PROTEST MADE ON GRADING OF ST. MARY'S AVE.

City Council Committee On the Whole Hears Complaints Made by Property Owners.

Proposed grading of St. Marys avenue, Seventeenth to Twentyfifth street, and Howard street west of Twentieth street, brought protesting property owners before the city council committee of the whole

Among the principal objectors were F. H. Davis and Mrs. F. H. Cole, representing Clarkson hospital. Plans for this grading projejct show a cut of 11 feet in front of the hospital. A cut of five feet would be made at Howard and Twenty-second streets. The protests were all against the grading of Howard street, which is necessary in connection with the St. Marys avenue grading.

This is one of the projects worked out last year by the city planning commission and the city engineering department. Engineers contend that this improvement will benefit the adjacent property as well as the entire city, and they further insist that it is necessary for the proper development of Omaha.

The city council will hear arguments on both sides before taking final action. Similar protests were heard before

VINTON SCHOOL DEPOPULATED BY MILD INFLUENZA

Health Commissioner, After Inspection, Says the Situation Not Dangerous.

Eighty-five children of the lower grades of Vinton school, Twentyfirst street and Boulevard avenue. were absent yesterday on account of the prevalence of a disease which F. Edwards, health commissioner, believes may be a mild torm

Coughing and sore throat were symptoms affecting one-sixth of the enrollment of the school, but only in the lower grades.

The health commissioner directed Dr. Allyn Moser, assistant, to make a thorough examination and to have bacteriological tests made of cultures. A school nurse will remain in this school district until the situa- of employers and employes toward one foundation. The union is the tion has been checked.

Not only public and business and eligious bodies are awakening, but labor groups as well. Labor is learning that it has public as well as special interests, that to a large extent it is the public. I heard a speech at the convention of the Labor party at Chicago in November by Glenn E. Plumb, whose name is connected with a new plan, the Plumb plan, for railroad control, He set forth the new situation in a way which seemed to startle some of the labor leaders there assembled. He said that in the early days of organized labor craft groups could get together, and by organization force up wages, the cost of which the employers promptly passed along to the public. But what is the public? asked Mr. Plumb, and went on to show that a large majority of the public was made up of wage earners or wage earners' families, so that when a strong with all expenses paid by the gova kind of berserkian rage-not at unio got a raise in wages most of it all particular as to what heads he was paid by other wage earners. On what may be called the side of the capitalists the awakening is marked. The other day in the office of one of the notable figures of Wall Street—where one would least expect to find such a sentiment—I saw framed and hanging on the wall this quotation from a speech by Mr. Asquith, delivered in January of last year:
