

CONCOCTS DRINK WITH DENATURED ALCOHOL, CHARGE

Man Arrested in Grand Island Accused of Selling Poison as Beverage—Peculiar Wine Sickness Omahan.

Erbie Tuttle, who was arrested in Grand Island, Neb., by W. H. Wilson, internal revenue agent, and charged with selling denatured alcohol as a beverage, will be arraigned here within the next few days before the United States commissioner, Frank A. Peterson, assistant federal district attorney, declared yesterday.

Mr. Wilson, who apprehended the man after he had disposed of about two gallons of the stuff, he asserted, refused to reveal the names of the persons to whom Tuttle is alleged to have sold, for the reason, he said, he promised the victims not to make known their identity upon their agreement to assist in the prosecution.

Offered to Drink Sample. Mr. Wilson declared he first heard of the affair through a physician who attended one of the persons who drank the concoction, which is said to be composed of wood alcohol and water. The victim's eyes almost immediately were affected, it was said, and for a time it was feared he would lose his sight. The patient was compelled to walk the streets all night to avoid death.

Tuttle is alleged to have purchased four gallons of denatured alcohol from a Grand Island druggist, who is said to have identified the man to whom he sold as Tuttle. According to Mr. Wilson, the man had two gallons of the liquor in his room at the time of his arrest. Tuttle is said to have paid $1.50 a gallon for the stuff.

Just Yellow Mustard for Backache, Lumbago

Grandmother's old musky mustard plaster or poultice generally brought relief right away in the severest cases, but it burned and blistered like blazes.

Heat eases pain, reduces the inflammation and scatters congestion but you'll find that while E. G. Y's Mustard, made of true yellow mustard and other destroyers is just as hot as the old-fashioned plaster it is much quicker, cleaner and more effective and cannot blister.

It's a great external remedy—just rub it on wherever aches, pains, inflammation, congestion or swelling exists and in a very few minutes the relief you have longed for surely arrives because "Heat eases pain."

Cousins Leave for Colorado To Secure Marriage License

Expecting to be allowed to wed in Colorado, Frances Valenti and her common law husband, Sebastiano Anzalone, left yesterday for Denver with a special dispensation from Archbishop Harty to sanction their marriage in the eyes of the Catholic church. Frances, who is only 14 years old, had been living with Sebastiano, who is 24. They were in juvenile court last Saturday and the girl was sent to the detention home. Besides the youth of the girl, the fact that they are first cousins is a bar to marriage in this state.

Nebraska Woman's Envious Record In Library War Work

From Tedious Duties Along Mexican Border, Harriet Long of Madison was Sent to A. E. F. University At Beaune, France—Later In Charge of Occupied Area In Germany.

New York, Jan. 20.—(Special.)—A Nebraska woman, Miss Harriet Long, now at her home in Madison, Neb., is declared by the American Library association to have made a remarkable record in the library war work for the army. Miss Long, who recently returned to America after almost a year of overseas service, served in several widely separated fields and achieved distinction in each.

After a period of arduous service on the Mexican border, she was sent overseas by the American Library association to become assistant librarian at the "Doughboy university" run for the A. E. F. men at Beaune, France. Last June, when demobilization resulted in the closing of the university, she was sent to Coblenz. There she was at first assistant and later librarian in charge of the Coblenz library, the headquarters for the service of the American Library association to the entire occupied area.

On the Mexican Border. Early in 1918, Miss Long left her work as librarian of the Brumback library, Van Wert, O., to enter the library war service. Her first assignment was on the Mexican border, organizing a library system to satisfy the reading demands of the federal troops engaged in the border patrol. She established headquarters at San Antonio. About the time Foch was planning the great offensive that materialized in mid-summer, 1918, Miss Long was touring the military posts of the Brownsville district along the Rio Grande, trying with the aid of books to ease the lot of regular army soldiers unfortunate enough to be sent to the border when there was a real tight overseas.

Little was heard of Mexican border troubles during the war, and the sad lot of these soldiers, marooned at hot, sandy outposts has almost escaped note. On her first trip up the Rio Grande, through desert country, Miss Long found some members of the army detail at Point Isabel, a "jumping-off place" who had been there for two years without reading matter or recreation.

900 Readers At All Hours. Miss Long won the support of Colonel Slocum, commanding Fort Brown, the headquarters of the Brownsville district, and with his helpful co-operation managed to get books to every post in the district. Her work effectively removed the condition which had led troops during the Mexican border trouble of 1916 to follow railroad tracks in the hope of finding reading matter dropped from passing trains. Overseas at Beaune university, Miss Long came into intimate acquaintance with the unique and thoroughly American educational experiment. Here the soldiers on leave from their outfit studied business and technical courses, law, medicine, music, engineering, letters and many other subjects. The library, comprising 30,000 volumes, was in charge of L. L. Dickerson, librarian of Grinnell college, Iowa. Without the library, the university could not have undertaken its task. In it could be found 900 readers and students at practically any time during the day from 8 in the morning until 9 in the evening. Miss Long's work here was so valuable that when demobilization closed the university and the occupied area of Germany became the chief zone of

STATE MILLERS ENDORSE HOOVER FOR PRESIDENT

Nebraska Association Opposes Repeal of Mixed Flour Law—Joeggi Elected President.

Members of the Nebraska Millers' association passed a resolution endorsing Herbert Hoover, should he become a candidate for the presidency, at their annual meeting at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

In another resolution the association opposed the "state monopoly on casualty insurance," and appointed a committee of three to meet with the industrial relations committee at Lincoln to state their reasons for opposing it.

Oppose Flour Law Repeal. Continuation of weekly reports to millers, instituted by big Omaha grain corporations, was asked. The association opposed the repeal of the mixed flour law.

Paul Jaeggi of Columbus, Neb., was elected president of the association for the coming year; J. N. McCarty, vice president, and W. H. Yoke treasurer. J. N. Campbell was re-elected secretary.

Charles T. Neal, second vice president of the United States Grain corporation, reviewed the history of the grain corporation, and quoted statistics to show that wheat exports during 1919 were larger than during any previous year. There should have been plenty left in this country, however, and any difficulty in securing wheat here resulted from a shortage of cars for its transportation, and not a shortage of supply, he declared.

The morning session of the association was devoted to the appointment of committees on resolutions and nominations, and the report of the secretary, J. N. Campbell of Omaha.

Association Growing. Mr. Campbell in his report called attention to the growth of the millers' association, stating that members now produced 75 per cent of the flour milled in the state. He mentioned the sale of "soft wheat straight" flour at $1.60 for one-eighth of a barrel by the United States Grain corporation, but asserted that so far the sale of this grade of flour has had little effect on the miller's business in Nebraska.

soft wheat is entirely different than that made from hard wheat flour," he said. "The public is not used to the cheaper grade and it will not sell in large quantities. We must charge $2 for an eighth barrel of the hard wheat flour, but most people are willing to pay it. We do not anticipate much competition from the United States Grain corporation."

The members of the association were guests of the Bemis Bag company at a luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce at noon.
