

FEDERAL AGENTS CANNOT "SIT IN" TO GET EVIDENCE

Judge Presiding at Newberry Trial Makes New Rules After Counsel's Objections.

Frank Davis, Mich. Feb. 2.—An outline of what the government expects to prove against Thomas H. Newberry, United States senator, and his associates, charged with conspiracy in connection with the 1918 senatorial campaign, was started in federal court today by Frank D. Dailey, special assistant attorney general. When adjournment time came he was about twenty minutes through his prepared outline. When he finishes tomorrow James O. Martin, personal counsel for Senator Newberry, will reply on behalf of the defense.

Martin W. Bartlett of counsel for the defense interrupted Mr. Dailey a few times with objections and at the close of the session asked the court to order government agents to cease sitting among the defendants and listening to their whispered conversations.

Federal Judge Sessions announced that hereafter the front seats would be reserved for defendants and others would have to find places over the men on trial and selected seats. He would not issue a formal order against the presence of the secret service men.

Throughout the address Mr. Dailey stressed the view which the government takes as to the right of the law-making committee to investigate the activities of its members. He said Milton Okun was fired as manager of the Detroit campaign "at an enormous and staggering salary amounting to thousands of dollars."

"The evidence will show," he stated, "that this organization spent more money, an average of very 48 hours than the laws of the United States permit for an entire campaign."

The prosecutor used a big map of Michigan to illustrate the way in which the state was "parceled out among the field agents."

CENSUS RECOUNT IF FIGURES FALL BELOW 200,000

Chamber of Commerce Certain Population of Omaha Is Up to Estimates.

If Omaha's population does not reach 200,000 when the count has been completed by John H. Hopkins, director of federal census, the city will ask for a recount, it was announced yesterday by Harvey Miliken, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce bureau of publicity.

Mr. Hopkins said yesterday that he favored a recount in case Omaha should not reach the 200,000 mark. The population will go over the 100,000 mark during the present count and it is possible that it will reach 200,000, he said.

JURORS ADMIT PREJUDICES IN RIOT HEARING

Difficulty Experienced Getting Men to Try Reporter J. Harry Moore on Arson Charge.

Extraordinary difficulty in getting unprejudiced jurors to try J. Harry Moore on the charge of conspiracy to commit arson was met yesterday when 15 men out of 27 men examined were excused for cause, many of them declaring outspokenly that they either thought the burning of the court house justified or else that their sympathies or opinions in the case were already fixed.

Favored Use of Fire Next case Ralph Tuttle, 3727 R street, who remarked "If they were going to get the nigger by burning the court house, let 'em burn it; that's my idea."

Twelve men were called to the jury box, and when the court decided again in favor of the county attorney, who objected to the qualifications of one of the jurors, attorneys for the defense insisted that a court reporter be called in order that excursions might be put into the record.
