

BRIGHT COLORS PREDOMINATE IN SPRING STYLES

Formal Opening of Fashion Week in Omaha Marked by Exhibits of Moderate Priced Articles.

The formal opening of spring fashion week in downtown retail stores yesterday was marked by an exceptionally large display of the more moderate priced articles.

This tendency is general throughout the country, and is in furtherance of the policy of advocating moderation in buying, local merchants say.

Colors are even more brilliant this spring than last. Brown and white is generally accepted as one of the more popular combinations.

Sport hats to match sweaters are on display in great profusion. A marked Chinese influence predominates in many hat displays.

Fascinatingly colored sweaters, some Peacock blue, some rose, gold, orchid and others in the new jade green form bright spots in the spring displays.

And wonders will never cease—hats to match these sweaters are on display at prices ranging from $10 to $20.

In the most expensive hats the glistering laces, slipper straps, patent leather and glittering rhinestone with abruptly turned brims and brilliant trimmings, are found.

Almost irresistible is the turban head and of English milan, jet beads and chintilly lace, which is featured in one large display.

The 1920 manufacturing census of Omaha will start just as soon as a local agent can be appointed.

William M. Crain, special agent of the Department of Commerce, bureau of manufacturing, arrived in Omaha yesterday to make the appointment.

J. M. Gillan, industrial commissioner of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce, will assist in the selection of the local special agent for the Omaha district.

"I estimate that it will take from two to four months to complete the manufacturing census of this district," says Mr. Crain.

Blanks have been mailed to all manufacturers and they can cooperate in this work very effectively by having the schedules prepared in advance of the agent's visit.

POSTPONE SUIT TO STOP PAVING OF COUNTY ROAD

Amended Petition Will Be Filed With Reasons Why Commissioners Should Keep Pledge.

Hearing of the injunction suit to stop the Douglas county commissioners and the Allied Contractors, Inc. from proceeding to pave 12 miles of the highway.

The original petition asked for only a temporary injunction. If this had been granted the plaintiff in the case and his backers would have had to put up a bond of more than $1,000,000.

The question will be settled finally in the argument for permanent injunction, unless the losing side appeals to the supreme court.

Eight of the more hardy members of the Board of Education climbed wearily up six flights of city hall stairs and met for two hours with only flickering candle light for illumination.

The board voted unanimously to spend $350,000 in remodeling the Central High school building.

The remodeling, which is made necessary by the grading of Dodge and Twentieth streets, includes the rearranging of curbs, approaches and walls of the grounds, and the finishing of rooms in the basement of the building to be used as classrooms.

The salaries of janitors will be increased 10 per cent April 1, it was decided. This will mean a total increase of about $10,000.

It was also decided that the schools of the city would have no spring vacation.

In a compilation of figures furnished each week by the bureau of census of the United States Department of Commerce and Labor, Omaha and St. Paul, Minn., lead a list of cities with more than 100,000 population for low mortality rate during December, January and February.

Omaha's rate per thousand of population for that period was 15.63, as against 15.57 for St. Paul, the difference between these two cities being fractional.

The average for all cities of more than 100,000 was 19.57, which shows that Omaha was considerably below the average.

City Commissioner Ringer and Dr. J. F. Edwards, health commissioner, assure that this shows conclusively that Omaha is a healthy city.

The averages for a few other cities follow: Kansas City, 25.74; Minneapolis, 16.54; St. Louis, 19.94; Chicago, 19.31; New York, 20.85; Los Angeles, 16.94; San Francisco, 20.97; Columbus, 22.47; Atlanta, 21.09; Birmingham, 18; Indianapolis, 26.62.

Opening of Air Mail Service Here Postponed Indefinitely

Opening of the Omaha-Chicago aerial mail service, scheduled to start yesterday, has been postponed indefinitely, Postmaster C. E. Fanning announced.

He has received no further information from W. J. McCandless, superintendent of the Omaha-Chicago division, who proclaimed March 15 the starting date, before leaving here two weeks ago for Cleveland and New York to speed up work on regular flights.

Postmaster Fanning believes there has been unexpected delay in completion of work on the eight planes, making it impossible for them to arrive here for the scheduled opening of the service today.

BUSINESS MEN WARNED TO USE THINKING POWER

Rabbi Louis Bernstein of St. Joseph Addresses Advertising-Selling League.

"The business man of today is losing his individuality by allowing the women of the country to do all of the thinking," declared Rabbi Louis Bernstein of St. Joseph, Mo., in a talk on "The New-Business" at the meeting of the Advertising-Selling League in the Hotel Fontenelle last night.

"The business men of America should apply their Sunday ethics on week days as well as on Sunday. They should not leave the ethics of the family entirely in the name of their wives. No churches of any religion could be run without business men neither could they run if they depended on the men for a congregation."

Rabbi Bernstein urged that the American people, commonly divided into two classes, capitalist and laborer, get closer together. The interests of both are mutual and compulsory arbitration and industrial courts should not be necessary to affect an understanding, he declared.

He advocated the appointment of a minister of health in the national cabinet and the appointment of a similar inspector in every city and town in the country.

J. N. Maasen, professor of psychology at the University of Omaha, applied the army intelligence test to members of the league as a closing feature of the evening. The results of the tests, which have been given to several other business organizations of the city, will be announced at the next meeting of the league.

Governor Takes to Voters Court Order Against Code

Campaign to Win Public Approval Will Begin in Omaha Friday Evening—McKelvie Says He'll "Take the Lid Off" Then—Fire Warden Creates Havoc by Returning Salary Increase.

Governor McKelvie's campaign to win public approval for the reorganization of the state government under the civil administrative code, subjected to a referendum vote next November by Saturday's order of the state supreme court will begin in Omaha Friday evening.

In a statement issued at Lincoln yesterday, the governor declared that he will follow the court order without further litigation, even if that means the restoration of the old form of administration pending the people's vote in November. But he declared, he will make a vigorous fight for the voters' favor in every corner of the state.

In Omaha Friday, he says, he will "take the lid off."

Returns Salary Raise. Meanwhile Ed Beach, state fire warden, set a precedent yesterday which is causing other state officials much embarrassment. Beach's salary was raised $50 by the code law.

He has returned this amount to the state treasury declaring he does not wish to profit by a law which the court says is inoperative. Other officials, whose salaries were raised hundreds of dollars, where Beach's was advanced $50, are hurrahing over his happy thought.

The governor's statement follows: "The matter of carrying on the state's business, which has been guided by the order of the court whether that be for a continuation of the code or a return to the old plan. But so far as concerns the campaign for good government, as it has been started under the code, I cannot emphasize too strongly that I have only started to fight. I expect to carry this campaign into every corner of the state and let the people know that the opposition to the code has come principally through the old machine gang that was put out of business at the last general election and that it is determined to reinstate itself at any cost."

Campaign of Misrepresentation. "Many honest, well-meaning people have been opposed to the code. This has come about through the campaign of misrepresentation and bitter vilification that has been carried against it by the old machine. Now, however, that the people have begun to learn through its operation and through the dissemination of correct information that the code is only the cabinet form of government and relieves the state of the burden of inefficiency and waste that it has had to bear in the past, they are rapidly coming to its support."

"My first meeting of importance will be held in Omaha at the Rometel hotel next Friday night, the 19th, and to state it frankly, I expect to take off the lid so that all who are interested in good government may know just what has been accomplished under the code and who the forces are that are most vigorously opposed to it."

"I propose to fight to the last ditch to preserve for Nebraska the plan of administration that has worked so well in Illinois and that has either been adopted, or recommended for adoption, in 15 other states."

The attraction at the Brandeis theater Sunday night, March 21, for one performance only will be Gus Arnheim's musical comedy, "The Intoxicating Comedy of George Wilson."

Mabel Garrison soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, and John Quinn, baritone, are coming to the Brandeis theater in joint recital on Thursday evening, March 18, under the auspices of the Tuesday Morning Musical club.
