Lancaster, Pa.—"I was weak and run down, had pains in my head, back mannan and stomach all the time, and pains. I had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me, so my mother got me to try it again, and I am now feeling better than I have for years. We were married sixen years and had no children, but now we have a fine big boy and we always call him our 'Pinkham' boy, The doctor was afraid of my case as I was 41 years old when the boy was bern, but I came through all right. You can use this as a testimonial if you wish and I will certainly write to any one who writes to me about it."

—Mrs. MARGARET G. HAVERCAMP,

MAHANS are much interested in the appearance of the Marmein sisters at the Orpheum this week. These actresses have visited here on a number of occasions with their aunt, Mrs. C. F. McGrew. Their mother and little sister. Phyllis, are traveling with them. The most unusual fact about their entire act is that the costumes and scenery for the dances are designed by themselves, and the arrangement of steps is entirely their Little Phyllis, who has seen dancing all her life, is talented in this line, but her ambition is to be a inger. While her older sisters were discussing the benefits of dancing Monday afternoon she was busily experimenting with the makeup. She tried the different shades of rouge and lip stick, and when finshed demanded the approval of Miriam Marmein.

Shaking her long golden curls as she studied herself in the mirror, she said, "Goody, it's a lot better today. Then I can eat supper in the big dining room at the hotel to-night, can't I, mother?" The request being granted, her joy knew no bounds and she twirled and whirled on her toes, imitating the lance steps of her sisters.

Will Cressy of Cressy and Dayne, also at the Orpheum, is planning to give a special performance Saturday morning for a number of orphaned children. When the Marmein sisters heard of this they volunteered to help, and will give a new Bluebird dance which they are originating. "Oh no, we never have done it, but we completed our costumes a few days ago and we have the general idea in mind. Of course, we will have to work to complete the number for Saturday, but we shall like to do it," they said in one

RE women going to be broad or narrow as they grow in political life? Will they allow party affiliation to influence them in their study clubs and similar non-political organizations? An answer comes from the political and social science department of the Omaha Woman's club in its refusal Mon-Bailey as department leader. "Your department leader should be non-partisan," said Mrs. Bailey, and as I am now publicly identified with the democratic party I feel it my duty to resign." Her resignation was not accepted. It was pointed out that henceforth all the members would be partisan and it was the consensus of opinion that identification with either party should in no way affect the political and social science departwere concerned.

A plea was made by Dr. Jennie Callfas, for women to register in the democratic party for the purpose of getting dry representatives on the dry amendment in the constitution and keep it there, join the democratic party and help elect Mrs. E. B. Towle. It is not too late for hose who have already registered republican, and are not very strong in their convictions, to change to the democratic party."

In my childhood and early girlhood I had two or three times witnessed an explosion of the temper Jack usually kept under iron control. It was an exhibition I had no desire to witness again. As my thoughts flashed back for an instant to those long ago years I remembered another hing, that these infrequent rages of Jack's were usually about imaginary grievances, such as obsessed him to-day, and that he would herocally re-Alpha Phi sorority will meet day, and that he would herocally re-Wednesday at the home of Miss press his temper many times when Katherine Sturtevant, 1319 Thirty- there was real reason for an exlosion of it.

She started violently, and I saw a swift little tremor of humiliation and dismay pass over her face. I knew that they had planned to stay for several days, knew that this sud-den decision of Jack's, born of his temper and jealousy, was as much a blow to her as if he had actually struck her.

But she rallied her self-possession gamely, opened her lips in what I have no doubt was acquiescence cleverly worded to shield her husband as much as possible, when there came an interruption as unexpected as it was welcome.

With the stately grace that makes her always the very picture of the traditional grande dame, Harriet Braithwaite came up to Jack, inter-posing herself so skilfully between Katherine and himself that he had no chance to do anything save give her his undivided attention. "In that case," she said smoothly,

"I must hasten to say to you some-thing that cannot be delayed. Will you please come with me?"

Blood-Iron Phosphate For Weak, Thin Folks

Weak, thin, nervous people almost invariably owe their condition to lack of phosphate in the nerves and look of iron in the blood. One of the surest, quickest and safest ways in which to make up the deficiency is to take with each meal a five-grain tablet of digestible phosphate and iron known among druggists here as Blood-Iron Phosphate; because it supplies iron to the blood as well as phosphate to the nervous system. People who have tried it say that one five-grain tablet taken with each meal quickly restores depleted nervous energy, enriches the blood, increases strength, vitality and endurance, and those who are too thin usually put on pounds of solid stay-there flesh in a short time. Inasmuch as Sherman McConnell and all other druggists are authorized to sell Blood-Iron Phosphate inder a guarantee of satisfaction or money back, every thin, weak, nervous or anemic man or woman should give it a trial wihout delay.

Important—Blood-Iron Phosphate is sold only in original packages, containing
