Interview Published in Bee Brings Many Suggestions To Congressman McLaughlin.

Washington, March 13. (Special clegram) Congressman McLaugh said that the interview recently bublished with hiar in The Bee with reference to the newspant paper situation had brought him many letters of inquiry and suggestions from publishers and newspaper associa-tions in all parts of the United States, which convinces the member from the Fourth district that there is urgent need for relief.

George S. Foxworthy, manager of Western Newspaper Union ofin Omaha, writes that the print paper situation is of vital importance to newspapers in the small towns, especially those located in the mid-

Daring, Young, and Beautiful Widow of Notorious Leader of Gunman Who Was Killed in Fierce Gun Battle by Dying Detective Finally Arraigned to Face Charges of Conspiracy to Commit Murder And Robbery-Life Story Rivals Dime Novel.

By NED E. WILLIAMS.

After athree-year career of crime horthwest Iowa as queen of a daring gang of crooks and gunmen organized by her husband, a notorious bandit chief, Mae Yetzer Burzette, 24 years old, whose striking beauty gained her a reputation misioux City's underworld, has been indicted by a grand jury and is in custody awaiting trial on a charge

Police detectives and state agents have never been able to uncover facts regarding the early life of the attractive gangster queen. It is known that she is a Jewess and that she lived in Chicago prior to her rrival in Sioux City three years ago. It is said that she has a divorced husband and two children in Chicago, but no further details are

The daring young beauty first came to the attention of Sioux City police in September, 1917, when she was arrested on a charge of mainthining a disorderly house. She was rearrested at frequent intervals thereafter on various occasions, but never served jail or prison sentences for convictions on any charge.
