complaints as yet come mainly from those who have not been able to secure adequate supplies of wanted goods. On the other hand, the industrial situation has retrograded rapidly, the pinch of want of coal has caused many shut-downs, especially in east and west central states and zero weather has caused much suffering to prairie states communities, whose fuel supplies have been reduced or disappeared. Especially acute supply conditions are reported at Chicago, where hundreds of thousands of workers have been cut down in working time or have been rendered idle, and in smaller industrial centers east and west of that city.
