Sometimes I wonder why We're taught That smoothness And serenity are goals To be desired. We pray and strive For strength to rise Above the pangs of sorrow— When strength comes But from exercise. We chant that Fate Is only good When saving us Its turbulence.

A spinning oak Once knew but life Of moving gently To and fro Upon a soft mild breeze. Then— Kabanooka in a rage Came tearing down The forest fine And swept the lazy oak From out her indolence. And in the struggle Wabun tore the leaves From off the branches weak— Bruised the bark And swore.

That he would rule Or ruin all in sight. The slender oak determined— That the wicked wind Should lose. As her branches Dipped and swayed— And she drank in New wonders Of the earth— Each attack Made her the stronger— Every battle brought New visions— And she noted

What a great world She was meeting— As she strained and moaned Her branches And her leaves And bark grew firmer— Splendidly her Roots went deeper With the struggle— Bark and sap Came to aid her

In the battles With the winds. 'Twas the heart of her Grew stronger With new courage— It had found her— Defiant— Undefeated— In the midst of raging life. Now she stands A giant oak tree— Strong and grand— A mighty mother Who has lived and laughed And suffered— Knows good and bad— And understands.

Do you think she is trying to make a fool of me or means I am too slow. Please give me your opinion of her and tell me whether I should still keep her company or stop.

I am of the opinion that she is the fool or very ignorant.

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Is She a Good Girl? Dear Miss Fairfax: I have a sweet girl friend, but my mother objects to her, simply because she takes so many presents from the boys. She is wearing a small diamond ring one boy gave her and to whom some people say she is engaged—and she wears a watch another boy gave her—and a necklace still another boy gave her—besides pins and other knick-knacks various other boys have given her.

Now, mother says, nice girls do not receive presents like those from boy friends. Now, I know she is a nice, pure girl, but I can not convince my mother so. Mother says the girl can not be straight, or if she is, her parents must be ignorant, uneducated people for they are placing their daughter in a position that will call forth lots of criticism in a vulgar way.

Now, Miss Fairfax, is it wrong for nice girls to receive presents like that? Also should a refined girl address her father and mother as 'Paw' and 'Maw'. Is not father and mother, or Pa and Ma, much better? Thanking you in advance, SLEEPY.

Your parents, perhaps, are bear judges of the girl friend than I could be, knowing nothing about her except what little you tell in your letter. It is not necessarily the bad girl who accepts valuable gifts from men, but certainly unconventional. It shows a lack of breeding. Yes the girl could be straight, and still accept these presents, but she compromises herself with many mothers, no doubt, just as she has with yours.

She Needs Work.

Every one seems to read your columns so thought I would see what could be done for me. I am a middle-aged lady. I want work in an institute or rooming house where good wages are paid for a good honest lady. I have a boy 12 years old that I want to keep with me. It seems so unfair that a woman that was lawfully married, must struggle so hard to make both ends meet, when the father's money goes to other women. I have been doing for myself and child six years, and in those six years, this is my fourth job, and have not missed one week's work, only as a vacation.

ONE WHO NEEDS A JOB.

I am sure there are many places for you, but since you do not give your name and address, I can do nothing for you.

She Is the Fool.

Miss Beatrice Fairfax: I, a young man, am a little undecided as to what I should do and so, following the example of many others, am coming to you for advice. A girl who I have known about two weeks and taken her out about four times, sent me a letter a few days ago which contained this:

Two elms of love. Four lips well pressed. One narrow bench. Four Loving Cups Awarded to Women of Press Club at Annual Dinner.

Brilliant speeches, snappy "stunts" and a bountiful banquet were served to the Omaha Woman's Press club and guests at its annual dinner Thursday evening in the private grill room of Hotel Loyal. Tables were tastefully decorated with ferns and golden cornucopias. Henrietta Rees, retiring president, was mistress of ceremonies. Sixty guests were present.

Silver loving cups engraved with the name of the club, class of manuscript and date, were presented to winners in the literary contest, Adelaide Kennerly, committee chairman. Margaret McShane was given the prize for fiction and Mrs. Henry Dooley received honorable mention. Mrs. Dooley was also awarded first place for dramatics. Henrietta Rees carried off honors for poetry with Leola Price Edwards accorded honorable mention. Myrtle Mason received the loving cup for miscellaneous class and Hester Bronson Copper, honorable mention.

Belle Dewey, president-elect, was presented to the club and made a short talk. Mrs. E. M. Syfert and William Tanquary, two of the three judges in the contest, spoke to club members on the value of such a drill, referring especially to the excellence of diction and craftsmanship, and the professional quality of manuscripts submitted. Neal Jones, the third judge, was unable to be present.

Colonel T. W. McCullough, A. R. Groh and Houston R. Harper, were among the guests who spoke. Conspirators in the clever surprise stunts were Misses Grace and Blanche Sorensen, Lida Wilson and Hester Copper. Joseph Barton sang several numbers, accompanied by Mrs. Waggoner.

Milton on Learning.

The end, then, of learning is to know God aright, and out of that knowledge to love Him, to imitate Him, to be like Him, as we may the nearest by possessing our souls of true virtue, which, being united to the heavenly grace of faith, makes up the highest perfection.—Milton.
