

TRANSIENT ALIENS NOT WANTED HERE MARSHALL SAYS

Would Refuse Entrance to Immigrants Not Intending to Make Permanent Homes in U. S.

New York, Feb. 21.—Aliens who come to America "not intending to make permanent homes, but expecting to be here for a few days only," Vice President Thomas R. Marshall declared here in an address at a dinner given by the Sulgrave institution in celebration of the tercentenary of the Pilgrim Fathers.

These Pilgrims were English-speaking people," he continued, "and from their forgotten graves they ought never to stretch forth their hands and plead for the privilege of being loved for its opportunities alone," but should "be loved for its institutions as well."

One of the lessons of the Pilgrim Fathers that should be "stamped upon the heart of every liberty-loving American," said Mr. Marshall, "is that they came to Plymouth to worship God, and not to worship man."

"In these troublous times, when freedom of speech is being used for the purpose of forcibly undermining the government of the United States, it is well to remember that the government of the fathers is unit to survive if it is powerless to prevent unlawful assaults upon its authority. Eulogizing the Pilgrim Fathers for their great accomplishments, Vice President Marshall said:

"The Pilgrims are the life of the republic like the very air we breathe, impalpable and unseen, yet without them the republic might not have been."

Photographer Says Powder on Nose Bad For Picture of Girls

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 21.—Will H. Towles of Washington, D. C., addressing the annual convention of the Photographers' association of the middle Atlantic states here today, declared that if girls want to look beautiful in a photograph they must not powder their faces. He said powder flattens the expression and obliterates the lines necessary to bring out beauty and character when posing for a photograph.

Would Require $75,000,000 To Outfit German Ships

Washington, Feb. 21.—Congress will have to appropriate funds for reconditioning the 34 German liners which the shipping board has been trying to sell, Chairman Page said, if the controversy which has arisen over the proposed sale of the ships results in legislation requiring their repair and operation by the government.

The chairman estimated that $75,000,000 would be needed to outfit the vessels, which have been in transport service.

Chairman Jones of the senate commerce committee reported favorably the bill postponing sale of the ships until congress has adopted permanent merchant marine legislation.

Associate Justice Bailey of the district supreme court has fixed at $10,000 the bond to be given by William Randolph Hearst, in his injunction proceedings against the shipping board to prevent the sale of the 30 former German liners.

Balk Every Effort for Compromise on Treaty

(Continued From First Page.) Of these, Senators Ashurst, Fletcher, Florida; Henderson, Nevada; Nugent, Idaho; had stood on all previous roll calls steadfastly against any qualification of the treaty.

One of the four, Senator Ashurst, announced to the senate beforehand his intention to go over to the reservationists. Having become convinced that ratification of some sort was a prime necessity, he said he was ready to vote "for any reservation or amendment that will ratify this treaty."

Have Majority in Senate

It was by a bare majority, 33 to 32, that the senate rejected the change in the reservation framed by republican leaders and submitted by Senator Lodge as a part of his compromise plan. Under the amendment either the president or a majority of congress could have given notice of the nation's withdrawal, a modification which Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, the administration leader, denounced as making the reservation more objectionable than it had been before.

Explaining his course in offering modifications, Senator Lodge declared that most of them were "unimportant" and reiterated his ultimatum to those democrats who neither the reservation to article 10 nor that relating to the Monroe doctrine ever could be materially changed. If the democrats still were determined to block ratification, unless there were material changes in those provisions, the majority leader said, then the senate's consideration of the treaty might as well be brought to an end.

Out for Some Days Now

Under present plans, the treaty will not be before the senate again for several days, the leaders having set aside the beginning of next week for consideration of the railroad bill and possibly tariff legislation. The new reservation on the list is the all-important article 10 provision, but once the treaty does come up again it is the intention to put this reservation over until others have been disposed of. In some quarters, however, it was suggested that these plans might be rearranged when the leaders had weighed today's developments and a show-down be asked for next week on article 10.

Dime Tip for Making Out Midnight Marriage Papers

Clerk Stubbendorf Drove Down In His "Gas Wagon" to Oblige Couple In Hurry—Didn't Wish to Take the 10 Cents, But Generous Bridegroom Insisted He Was "Welcome to It."

Herbert Stubbendorf was sitting in his carpet slippers at ease in his home at Tenth and Pierce streets the other night when the telephone rang. It was 10 o'clock.

"What's the chance of getting a marriage license tonight?" asked a man's voice.

"Well, it's pretty late," said Mr. Stubbendorf.

The young man admitted that, but said it would be an immense accommodation to him as he and his bride wanted to leave the city on a late train.

"Stubb," being an accommodating chap, said he would run down and make out the papers. He put on his shoes, got out his gasoline wagon and ran down to the court house, meeting the young man at the court house door.

Groping their way to the county judge's office, "Stubb" made out the license and delivered it. The bridegroom said he had arranged for a minister to "wait up" for the marriage.

"How much?" asked the bridegroom.

"Two dollars," said Mr. Stubbendorf.

The young man tendered a $10 bill and the marriage clerk gave him the change. Then the young man reached in his pocket, fished around a bit and brought out a dime.

"Buy yourself a good cigar," he said, "I appreciate the accommodation."

Mr. Stubbendorf insisted that the young man keep the dime, which he finally consented to do, although protesting that Mr. Stubbendorf was "welcome to it."

Ship Deadly Olives Into Middle West

(Continued From First Page.) five persons died after a dinner at a Canton, O., club. The deaths were traced to the olives. Several other cases have been reported with fatal results.

Prior to the discovery of the present case federal authorities, according to Mr. McLaughlin, believed the only dangerous olives on the market were the whole ripe olives packed in glass.

Investigators of the Department of Chemistry, Washington, uncovered a fatal case of olive poisoning at Kalispell, Mont., while investigating bacillus cases in New York. Their investigations traced the poison to the stuffed olives shipped from here.

Housewives are Warned

Mr. McLaughlin warned housewives to beware of preserved goods having an unpleasant odor. The affected olives have a noticeable smell and are usually soft. The germ, it is believed, can be killed by boiling canned goods and Mr. McLaughlin advises housewives to cook all food from tin or glass containers.

Of 64 cases of the poisoning reported since 1899, 54 have been in California, Mr. McLaughlin says. A number of the cases have been caused by home-canned fruits and vegetables.

"It is odd," Mr. McLaughlin adds, "that according to information available concerning one of the recent poison cases in the east a total of 2,045 cans and bottles of suspected California ripe olives were sent to a federal laboratory and that of all these containers only seven were found to contain bacillus botulinus."

Five Die at Java

Kalispell, Mont., Feb. 21.—Five persons died at Java, Mont., near here last November from eating ripe olives. They were Mrs. C. H. Stanley, three workmen and a woman guest at the Stanley home.

Mr. E. H. Stanley and his daughter were made seriously ill but recovered.

In Hand of Jobbers

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 21.—The three brands of stuffed olives named by the Illinois superintendent of food and dairies as having contained poisonous bacillus are jobbers' brands, packed in distribution cities of the middle-west, according to J. J. Hoey, secretary of the California Olive Growers' association.

Mr. Hoey said today some of the large eastern jobbers bought bulk olives and either canned or bottled them in their own establishments. He said that so far as he knew, the bacillus had not developed in anything but olives shipped from the growing sections in bulk.

MARTENS TELLS SENATORS HE IS REVOLUTIONIST

Declares Appointment as Soviet Ambassador Came to Him As Surprise.

Washington, Feb. 21.—Admitting he had been "a revolutionist in every country he had lived—Russia, Germany and Switzerland—Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, Russia soviet agent in the United States, told a senate investigating committee today that he still was a revolutionist.

"You mean here in the United States you are a revolutionist—now?" asked Chairman Moses.

"I am," was Martens' reply.

Wade Ellis, counsel for the committee asked Martens if he had ever opened "secret communication" with revolutionary activities here.

All Work in Open

"All my business has been done in the open," Martens said.

Martens said he had no connection of any kind with the Russian socialist federation.

"Don't you know that since you have been before this committee a message has been sent you by Dr. Misligh, treasurer of that society saying you had better admit you have been a member or it would go hard with you?" Mr. Ellis asked.

Martens denied he had received the message.

Named in New York

"Who nominated you for ambassador to the United States?" Mr. Ellis asked.

Martens said he didn't know, that the appointment had come to him as an entire surprise.

"Now isn't it a fact that the whole matter was fixed up by a committee in New York, of which you were a member, which sent the notice to Russia, where it was acted upon?"

Martens said that he did not know, but conceded that such a committee had been formed in New York.

Strike of Steamship Workers in Argentine Is Causing Big Loss

Buenos Aires, Feb. 21.—The strike of the steamship crews of the Mihanovich Steamship company, which has been in progress since last Saturday, is causing heavy losses to shippers, having virtually paralyzed Argentine commerce with the coast and River Plate ports.

Many perishable cargoes have been ruined, while others are piled up in the warehouses.

The company is demanding government intervention, its officials saying they are permitting 3,600 strikers to remain aboard their ships. If the men will not work Saturday, they will discharge them and lay up all the vessels of the line, numbering 280.

Berlin, Feb. 21.—Gustave Noske, minister of defense, in addressing the employes' councils and socialists' delegates at Hamburg, reiterated his previous statement that he would put down attempts on the part of the miners to introduce a six-hour day at this time or attempts to paralyze the railways.

"When thousands of railwaymen declare they hold the state's throat and can close it if they will, then I, as minister of defense, have no hesitation whatever in crushing them," Herr Noske declared.
