

South Side CAR SHORTAGE DELAYS STOCK READY TO SHIP

Cattle, Hogs and Sheep Fattened in Iowa Will Arrive in January, Says Farmer.

"A lot of cattle, hogs and sheep will be counted in next year's receipts at the local yards that were intended for the December market, due to the car shortage that has hit the farmers of Iowa," said W. W. Latta of Logan, Ia. "Hundreds of Iowa farmers are still waiting for the railroads to furnish them with stock cars."

Iowa Hog Raiser Reports Success During Last Year

J. Campbell of Manning, Ia., was in Omaha Friday with a load of high-bred hogs, which brought the top price of the day on the market, $13.50. According to Mr. Campbell, the past year as a whole has been a good one for hog raisers. He said he received $12,000 for hogs shipped during the year to the Omaha market and declared the past year was one of the best he ever had.

Late Rains Near Bancroft Spoil Rough Cattle Feed

Late rains in the vicinity of Bancroft soaked the roughage feed of cattle and made it sour, according to Henry Waterman, who came in Friday with a load of steers. He said a great many straw stacks were rendered unfit for cattle feed and many farmers were compelled to resort to more expensive feed.

It's a good time to play safe. Your money put in the South Omaha Savings bank is safe and grows. No chance about it. It's mighty comforting to know you have a nice savings account in the only savings bank in Omaha at Twenty-fourth and N streets.
J. A. Jacobson, 1418 O street, complained to the police Christmas morning that the police Christmas dinner had been stolen Christmas eve. He said the back door of his home was broken open and a fat goose, two quarts of cranberries and a quart of milk were removed.

Mike Tierney, fifty-third and W streets, was in police court Friday morning on three charges on complaint of Officer Nissen and Gleason. Tierney was arrested Thursday afternoon at a pool room, Thirtieth and Q streets, where it is said he created a disturbance, threatened to shoot up the place and flourished a revolver.

Ed Longan, 3516 South Twenty-seventh; Alfred Oliver, 2215 South Twenty-seventh; James Sargent, 1785 Missouri avenue, and Kate Erwin, 2907 South Twenty-seventh, about 17 years old, were arrested by Officers Buford and Cleary Christmas morning in a garage, 4719 South Twenty-fourth street. They are being held for investigation.

Orin F. Crocker, 4201 South Twentieth street, a resident of the South Side for several years, and an employe of Swift Co., died Thursday following an operation. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Albert Crocker; five brothers, Herbert of San Bernardino, Cal.; John, George, Samuel and Charles, all of Omaha; and two sisters, Miss Hilda of Omaha and Mrs. Edith Ward of Lincoln.

Eugene Duval, Railroad Man, Wonders What's In a Name

Friends of Eugene Duval, general agent here of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, have been "kidding" him because his name is exactly the same as the name of a Frenchman who was sentenced to 60 days in jail and fined $200 by District Judge Redick last Wednesday when he pleaded guilty to conspiracy to commit larceny.
M. Eugene Duval, the man who confessed to being a swindler, is, of course, not even a relative of Eugene Duval, the railroad official. M. Eugene Duval of the district court record "blew in" here from no one knows where and will doubtless "blow" out again as soon as 60 days have expired.

The charm of a lovely skin may be yours

A clean, healthy skin is usually a lovely skin, but the use of the proper soap is necessary.

Resinol Soap

is specially cleansing, yet it is mild and soothing because it contains the Resinol properties prescribed by physicians for years in the treatment of skin troubles. It gives a rich, refreshing and invigorating lather that you can really feel is cleansing.

RESINOL SOAP is also excellent for the shampoo as it tends to lessen dandruff and make the hair soft and lustrous.

Father Tells Boy's Side of Accident That Injured Man

J. G. McNichols, 3331 Webster street, who was run down Thursday by an automobile driven by J. Warren Best, 421 North Thirty-first street, near Thirty-third and Burt streets, was walking between the car tracks half way between the block when he was struck, according to Frank C. Best, father of the youth who was driving the machine. Mr. Best declared his son, after taking the injured man home, went to central police station and explained the accident. He asserted he was driving south in Thirty-third street and his victim was walking north. He did not see Mr. McNichols until it was too late to avoid striking him, he said.

SMILES BETWEEN YAWNS WHILE SHE AWAITS DIVORCE

But Judge Reserves His Decision in the Short Case.

Mrs. Adelaide Short, fair, demure, petite, chic and perfectly tailored, covered her mouth with a jeweled hand repeatedly as she yawned in court yesterday at the hearing of her divorce suit against Thomas Short.

Between yawns, she smiled cheerily at the judge and her attorney, or smiled derisively at her husband and his attorney.
Her husband happened to mention in the course of his testimony a one-legged man named "Bill" Warren, who, he said, was a bootlegger.

Even the Judge Smiled.
"How could he be a bootlegger when he's only got one leg?" chimed the silvery voice of Mrs. Short right out in open court, followed by a peal of laughter. Even Judge Wakeley could hardly keep a properly judicial look.

Mrs. Short now lives at 207 South Twenty-fourth street, boarding with her mother. Her husband lives at the Rivard hotel.
The Shorts were married April 13, 1918. Mrs. Short filed suit for divorce last July, alleging that her husband had a vicious and ungovernable temper, that he struck her, tore up their marriage certificate and kidnapped their child.

Reserves His Decision.
He answered in a cross-petition that she often left him at home alone with the baby for several hours at a time, that she sought association with other people and that she often told him she would no longer live with him as his wife. He alleged that she surrendered the child to him voluntarily.

District Judge Day heard the case August 20 and took it under advisement, hoping to effect a reconciliation. When answer day came with no answer filed, Mrs. Short went before District Judge Leslie, who granted a divorce. Judge Leslie set the decree aside when he learned that Judge Day had heard the case and had it under advisement.

After hearing the testimony yesterday and two hours of argument, Judge Wakeley reserved his decision in the case.

Salvation Army Makes an Appeal for Left-Over Toys

The Salvation Army, 1711 Davenport street, is making an appeal to Omaha stores to donate left-over toys which they do not want to carry until next year for distribution to poor Omaha children this afternoon at 2. In the Christmas baskets given away by the Salvation Army were cards entitling children in the family to receive gifts of toys. The demand exceeded the supply and, although several stores have already contributed, it is feared enough toys are not on hand to supply all of the children. Between 3,000 and 4,000 children are expected to present cards for gifts.
