

Clubdom

There are three recognized nation-wide groups of organized women; federated clubs, what has been the suffrage group and business women's organizations. We have heard more in the past of the first two groups. We shall hear more and more of the third.

Omaha has a business woman's club of 100 members. During the past year they have presented strong weekly programs covering a creditable variety of subjects.

It may be of interest here to consider one of the strongest of such clubs in the country, the Minneapolis Business Woman's club, whose new home was formally opened Saturday. Within less than a year, since a preliminary meeting for the organization of the club, more than 1,700 members have been registered and a home with all the conveniences of an up-to-date club is ready. The home includes two entire floors. One floor is given over to recreational purposes, such as billiards and bowling; adjacent to the recreation rooms are rest rooms, shower baths, dressing rooms, etc. On the main floor are the large lounge, the dining room, the office of the executive secretary, the men's reception room, the private dining room, kitchen, pantries and other household sanctuaries.

It is planned to open a regular dining room service about April 1. Luncheon, teas and dinners will be served daily except Sundays.

New Officers.

The annual election of officers of the North Side Presbyterian Church Aid society was held Friday at the home of Rev. D. E. Jenkins. The new officers are: Mrs. Albert N. Eaton, president; Mrs. F. K. Spaulding, first vice president; Mrs. T. F. McGill, second vice president; Mrs. J. D. Wallace, secretary, and Mrs. Florence Fales, treasurer.

Church Program.

A program will be given by Grace Methodist church, South Side, Tuesday evening. The West Sisters' string quartet and Grace Poole-Steinberg will give several numbers.

Omaha Woman's Club.

The musical department, of which Mrs. W. E. Shafer is leader, assisted by an instrumental quintet, will give a program at the open day meeting of the Omaha Woman's club Monday, at 2:30 p. m., in the Y. W. C. A. The quintet includes Mrs. E. A. Reese, violin; Miss Elsa Reese, viola; Mrs. Martin Donlon, cello; Mr. O. W. Neble, flute; and Mr. E. A. Reese, piano. Three song groups will be given by the Woman's Club chorus, and the quintet will play two numbers. The program is under the direction of Henry G. Cox.

The music department will also give a concert April 29. A committee has been appointed to take charge of the ticket sale, including Mrs. C. K. Smith, chairman; Mrs. Wayne Halbrook, secretary; Mrs. C. T. Kountze, Mrs. E. A. Mack, Mrs. E. H. Ward, Mrs. W. J. Nash, Mrs. Louis Leppke and Miss Lpa Howard.

The housewives of Pelham Manor, a restricted residence district of New York City, from which all stores are barred, have solved their own shopping problem by installing a co-operative grocery and notion store.

Committee Head

Mrs. Frank Judson

Big plans are being made for the development of the Y. W. C. A. Camp Brewster for the season of 1920. The grounds will be improved and more room provided for the increasing number of girls who take advantage of this delightful summer camp. Mrs. Frank Judson is chairman of the enterprising committee which is working faithfully and intelligently to make Brewster the finest inland camp of its kind in America. There is real need for such a place.

Members of the Camp Brewster committee with Mrs. Judson are: Mesdames C. T. Kountze, W. J. Hynes, Blanche Patterson, George A. Roberts, John R. Tally, A. L. Reed, Henry Wyman, Charles Offutt, Francis Brogan, Wilson Lowe, George A. Joslyn, John E. Brandeis, David A. Baum, Walter Head, G. W. Wattles, W. R. McKeen and John W. Towle. Miss Clara M. Brewster is Y. W. C. A. director for the camp.

Broken Glass.

If a piece of woolen cloth is placed on the floor where glass has been broken, the tiny particles will stick to it—almost impossible to get them with a broom.

Sealing Wax a New Fad

Sealing wax art is the newest fad. It was said to have been discovered by a little girl!

As beads are all the rage, sealing wax is now used very inexpensively to create them. And the finished product, even though made at home, can rival many of the colorful and rather expensive chains shown in the smart little specialty shops. With a little originality and contriving the beauty and intricacy of the beads and designs of the popular Galalith Parisian necklaces can be imitated, for most every one has a box of sealing wax left over from the days when sealing a letter with a monogrammed wax seal was considered distinctive.

The few other tools needed for making the sealing wax beads for a necklace are a small alcohol lamp, knitting needle, a piece of wire and a yard of thin cord or braid.

Then you are ready to design your own beads. Bits of wire used as a foundation for pendant effects. And ready made beads can be combined alternately with the sealing wax ones, if desired to get some new effect. To get charming varicolored sealing wax beads hold wax of one color—say apricot—near the heat and then press it on the needle (which makes the hole through which to string it) and then heat a tiny piece of black over the alcohol lamp and press it on the apricot colored bead. Then hold the combination over the heat a third time and the black will run into the apricot in the prettiest way imaginable. By this same method other color combinations can be secured.

Other articles that are fashioned by the clever, from sealing wax include hampans and artificial flowers, such as the little French bouquets used in trimming hats and furs. Cherries, grapes and all sorts of little berries and buds are easy to create, and the effect is the more realistic when a few leaves from the milliners are combined with the glossy sealing wax blooms. Even beautiful vases are made by decorating some of the plain pottery ones with varicolored wax fused over a flame and applied say, to a jar of dull blue, green or gray.

Designs for decorating vases most often imitate flowers or the splash of shaded effects seen on two or three toned potteries. For example, a gray bowl, will have violet sealing wax running down from the top in irregular rays.

Utah Convention Is to Have Many Women Delegates.

A strong plea for proper recognition of women in the coming presidential campaign and a brief outline of the organization of republican women throughout the state were the features of the session of the Utah republican state central committee which met in Salt Lake recently to decide upon the date and place for holding the convention for the selection of delegates to the national convention at Chicago on June 8. May 3 was the date set and the convention will meet in Price. The convention will be attended by many women delegates, and Mrs. Justine R. Davis, vice chairman of the republican state central committee, is anxious that some, at least, of the delegates and alternates chosen be women. Utah's republican women are thoroughly organized and very enthusiastic, and Mrs. Davis predicts an overwhelming vote of the women of the state. She appealed for complete harmony in the ranks of republicans and asked for due recognition of the women in all future activities.

Final details of the convention will be worked out later, and further plans will be discussed.

Folk Theatre Player

Colton Pipeless Heating Systems

Burn the soot and smoke that cause so much trouble with ordinary furnaces when soft coal is used.

Colton Pipeless Furnaces were designed for soft coal by heating engineers of broad experience. Oxygen is admitted to the fire pot through eight-inch air blast slots on the inside. Oxygen is also admitted to the gases that are usually allowed to escape up the chimney.

These are two prominent reasons why the Colton Pipeless Heating System saves a third or more of the fuel bill over ordinary furnaces or stoves. Colton Furnaces are designed with vertical lines, which make them self-cleaning. The combustion chamber is moulded in curves, doubling the radiating surface and assuring the limit of efficiency.

The inner casing is double with dead air space, which has a pronounced influence in speeding the circulation of the warm and moistened air to the living rooms, while keeping the cellar cool.

Colton Pipeless Heating Systems are easily installed in old homes without tearing up floors or chopping walls. The saving in fuel will pay for the Colton System in a short time and it will continue to return a handsome profit year after year.

Call now and let us demonstrate the many superior features of the Colton Pipeless System, which pioneered the field and is in satisfactory use in more than five thousand homes.

This cut shows the method by which the Colton Pipeless Heating System warms the entire home for a single combustion of the fuel used in the furnace. The Colton employs the vacuum system and circulation air to every room in the house without pipes.
