RED HEARINGS FARM CONGRESS START IN OMAHA; HEARS TALKS ON RAIL PROBLEMS New Last Sessions Will Be Held At Hotel Castle Today-Marketing to Be Discussed.

Close scrutiny of freight bills and mited efforts toward improvement of transportation facilities were urged by J. W. Shorthill, secretary of the Nebraska Farmers' Co-Operative Grain and Live Stock association of Omaha, speaking yesterday afternoon before the Nebraska Farmers' congress at the Hotel Castle.

"Freight bills of an average farmers' elevator company exceed in a year a sum 10 times the aggregate of all other expenses," said Mr. Shorthill. "Although you farmers should not pursue a program which would prevent the railroad from becoming prosperous enough to give adequate service, vet, as the greatest body of freight shippers in the country, you should closely scrutinize your bills.

Important to Farmer.

"I have never been able to convince myself whether agricultural resources or transportation facilities are more essential to the progress and prosperity of Nebraska. Both are immensely important, but the latter is not given enough attention.

"There is no shipper anywhere in the country who has as much interest in transportation facilities as the ton avenue. farmer, who does not hire an agent to look after his transportation problems. The farmers' organizations of the country should be progressive enough, and liberal enough, to cooperate in placing some one on this iob in a large way."

Responsibility for the present italization of the company to be intransportation systems is too much creased to $1,000,000 at the annual divided at present, according to Mr meeting of the stockholders in the Shorthill. He also condemned the Hotel Castle Monday. The followcentralization of their control at Washington. "Local problems should ing directors were elected: A. W. Gordon, G. H. Conant, Earl Oswald, L. V. Fox, C. E. Heaney, Bert Le Bron, J. T. Bertwell, T. P. Sullivan, D. W. Lennox, J. K. Jones and C. be under the control and super-vision of local authirity," he said.

Predicts Big Improvement. E. Lear. Mr. Shorthill predicted a decided improvement in service with the Motorcycle Rider Injured restoration of the power of the railfoad commissions, following the turning over of the roads on March 1 from the government to the former state agricultural agent from the Omaha Chamber of Commerce were discussed by Thomas F. Sturgess, former editor of the Twentieth Century Farmer, before the Nebraska Farmers' congress at the Hotel Castle yesterday morning.

Mr. Sturgess told the farmers that the plan had often been proposed by members of the Chamber of Commerce as the most feasible way of establishing a closer relationship between that organization and the farmers of the state.

Co-Operate On Issues.

Such an agent, he said, would at tend meetings and community gath-erings to keep in touch with the consensus of opinion among the farmers, particularly in regard to proposed legislation, and thus assure adequate co-operation upon mutually important issues. The majority of Omaha's industries are dependent upon the farmers of the surrounding agricultural territory, Mr. Sturgess said. Most of the largest local industries have been established to provide marketing facilities for farm products, he pointed out.

Gov. S. R. McKelvie addressed the congress yesterday upon the subject of "Americanism" He urged co-operation and closer relationship between farmers and communities as part of a general program of common effort to remedy existing economic evils.

The congress voted unanimously to go on record in testimony of the 100 per cent Americanism of President O. G. Smith of Kearney, Neb., whose patriotism was attacked by recent newspaper articles.

City Planning Board's Work Commended by Real Estate Exchange

First meeting of the Omaha Real Estate exchange this year was held in the Chamber of Commerce yeserday afternoon. I Schuler, new president, in his first speech delared that the work of the city lanning board this year would be of utmost importance to the city and announced a new arrangement or appraisal work, dividing property into four classes, with a separate ontmittee for each class. Each of these committees is to have the same general chairman, standard remedy for kidney, liver, with a vice chairman of its own. Appraisal work will be divided into our classes as follows: downtown susiness property, downtwon trackige, factory and warehouse properly; outlying business, factory and warehouse property and residence; apartment and flat property.

The new appraisal plan and a resolution commending work of the city planning board were both unanimously adopted.
