SWIFT TO SELL NEW EMPLOYEES STOCK IN FIRM

Head of Big Packing Company Urges Workers to Buy Securities With Savings.

Men and women who go to work for Swift & Co. during the year 1920 will have the opportunity of becoming more than mere employees, according to plans announced Monday by Louis F. Swift, president of the company.

A certain portion of the stock of the company has been set aside to be sold to new employees at par on a time payment plan and at present is selling about 20 per cent above par. "We believe that the man who owns his home is a better citizen than the man who rents," said Mr. Swift, "and on the same principle, the man who is a part owner of Swift & Co. will take a greater pride in the performance of the company.

Under this plan it is provided that after six months' service the new employee may purchase stock on a graduated plan based on salary. The maximum will be five shares. Two years are given the employee to pay for the shares.

The announcement is in line with advice to employees recently uttered by Mr. Swift in his annual address to shareholders. Mr. Swift urged employees to "get in debt"—not for clothing or for luxuries, but for some investment worth saving for. Many employees who were shareholders had told him, said Mr. Swift, that "getting in debt" in this way had turned out to be the best thing that they ever did financially.

A report presented at the annual meeting of shareholders of Swift & Company showed that the company, at the end of its fiscal year, had 10-000 employees as shareholders. Over 12,000 other employees have subscribed for shares under the 1919 employees' stock savings plan, making a total of 23,000 employees, who are, or soon will become, shareholders of record.

Federal Bureau and Stock Yards Heads in Row Over Daily Report

A controversy has arisen between officials of the South Side bureau of markets at the stock yards and officials of the stock yards company relating to the action of the company in furnishing dealers with an estimate of the daily receipts of live stock.

Last Thursday the bureau of markets' officers announced that they alone would assume the duties of furnishing information as to live stock receipts, which action was said to have aroused the ire of the stock yard's management, which has ever since the market was established furnished the trade early in the morning an estimate of the day's receipts.

Representatives of the live stock industry Monday issued a protest to the bureau of markets against their plan of handling the information relative to live stock receipts and pointed out that the trade has rights that the government must respect and that every packer, trader and newspaper is entitled to all information concerning stock and market conditions.

War Officially Declared On Licenseless Canines

republican convention, favors the election of Rev. Titus Lowe for delegate-at-large and the nomination of General Pershing for president. "The fact that Dr. Lowe so unqualifiedly endorses General Pershing is of more than passing interest and significance," said Mr. Herring. "Those who know Dr. Lowe—and who does not?—know that he combines the qualities of an all-American and of a humanitarian without limit of territory. Generally an idealist lacks some of the stuff that goes to make up a red-blooded American. Generally a 100 per cent American is a little lacking in vision for world-wide betterment.

"The Omaha minister is not only a 100 per cent American; he is also a man of world-wide vision; and, in view of the fact that he has made a painstaking study of the life of General Pershing, has had exceptional opportunities for knowing the man, and vouches for his fitness for the high office of president of the United States, Dr. Lowe's coming out in favor of the great soldier's nomination by the Chicago convention cannot fail to have a compelling influence with all of us when we come to vote at the April primaries.
