

BRYAN PREDICTS AGREEMENT ON PACT IN SENATE

Commoner Explains Difference Between Him and Wilson as One of Method And Not of Purpose.

"I bet Thompson and Howard went up to wash and comb their hair," suggested one of their committee. After a wait of 10 minutes Thompson and Howard appeared and the suspense was relieved. Mr. Abbott introduced Mr. Thompson, who in turn introduced Mr. Bryan.

Lacks Old Power.

"I am going to speak on things political because I understand you expect me to speak things political and you won't be disappointed," he began, and proceeded to give one of his characteristic partisan speeches, ridiculing everything identified with the republican party and recommending the democratic medicine as the only panacea for national ills. After the meeting democrats were overheard to remark that it was not the same Bryan of other days; that he fell short of expectations and that in the main his address did not strike a real major note.

Mr. Bryan resorted to his old-time method of illustrating his points with stories which evoked a laugh. He said he felt free to speak to republicans because he could not hurt them and he might do them some good. He referred to President Wilson's first administration as unparalleled.

Expects Ratification

"We had a dinner at Washington the other day and we had all of the men who are candidates on our ticket and some who were not candidates," he said. "The president sent a letter and I made a speech.

"I had a very bad cough for 2 years, all the time, day and night. Could sleep but little, tried everything but got no relief. Finally my doctor said he could do no more for me, that I had better go to Denver as I couldn't live in Illinois. Then I tried Milks Emulsion. From the very first, it helped me. neither knowing what the other had in mind. We were just approaching great issues from different angles. "I believe that the great majority of the American people want the treaty ratified just as soon as possible. Eighty-one of 96 senators wanted the treaty ratified, but they differed as to reservations. I tried to show a way out and I believe we will find a way and I expect that before next Friday morning they will agree and ratify that treaty. I believe the fact that the league will meet on next Friday will be the coercive power. There should be a compromise; we cannot afford to delay this 14 months; the world is in a turmoil."

He veered around again to the republican party by charging that the republicans in congress dilly-dallied.

Must Ratify Treaty.

"We must ratify the treaty or take the responsibility of 14 months' delay, and even in the latter event we must have the three-fourths majority in the senate or rely on the republicans and I don't think that anyone believes there will be a two-thirds democratic majority," he added.

Mr. Bryan stated that unless there can be compromises on both sides and the matter excluded from the coming national campaign, the democrats should allow the republicans to have their way and then the democrats would go before the country. He defended President Wilson in the course he has followed on the grounds that if the president followed any other course he would have been accused of bad faith by the allies. He declared that the treaty must be ratified and that when the democrats submit their plans the republicans dare not go before the people in the campaign.

Cannot Afford to Wait.

"Here is a great opportunity, revolution is threatening, and we cannot afford to wait 14 months to have our ideas tested at the polls," he said.

He expressed the fear that the republicans will charge the democrats with endeavoring to force a majority to yield to a minority on the treaty ratification. He said he would be pleased to get the republican party with its back against the wall and let it do the explaining of the delay in ratifying the treaty. He also said he wanted the treaty ratified without reservations. He intimated that if the democrats could not obtain ratification according to democratic ideas of fairness, then the next best thing to do would be to let the republicans ratify the treaty and then let the democrats go before the people and make amendments later.

Mr. Bryan followed with a reference to profiteering, in which he repeated platitudes about the democratic party being equipped to meet the economic questions of the day and that democrats only can set the profiteering. He offered no specific relief, except the abstract reference to his party. He referred to coal profiteering as a dark blot upon the country. He urged a state trade commission, with local boards where every man charged with profiteering could be investigated.

"We need machinery for the protection of every citizen threatened with a wrong," he said, holding out the hope that if the democrats are given time enough they might establish such machinery.

He defended free speech and flayed the abuse of free speech when used to overthrow the constituted government.

Great Economic Issue.

"Our greatest economic issue now is government ownership on one side and private monopoly on the other," he continued, following that statement by asserting that the railroad interests are working to accomplish one great central line, controlling enormous financial interests. He accused the railroads of organizing for a gigantic attack against the people in their efforts to own their transportation lines. He said he favored a dual system of railroad ownership, the government own the trunk lines, but it was to be a monopoly he favored a government monopoly.

His closing plea for democratic unity, because he insisted that the democratic party is the only party that can speak peace to the troubled waters.

Mr. Bryan left this morning for Des Moines, where he will deliver several addresses.

Woman Found Dead From Asphyxiation; Believed Accidental

Mrs. M. A. Chantry, 53 years old, wife of M. A. Chantry, 2457 Pinkney street, was found dead by her husband shortly after noon yesterday upon his return from Benson, where he had gone earlier in the morning. Death had been caused by asphyxiation. Her death is believed to have been accidental.

She was lying on a bed in an upstairs bedroom and was fully dressed when her husband made the discovery. A gas jet in the room was found to be partially turned on and the rooms in the upstairs part of the house were filled with the escaping fumes.

According to Mr. Chantry the death of his wife was accidental. He knows of no reason why she would have prompted her to have taken her own life. Mrs. Chantry and her husband had been planning on a trip to California and were to start January 25.

SAY RETAILERS NOT TO BLAME FOR HIGH PRICES

Grocers' Secretary and President of Virginia Clothiers Make Statements.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—The grocer is not to blame for the high price of food, according to Frank D. Connolly, secretary of the Retail Grocers' association of San Francisco. Mr. Connolly came here to present to the National Association of Retail Grocers of the United States a plan for forcing down the price of milk to the consumer.

He explained that when milk reached 16 cents a quart in his city the grocers for the most part turned the producers' association to take all the latter's milk, installed a "cash and carry plan and the price is now 12 cents. He proposed that the national association adopt similar methods to distribute other products from the producer to the home, the plan to be extended to the entire country.

At an executive session, sugar prices were compared and a difference of more than 10 cents a pound was found between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. In California cane sugar retails as low as 11 cents a pound with beet sugar 1 cent higher, it was announced.

Retail Clothier Speaks

Chicago, Jan. 12.—The retail clothier is not to blame for the high price of clothes, according to W. F. Kirk, president of the Virginia Clothiers and Furnishers' association, at a preliminary gathering of the National Association of Retail Clothiers here.

"It is a case of supply and demand," he said. "What we need is increased production and stabilized modes and prices. Reduce the number of styles and the manufacturers will produce more garments."

"Why are you making this announcement on the very day that W. J. Bryan appears in Omaha to make the opening address of his western tour?" was asked.

MAKE PROGRESS IN COMPROMISE ON PEACE PACT

Democratic Leaders and "Mild Reservation" Republicans Optimistic of Result.

Washington, Jan. 12.—Further progress toward compromising the senate peace treaty controversy was reported tonight by democratic leaders and "mild reservation" republicans favoring the Lodge reservations and those opposing the treaty, declared they could see no indication of early action.

Senate lobbies and private offices seethed again today with conference activity being principally by the democrats. Among "sounding out" developments was further exchange of views between "mild reservation" republicans and Senators Kendrick, Wyoming, and McKellar, Tennessee, democrats, on reservations suggested by the two democrats.

"Mild" republicans expressed confidence that the Kendrick-McKellar drafts would form the basis for a definite presentation from the democratic side later with general democratic support.

Must Get Wilson's Approval.

The democrats must secure President Wilson's approval of any compromise suggestions, republican spokesmen said, before substantial progress can be made. Some of the democratic senators said they hoped negotiations would reach a stage soon where conferences between the president and democratic senators on some definite proposals affecting the reservations would be in order.

Telegrams from William J. Bryan urging ratification by Friday, when the inaugural meeting of the league of nations council is to be held, reached several senators today.

Some democrats said they believed it might be possible to dispose of the treaty then, but republicans held such action improbable.

Fox Says Conviction Secured from Jury By Inflammatory Speech

A motion filed yesterday in district court for a new trial for Stanley Fox, convicted last week of criminal assault, charges that Chief Deputy County Attorney Coffey made an "inflammatory" speech to the jury. Mr. Coffey in addressing the jury told the 12 men that "if you acquit this man you acknowledge to your wives and daughters that you approve of assault by men upon defenseless women."

Fox is one of the four young men charged with taking two girls in an automobile the night of September 13, 1919 to a lonely road west of the city and there criminally assaulting them.

The motion also claims that Fox should have had the privilege of picking a jury from the entire jury panel instead of only from that part left after many jurymen had been sent to cases in other court rooms.

This procedure would permit the trial of only one criminal case at a time in district court.
