Enjoy Life

People who live in the rush and hurry of cities sometimes find it a puzzle to know just what it is that causes others to give up a happy life out of doors for the crowded subways, the throngs on the street and in the stores. Two factory girls who went to St. Paul from their country homes in- Minnesota ex pressed just what the difference was when they said: "We like the shows, things to do and places to go to."

And the Young Women's Christian association used this statement to build up just the kind of program that would most appeal to girls who live in the country or in

Plays and pageants are coming to take their place in the sun. There are few girls who don't like an important part in a play and fewer still who can resist the fun of planning costumes, scenery and all the little details which go to help in the production of a drama to be seen by their parents and their friends. In one county in Iowa there is a club of 25 girls bubbling with life and energy. If there is anything that these girls like to do that very thing is done some time during the club year. At their meetings they play games, have discussions on girls' problems, talks and nature study. Then they have picnics and ice cream socials, and last summer gave one delightful lawn party, to which the boys came. Out in Montana in two little mining towns near the Rockies there are about 30 of the most enthusiastic club girls. In the summer they take long, wonderful hikes up some favorite mountain path, and each and every girl spends at least one week at Camp Rotary, tucked away in the most delightful spot in the Little Belt mountains. Swimming, fishing, nature study, with many, many other details, fill every day full to overflowing. These girls start each day with a clean-up and formal military inspection of each cabin. The chilly evenings spent about the fireplace, with stories, victrola music, dancing and popping corn, gave ust the right final touch to each happy day. In one state there is a busy, busy general secretary, who in her Ford travels about her county and keeps 30 live-wire, up-to-the-minute clubs Nothinge ould be more charming going at full speed every minute. Each of these 20 clubs has from 10 to 20 members. Their activities are of metallic brocaded satin. He knows how to "handle" a girl and treat her with respect. I am in no doubt as to his love, as I've asked other girls how he treats them; they say he is bashful and hardly touches their arms when helping up and down steps, but all of a sudden one evening he threw his arms around me and pressed me to his bosom and laid my head on his shoulders in an embrace. He has never kissed me, but has asked me to do so, but I saw you said "kissing is harmful" and have not allowed him to do it. This incident has been a revelation to me, Miss Fairfax. come bashfulness and shyness? At school—I attend high school—there are a fine lot of boys. In the assembly room I often see them looking at me, some of them smile and even wink. I feel very embarrassed and don't now how to act. Sometimes I smile back and sometimes I haven't got nerve enough to do that. Last Sunday evening one boy called up and asked for a date. I didn't now what to say; I stood at the phone a long time, then finally heard him hang up. The people I live with—they are not my real parents—will not even let me write to my mother. She lives a long rear to my mother. She lives a long way from here. It makes them provoked if I even speak to a boy, say hello when I pass, if any of them are with me. They even read the notes I receive from my girl friends when they can find them. I am not allowed to go out after dusk with any of the girls unless some of them Wayne Selby at her home Monday afternoon, when she entertained at bridge for them. Two tables were set for the game.

Having heard of Cardui, I thought I'd try it . . . I commenced to get better with my first bottle.
