Surprise Sandwiches. Did you ever bite through two thin slices of buttered brown bread and find a crisp, cool, well-seasoned slice of cucumber or tomato concealed between them?

This is the pleasantest kind of surprise and served with a tomato misque or with the fish course it will quite throw the main dish into the shade. The cucumbers should, of course, be kept in cold, salt water until shortly before the sandwiches are to be eaten.

The bread may be spread with mayonnaise but the sandwich is even more delicious if the cucumbers are merely dipped into a well-seasoned French dressing, in which the oil plays even a larger part than usual.

Heart Beats

Morpheus— You dreadful old coward— Vile and full Of deceit— Why don't you fight In the open— Why take advantage Of Sleep. When Somnus Wraps me in slumbers To relax My world-weary brain— You slip in with tricks O, so dreadful! To show that you're God of my dreams. But you've never been square By half With me— You've torn my wild heart With jealousy— Mattered my senses Conspired against me— Thrown me from heights Into bottomless pits— I fall and fall But never alight. In a hall room Of brilliance and splendor Where everyone's cultured And gay— I discovered a tramp Was my escort— Clumsy in evening attire. Out in the jungles you've led me With ferocious beasts At my heels— I ran But never reached safety I struggled without a gain. I've seen all that I love In Life Leave me— My lot was the bitterest gall— I have frenziedly joined The bandits—the thieves— And was hunted— Tormented by all. I have shouted for help When in danger— Grief in vain For my voice was still— Insanely I've shot At my rival— But never a shot has killed. Long days I have walked In blindness— Prayed to Heaven To open my eyes— But I never heard— No Divinity helped— No power would lift the veil. Somnus is a fair false Goddess Whose smile is offensive to me— And old Morpheus is surely No God of Dreams— He must be the Devil Of Night. If Sleep is anything Akin to Death— O Powers that be Grant me this— Strength to eliminate Treacherous sleep— And give me O Maker! Perpetual Life.

Campaign to Open Saturday for a $4,000,000 Fund

Omaha, Jan. 14.—That women are rapidly gaining a prominent position in American political life and that Smith college at Northampton, Mass., has been a large factor in training women to take up this kind of work, was the declaration here today of Mrs. W. S. Curtis. If this college, she said, were the Nebraska Montana district in the $4,000,000 fund campaign to open January 17 for the Northampton institution.

Mrs. Curtis' statement follows: "Our women are just getting started on the road to political success. They have come when they were as numerous as their brethren in public births. This has to be. Woman is not a fly-by-night butterfly. She is no longer an office decoration or only a kitchen mechanic. She is more versatile than the opposite sex. She is capable of being at the same time a good sister, a strong mother, a home-builder and a business head.

"We need more of this kind of women. Smith college is supplying numbers of them and nine out of 10 become wives and mothers. These are the women who are able to take their places beside the men in our national family life and by pooling their mutual resources to produce results that are really extraordinary.

"Our college women do not seek to supplant men in public life. They seek to do their share, although many of them are far more capable executives than they are helpers. Smith college needs money to carry on the work it has so well begun in educating thousands of our young women for a more useful life. We cannot go ahead as a nation unless we realize that our young women need the best that can be offered them for their mental and physical welfare."

Smart Sport Costume For Miss 1920.

Fashions

Until recently there has been a noticeable slump in the silk markets. So bad has the situation become that many department stores had partly discontinued their silk service. During the past year, however, silk has come back into its own and now adorns many of the spring and summer costumes designed by fashionable modistes. Here is shown a very smart sport costume of 1920, Fan-Ta-Si. The lovely shade of turquoise blue in the sport has matches the deep coloring of the skirt. The handbag is also fashionable.

Des Moines Enthuses Over Biennial Meet of Federation

Omaha women have been asking what was accomplished at the general federation board meeting held in Omaha last week. The answer is that plans were made for the "Golden Prairie" biennial to be held in Des Moines next June, and progress gained toward some reorganization of machinery in the federation. A more complete answer is found in an article printed several days ago in the Des Moines Register, which says in part:

Des Moines, the chosen biennial city of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, is the rendezvous of this week-end of club women of state and national prominence, the incentive being the visit of Mrs. Littleberry J. Haley of Birmingham, director from Alabama and chairman of the Golden Prairie biennial program committee.

The coming of Mrs. Haley to Des Moines following the midwinter conference of the national federation officers, directors and department chairmen in Omaha, divulged to the club women some of the definite facts concerning the program in which thousands of club women, who will come to Des Moines next June, will be vitally interested.

"Americanism will be the keynote of the convention," said Mrs. Haley, who has devoted two years in the preparation of the program for next June. Its purpose will be to promulgate and inculcate those principles of Americanism which won for America world leadership, to instill that part America shall take in the reconstruction plans which the war has made necessary to be done all over the world.

"That means physical, political and spiritual reconstruction," stated Mrs. Haley. "These three special activities will be worked out by the federation through all the 11 departments of the federation which will concentrate on thrift, which is an individual matter; on community service, which is group matter, and Americanization, which is national in scope."

The greatest mass meeting of the convention, said Mrs. Haley, will be held on Sunday afternoon, June 20, and will be the largest of the session, since men and women alike attend this meeting. This will be devotional in character and also in summer costumes designed by fashionable modistes. Here is shown a very smart sport costume of 1920, Fan-Ta-Si. The lovely shade of turquoise blue in the sport has matches the deep coloring of the skirt. The handbag is also fashionable.

Dr. Lynn Harold Hough, president of the Northwestern university, will be the speaker on this occasion, his topic being "The Spirit of America," continued Mrs. Haley. "It is an interesting fact to note in connection with the speaker that he was sent by the United States government to England during the war period to interpret to England the war spirit of America. In this capacity he so pleased the English that he was called to occupy the City of London in 1919, the largest church in the world, during the entire month of August.

"Another speaker of national importance before the convention," said Mrs. Haley, "will be Dr. Marian Burton, at present president of the University of Minnesota, but who will soon go to the University of Michigan to be its head.

Another great feature of the convention will be the presence of the general federation overseas unit, that unit financed by the organization and which to the boys over there meant America. The girls, together with their great leader, Mrs. Blade, national Y. W. C. A. worker, will be present to bring inspiration also to the convention.

"This Des Moines biennial means more to me than any other biennial," Mrs. Haley continued. "Today for the first time I have felt really happy about it, before it has been a solemn affair because of the responsibility, but as I look into your faces I want more than ever to work with you and for you. From now on you will not have a single free moment in preparing for the biennial which a prominent government official has said, 'Such a convention will be of incalculable benefit to the government,' and the result will be so far reaching that it will make of the Des Moines biennial a real letter year in the history of the general federation."

The women of Greece in the third century were not allowed to wear silk. The husbands of those who violated this law were heavily fined, on the theory that a husband ought to be able to control his wife's taste for finery.

Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: Kindly tell me what your suggestion would be for a girl that's to be married in June? Have no relatives, so will be married at a parsonage and leave immediately after on a trip west. What would be a practical and yet inexpensive traveling outfit? Thanking you kindly.

You will probably wish to be married in your traveling suit, since the wedding is to be at the parsonage, and you leave immediately for a trip. I believe you will find a dark blue or a tan shade good selections for color. A dark blue suit always looks trim and neat, but shows the soil of travel much more quickly than a dark tan. A certain shade of tan, bordering on "fawn," does not spot or show dust easily and yet may look like a light suit. Such a shade, with brown oxfords and hat, would make a good looking outfit for travel. A blouse of lighter shade—just as pretty as you can afford—would complete the costume. Wear a corsage during the ceremony. Two extra blouses ought to be included in your wardrobe and at least one dress which can be doctored for dinner at hotels where you stop. If your dress is in tan or brown, your brown silk petticoat, hose and shoes will match nicely.

Nerve, Not Advice. Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I am a young man, 20 years of age, and would be glad to have you give me a bit of advice. If a young man wishes to take a young lady out for an auto ride in what manner should he dress? Also if he wishes to take her home from a place of amusement? After he has taken her home how and in what words should he express the appreciation of her company? Thanking you in advance and hoping to see this letter in print, I remain, G. L. M.

You need a little nerve, not advice. The way to ask a young lady to go auto riding is to ask her—preferably in good English. If you wish to invite her to an entertainment, ask her several days or more in advance. "Do you care to go for an auto ride with me?" or any similar direct question. In leaving her, it is polite to say you have enjoyed the evening—if you have—and say you would like to call again—if you do. Etiquette says a young lady should first ask a young man to call. After that, he may invite her to date with him. If you care enough for a girl to take her home from a dance, why don't you do the really complimentary thing and ask to take her both ways?

Matrimonially Inclined. Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: You always give such excellent advice that I also am coming to you for advice. I am a widow, 46 years old, and my children are grown and they want to get away from home and do for themselves. I feel that in a very short time I shall be left alone. I have been living on a ranch for the last six years and have worked hard to provide for myself and children, and I now feel that I would like to quit the farm and settle down in a good home and take life a little easier. I have been robbed of all church privileges and other social advantages that I was accustomed to before I came west and I miss these very much. I have a good education and a fair musical education. I would be glad to correspond with you, if you will publish this in your column it might be that some good honest man who is lonely even as I am, who has a good home, and would like a good woman for a companion, to share it with him, sees this. I shall be glad to furnish Miss Fairfax with my name and address. I prefer a man between the ages of 50 and 65. HARRIETTE B.

No doubt there are many men who would be glad to correspond with you, however, is not a matrimonial bureau.

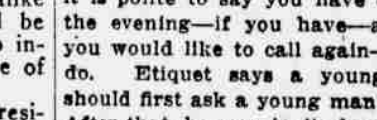

Information. Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: Are these nose braces advertised in magazine a fake? If not, would they tend to straighten a pug nose? About how much do they cost? What may one do for pimples and blackheads and to stimulate the growth of eyelashes? Thanking you very much for your advice, CLARICE AND EBYL.

I know very little about nose braces except that they have been beneficial in straightening noses. Answer one of the advertisements and find out for yourself. Diet for pimples. Eliminate meat, fats and sweets from your food. Your blood is probably too rich or you are having indigestion. A good eye salve will stimulate the growth of eyelashes.

Blue Eyes—We hope you did not accept furs from the young man on Christmas. You would be selling yourself and discrediting your sex to "cash in" his sincere regard for you in such a way.

Worried Blonde—No doubt you have received a letter from the young man before now. If not, our advice is to forget about it, your mate who does not care enough for you to keep his word.

DAD! YOUR HAIR IS FALLING FAST "Danderine" will check that ugly dandruff and stop hair coming out.

To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a small bottle of "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter for a few cents, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After several applications the hair usually stops coming out and you can't find any coming out. Soon every hair on your scalp shows new life, vigor, brightness, thickness and more color.

CHILLS, COLDS, FEVERISHNESS Black-Draught Is Used by Virginia Lady for Colds, Fever and Other Troubles With Fine Results.

Rocky Mount, Va.—Miss M. M. Chitwood, of this place, recently stated: "I have used Black-Draught for colds and stomach trouble and certainly have found it very satisfactory."

When I would feel bad and feverish, as though I was taking a fresh cold, I would make a good cup of Black-Draught tea and it would soon set me all right. I can recommend it as a splendid laxative and gladly do so. You may publish my statement."

When you feel chilly, tired, feverish, headachy and fear that you are taking cold, take a good dose of the old, reliable, liver medicine you have heard so much about—Thedford's Black-Draught. It is made from purely vegetable ingredients, acts in a gentle, natural way, and by helping to drive out poisonous waste matter from your system, it will often, if taken in time, prevent a chill from developing into a cold.

Thousands of people, during the past 70 years, have found Black-Draught of benefit in such cases.

Try it, the next time you chill or sneeze.
